STRAY THOUGHTS.

I love the bright and cheerful sky,
The woodland's shady dell,
The tow'ring mount and rocky cliff,
The dark, deserted cell.
I love a bold and fearless heart,
A breast that's free from guile,
The merry laugh—but greater far,
I love true friendship's smile.

I love the ocean's heaving breast,
Its sparkling, dashing foam;
The gentle spring, whose crystal tears
Do mark the steamlet's home.
I love them all—but give to me
A true and steadfast hand;
An honest heart, whose every pulse
Cements pure friendship's band.

I love a friend—yes—truly, where
Deceit has ne'er been known,
Where whisper'd words of hallow'd truth
Breathe accents all their own.
A friend! The glow that melts the heart
To deeds of untold love,
And leads its sister spirit on
To joy and peace above.

A CHAT ABOUT CARPETS.

Everybody, now-a-days, has carpets, and generally "bought" carpets, as they used to be called when we were young, to distinguish them from rag carpets and other carpets of home-made manufacture. Most persons, at least most women, can distinguish the different varieties of carpets at sight, and tell you what is ingrain and which imperial, which Brussels and which tapestry, and which Wilton and which Axminster. Yet we venture to say few, even of the ladies, understand how they are made to look and wear so differently—in a word, the process of their manufacture.

Carpets originated in Persia. That country was long considered as producing the finest carpets in the world. Even to this day the Persian carpets—and the same may be said of the Turkish—rival, if they do not excel, the most famous carpets of Europe, in the harmony of their colors. The patterns are indeed grotesque, as may be seen at any carpet store, for the English manufacturers turn out a very good imitation, which is much used for dining rooms, or other apartments where it is desirable to have the carpets covered. But these imitations hardly do justice to the colors of the original. A real Persian is as brilliant as it is harmonious. At the great exhibition in London the superiority of the oriental carpets, in color, over those of Western Europe, was remarked by everybody.

If you look at the ordinary velvet carpets you find the back, instead of presenting the same pattern as the front—which the ingrain does—to be apparently a web of nothing but hemp. The process of making velvet carpets in this way is of comparatively new invention, and has contributed more than anything else to that reduction in the price of such fabrics which has been witnessed within the past twenty years. In these carpets the woof is all worked up on the front, and the hempen threads all thrown upon the back; hence they can be manufactured at a greater economy than Kidderminster carpets, in which, though they also have a velvet surface, the tread is carried from back to front, and from front to back.—The latter description of carpets are necessarily made of fine wool, and consequently are much the softest, wear longer, and do not whiten in the seams. But, on the other hand, they cost considerably more, nor can they be made with so many colors, being women on a Jacquard loom. Partly from their real superiority, but partly from their cost rendering them rarer, they are more fashionable than the ordinary velvet carpets. It is doubtful, however, whether they are intrinsically worth the difference they cost. But from the comparatively few colors employed in them they are less gaudy than their cheaper rivals, and therefore more liked by persons of subdued tastes and refined culture.

The finest European carpets, according to Dr. Ure, are made at the Gobelens, Paris, to which the famous manufactory of the Savonneire has been transported. The royal Wilton carpets are also very beautiful. In these the pile is raised higher than in the ordinary Wilton. All Wilton, Kidderminster and velvet carpets have the pile cut. In the imperial Brussels the pile is raised above the ground, and the pile of the figure cut; but the ground is uncut. In the ordinary Brussels the pile is left uncut, both in figure and ground. The costly rugs, exhibited at carpet stores, on which the figures are delineated almost as delicate as in a painting, are not woven but the threads are laid horizontally, one by one as straw in an ostler's box, so that their ends form the pattern, they are then pressed tightly, and the surface sheared even, when the cloth, which is to form the back, is glued to it, the whole mass of threads pushed out to the height of the intended pile, and then sheared off again; this process is repeated till as many rugs are manufactured as the length of the threads will permit. People, when they admire these beautiful rugs, little think that they are pushed out, one by one, outwards, like hay in a straw-cutting machine.

The manufacture of carpets in America is already an extensive and lucrative business. A great many carpets, sold as English, are really American; and some of them are inferior to the imported. But we are not compelled to go abroad still for the most elegant carpets, there being, as yet, neither the skill to make such carpets here, nor the patronage to warrant employing capital in their manufacture.

A SHARP BOY.—The Rutland (Vt.) Herald, says that on the last night of the Vermont Legislature session, while the school bill was under discussion, a member complained that school boys had lost their politeness and respect. Mr. Bartlett, of Lyndon, said, "I acknowledge the truth of the gentleman's remarks. I was once forced to take off my catskin cap to every passer-by. A few years since I was riding through Orleans county in a sleigh, and overtook a boy who had attained the age of nine years. He stepped out of the road to let me pass. There he stood upon the crust—erect, bold and aspiring. He did not propose to doff his beaver—not he. Said I, "My lad, you should always take off your hat to a gentleman." Said he, "I always do."

TWO FARMS
FOR SALE.

The subscriber will sell at public sale, at the Court House door in the Town of Cambridge, on MONDAY the 29th of June next, two valuable Farms—one in Blackwater, the other situated on the road leading from Cambridge to Church Creek.

The Farm on the road to Church Creek contains 250 Acres, more or less,

about 60 acres of which is in a good state of cultivation; the other well set in

Cord Wood and Timber.

The buildings are in excellent repair. There is a good DWELLING HOUSE, BARN, STABLES, CARRIAGE HOUSE, WORK HOUSE, in fact, every building necessary on a farm. It is near the Town of Cambridge and immediately on Fishing Creek, and is beautifully situated. There is a fine well of water on the farm. This river produces fine fish, oysters and wild fowl in their season.—Any one wishing to examine the premises will please call on Mr. Moore on the farm who will show them the line, &c.

The other farm is situated on the BLACKWATER ROAD leading from Cambridge to the Little Blackwater Bridge, and about four miles from CAMBRIDGE. The land is very susceptible of improvement, and the resources on the farm are abundant to put it in a fine state of cultivation. This tract contains about one half of which is under cultivation; the residue is well set in CORD WOOD and

180 ACRES,

SHIP TIMBER.

It is useless to say more; persons wishing to purchase will please call and examine the premises.

Terms one fourth Cash, the balance in 1, 2 and 3 years, with approved security.

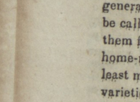
VALUABLE RESIDENCE
AND BUSINESS STAND
FOR SALE,



The subscriber intending to remove from VIENNA, will sell at Private Sale, on accommodating terms, all the REAL ESTATE which he owns in said town.

This property consists of a new and comfortable

DWELLING HOUSE,

STORE HOUSE, and HOUSE occupied as a Tailor's Shop, with a large and productive Garden in the rear, and a Wharf in good order, fronting about 100 feet on the River and accessible at all times to Vessels of the largest size, with a Ware house, Granary and Stable upon it.

The Dwelling House is two Stories high, with a dry Cellar under it and a back building. It contains in the main building, seven rooms of good size, including two in the Garret, and is built of the best materials. The other buildings are all in good repair.

The location of this property near the centre of the town, immediately upon the River and in a productive and improved neighborhood, makes it one of the most eligible stands for the Mercantile or Boating business on the Eastern Shore. Grain and Lumber of all descriptions can be had in abundance.

Terms and further particulars can be ascertained from the subscriber.

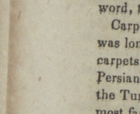
BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE,
NEAR CAMBRIDGE,
FOR SALE,



The subscriber, intending to move away, will sell the valuable tract of LAND, upon which he resides. The Plantation is well located on the county road, and about 1½ miles from CAMBRIDGE, and the soil is adapted to Wheat or Corn. An excellent well of never failing water. There is a public road, leading to the river, which is only distant about ½ mile. The Residence is also convenient to mills for grinding or sawing, and there is no more beautiful place in the county. The tract contains with an ample supply of TIMBER. The arable land has been much improved and is in fair order and the DWELLING HOUSE and outbuildings in tolerable condition. It is a good stand for a STORE—and the title beyond dispute.

139 ACRES,

The terms of sale are ½ cash, the residue on a credit of 12 months, with interest, amply secured. If not sold at private sale before the 2nd Monday in June next, it will on that day, be offered at public sale, at the Court House door, at the hour of 12 o'clock, M.

Notice to Creditors.

Estate of John Jones, Deceased.

DORCHESTER COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT, May 11th, 1857.

ON application of Frances Jones and Francis H. Jones, adm'rs. of John Jones, late of Dorchester county, dec'd., it is ordered that they give the notice required by law for all creditors to exhibit their claims against the said deceased's estate, and that they cause the same to be published once in each week, for the space of three successive weeks, in the "Cambridge Democrat," a paper selected by them.

In Testimony that the foregoing is truly copied from the minutes of the proceedings of Dorchester County Orphans' Court, I have (L. S.) hereunto set my name and the seal of my office affixed this 11th day of May, in the year of our Lord, 1857.

THOMAS H. HICKS,
Register of Wills, Dorchester County.

In compliance with the above order, this is to give notice, that the subscribers of Dorchester county, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Dorchester county, in Maryland, letters of administration on the personal estate of John Jones, late of Dorchester county, deceased. All persons having claims against the said deceased, are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof to the subscribers, on or before the 11th day of Nov. next, or they may be otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate.

Given under my hand this 11th day of May 1857.

"No Such Word as Fail."
A RESISTLESS REMEDY.
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

CIRCULAR TO THE SICK.

The first hospital surgeons and medical publicists of Europe admit the unparalleled anti-inflammatory and healing properties of this Ointment; Governments sanction its use in their naval and military services, and the masses in this country and throughout the world repose the utmost confidence in its curative properties. It penetrates the sources of inflammation and corruption which underlie the external evidences of disease, and neutralize the fiery elements which feed and exasperate the malady.

RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, ERYSIPELAS.

These are among the most terrible and agonizing diseases of the muscles, the fleshy fibre and the skin; yet in their worst forms, and when seemingly incurable, they invariably disappear under a persevering application of this soothing, healing, antidote to pain and inflammation

SALT RHEUM, FEVER SORES, STIFF JOINTS.

In cases of Salt Rheum, where medical waters, lotions, and every recipe of the pharmacopœa have proved useless, the Ointment will accomplish a thorough cure. Fever Sores heal quickly under its influence, and its relaxing effect upon contracted sinews is truly wonderful.

DISCHARGING ULCERS.

A most remarkable and happy change is produced in the appearance of malignant ulcers after a few applications of this Ointment. The surrounding redness vanishes, and granules of healthy flesh begin to take the place of the discharged matter. This process goes on more or less rapidly, until the orifice is filled up with sound material, and the ulcer radically cured.

A WORD TO MOTHERS.

The young are the most frequent sufferers from external injuries, and therefore every mother should have this healing preparation constantly at hand. It is an absolute specific for sore breasts, and quickly removes the encrusted sores which sometimes disfigure the heads and faces of children.

SIGNIFICANT FACTS.

This Ontment is universally used on board the Atlantic and Pacific whaling fleet as a cure for scorbutic affections and as the best possible remedy for wounds and bruises. Large supplies of it have recently been ordered by the Sultan of Turkey for hospital purposes.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions, Burns, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Fistula, Gout, Lumbago, Mercurial Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Swelled Glands, Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Sore Heads, Sore Throats, Sores of all kinds, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Tetter, Ulcers, Venereal Sores and Wounds of all kinds.

Sold at the Manufactories of Professor HOLLOWAY, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and 244 Strand, London, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62½ cents and $1 each.

☞There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B. Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

CAUTION!

None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernable as a water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

THE TWO WORLDS.

BY MRS. LINA STEWART.

Some say that this world is a Paradise,
With its myriad rills and flowers;
With its birds of song and its azure skies,
And its softening moonlight hours;
And they say to the music of tinkling streams
Our lives may pass in delicious dreams,
In this fairy world!

They tell us of social ties that bind
Warm hearts in a strong, pure link,
Of flowers of feeling and thought that bloom
On the stream of affection's brink;
And they'd lure us, too, to be charmed awhile
By the tunlight scenes and the witching smile
Of this lovely world!

But its tempting scenes and haunts of bliss,
And flowers of brilliant dyes,
Are types of a fairer world than this,
Of a land beyond the skies,
Where birds flit gaily on pinions bright,
And all is glorious, for all is light,
In that upper world!

Away, away from this charming world,
From this land of waking dreams,
Our hearts reach out toward that fairer realm,
To its brighter skies and streams;
To which the loveliest things that grow
In this lower world are but paltry show.
Oh! that heavenly world!

Yet it seems sometimes that the two worlds meet,
Or the sundering veil's so thin
That the spirits e'en in the lower world
The glories may view within
That upper world of delight and song,
And catch the tones of the angel throng,
In that blissful world!

Who, who would stay for a moment here,
When the Lord of that world says come?
Who, who would cling to this lower sphere,
When call'd to that brighter home?
Ah! many, many at that glad word
Will haste with joy to obey their Lord,
In that glorious world!

Philadelphia, 1857.

Select Story.

THE GHOST RAISER.

My uncle Beagly, who commenced his commercial career very early in the present century as a bagman, will tell stories. Among them he tells his singular ghost story so often that I am heartily tired of it. In self-defence, therefore, I publish the tale, in order that when next the good, kind old gentleman, offers us with it, everybody may say they know it. I remember every word of it.

One fine autumn evening, about forty years ago, I was travelling on horseback from Shrewsbury to Chester. I felt tolerably tired, and was beginning to look out for some snug wayside inn where I might pass the night when a sudden and violent thunder storm came on. My horse terrified by the lightning, fairly took the bridle between his teeth, and started off with me at full gallop through the lanes and cross-roads, until at length I managed to pull him up, just near the door of a neat looking country inn.

"Well," thought I, "there was wit in your madness old boy, since it brought us to this comfortable refuge."

And alighting, I gave him in charge to the stout farmer's boy, who acted as hostler. The inn kitchen, which was also the guest room, was large, clean, neat and comfortable—very like the pleasant hostelry described by Isaac Walton. There were several travellers already in the room—probably, like myself, driven there for shelter—and they were all warming themselves by the blazing fire, while waiting for supper. I joined the party. Presently, being summoned by the hostess, we all sat down twelve in number to a smoking repast of bacon and eggs, corned beef, and carrots, and stewed hare.

The conversation naturally turned on the mishap occasioned by the storm, of which every one seemed to have his full share. One had been thrown off his horse; another driving in a gig had been upset into a muddy dyke; all had got a thorough wetting, and agreed unanimously that it was dreadful weather—a regular witches' sabbath.

"Witches and ghosts prefer for their sabbath a fine moonlight to such weather as this!"

These words were uttered in a solemn tone, and with strange emphasis, by one of the company. He was a tall, dark
