POLITICAL.

THE WHIGS AND THE STATE'S EMBARRASSMENTS.

Our ingenuity is completely puzzled to know what language to employ in order to convey a proper conception of our indignation, when we witness with what sang-froid a Whig will assert that the Democrats are equally at fault with themselves in bringing about the onerous debt under which the State of Maryland is now groaning. We detest—we scorn the unblushing effrontery of those who know better, and pity the ignorance of those who are led astray by the wily machinations of those who are always "lying in wait to decieve." Whenever a Democrat charges the fact upon a Whig that it was a measure of his party which plunged the State recklessly into this enormous debt he is immediately told that is was no more a Whig measure than it was a Democratic measure.

In their craftiness, the Whigs when about to undertake a scheme of doubtful result, are generally too successful in wheedling and cajoling some few unsuspecting democrats into their employ in order to aid them in making a safe retreat from the odium of a failure. That a diminutive few of the Democratic party did favor, by their act, to a small extent, the "internal improvement" bubble, we do not pretend to disguise; but we do deny that it ever was a Democratic measure, notwithstanding the Whigs are quite active in endeavoring to make it, at least, in part so:—But we think before we are done with this article we will show to the contrary.

For our present purpose, we will confine ourselves pretty much to the act authorizing the Eight Million Loan; as it seems that that was the fatal stroke which prostrated our State in the mire of almost inextricable difficulties.

Now it so happens that when this tremendous loan of Eight Millions of dollars was authorized by an act of the Legislature, that the Democrats had not enough out of the eighty members in the House of Delegates to make three sets of members to demand the yeas and nays. If our memory is faithful, the Whigs had at that session about SIXTY-TWO and the Democrats EIGHTEEN members. In looking over the Votes and Proceedings we find that this fatal law passed the House of Delegates by a vote of 48 to 29. And if we are correct (which we doubt not but that we are) in our present opinion with regard to the relative strength of the two parties, it will be perceived that if every Democrat had voted against the bill, it would still have become a law. Therefore we cannot detemine by what sort of conscience the Whigs can attempt to shift any portion of this odium upon theshoulders of the Democrats. How they can for one moment entertain an opinion otherwise than that it was, and is entirely a Whig measure—a child of their own conception—of their own creation and bringing forth,—a monster of their own maturity, we cannot divine. We should not have indicated that they entertain any other opinion; in that we are wrong; we know they do not, they cannot, except those poor silly souls who are duped by their insinuating masters. Suppose the State had proved a successful adventurer in this stupendous scheme of internal improvement—in this wild, riotous and reckless spirit of speculation, and a seeming merit had followed in the train and attached itself to those would be mighty statesmen, would the Democrats have been allowed to share in the smallest degree any portion of this merit? Would they dared to have begged the favor of having their names placed with this mighty Whig galaxy? We opine not. The very idea of a Democrat being, in the most remote degree, entitled to a ray of this glory would have been ridiculed to scorn. Be off, you dog—you who proved yourself so close fisted and penurious about a few MILLIONS of the people's money need not now attempt to gambol in the halo of our well earned glory. It is true we guiled some few of you into our ranks to suit our purposes—to make you our "scapegoat" in case of a failure in the issue of our schemes; but we have succeeded,therefore away with you,—we have no further use for you. This is somewhat a picture of the taunting language which would have assailed the ear of every Democrat in every quarter of the State.

And is it not hard too that if the Democrats have to bear an equal portion of the odium of this scheme of humbuggery, that they should be deprived of an equal share of emoluments of those internal improvement companies? If we are correctly advertised of the facts they have the giving of offices amounting to at least $100,000,-00, which we verily believe to be more, if not twice as much, as is in the gift of the State government. Besides a large patronage at their disposal of another character. Now if their monster of a child claimed equal paternity with the Democrats as with the Whigs, why not bestow its filial bounties equally upon one as upon the other? Instead of that we find all its lucrative offices comparatively speaking,bestowed upon Whig favorites. When this law was passed, three commissioners of loans were contemplated in its provisions to travel over part of Europe, ostensibly, for the purpose of negotiating the loan of Eight Millions of Dollars: well let us see who were appointed; and let us see if either of them was a Democrat. The first name which presents itself to our minds is that of the Hon. Judge Buchanan, one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals: And who is he pray? Why a whig. The next is Col. Emory: and what was his party politics? Why ultra Whig to be sure. And who is the third and last of those commissioners of loans? Why a certain Mr. Peabody, a rabid whig, and who has since become, by residence, if not by expatriation an Englishman. Those three Honorables were selected and appointed, and sent to Europe at a heavy expense,—all to be paid out of the people's money. And what did they do? Did they negotiate the loan required by the State? Not they! After enjoying the royal luxuries of England and France for a good part of a year two of them returned home as they went; and the other become so much enraptured with the English manners that he concluded here to stay. Still we are told that the Democrats are as much to blame for the creation of the State debt as the whigs.

We have shewn that if every Democrat had been present and had voted against this ruinous law still it would have been enacted in the House of Delegates. Now let us come to the Senate and see how matters stand there in regard to parties. The Senate at that time was composed of fifteen members only; and when this bill of monstrosities came up before it, for its final action, thirteen members were present, eleven voting for it, and two against it,all whigs. Now, surely, no matter how much one may bedisposed to distort the truth,he has not the smallest pretext in the world to say that it was in any part a Democratic measure during its passsage through the Senate. Let it be borne in mind, too, that this very same Col. Thomas Emory, who was afterwards made one of the commissioners of loans, was then a Senator and voted for this very bill.

Now is it not strange, that in the face of all these facts, there should be found one soul who pretends to any thing like truthfulness, with boldness sufficient to stand up and declare that the Democrats are equally culpable with the whigs for bringing the State in its present horrible dilemma?

We contend, in conclusion, that this was a whig scheme throughout, and one of the most reckless order; and that they, and they alone should bear the whole of the odium.—Annapolis Star.

DEDICATION OF THE ODD FELLOWS HALL.

The splendid new Hall, erected by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of this city, was dedicated yesterday in due form. The Grand Lodge of Maryland, and the visiting Lodges of other States, assembled at an early hour in the morning in front of the Maryland Theatre, Front street, in full regalia.—The subordinate Lodges of this city and the delegates from Lodges in almost every part of the Union, to the Annual Communications of the Grand Lodge of the United Session in this city, formed in Gay street with the right resting on Forrest street.

At 8 o'clock the Lodges were formed into line, two members abreast, under the direction of P. G. M. Henry S. Sanderson, as Chief Marshal.

At half past 9 o'clock, the processsion, which was interspered with music, handsome banners and various emblems of the Order, giving to the whole a very beautiful and imposing appearance, moved off.

By far the most interesting sight in the Procession was the large Car, drawn by four beautifully caparisoned horses, in which were seated nearly one hundred children attached to the School established by the various Lodges for the education of the sons and daughters of deceased members. The children were all well dressed, and their happy smiling countenances imparted great interest to the scene, and excited the warmest sympathies of every beholder. The evidence of the practical charity and well applied benevolence of the Institution was every where beheld with demonstrations of the liveliest satisfaction.

Next came a barouche, in which were seated Rev. E. Y. Reese, of Maryland; Rev. Albert Case, of South Carolina; Rev. H. Letzinger, and Rev. George M. Bain, of Virginia, Chaplains.

A barouche containing James L. Ridgely, P. G. M. of Maryland; E. H. Chapin, M. W. G. M. of Massachusetts; and Gen. A. S. Hurlbut, P. G. of South Carolina, Orators of the day.

The rear of the procession was brought up by twelve barouches, containing Representatives from twenty States in the Union to the Annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the United States.

After passing through several of the principal streets the procession continued on to Howard's Park, where, after an Anthem by the Choir in attendance, a prayer was offered by the Rev. Eli Yates Reese, of this city.

The Introductory Address, which was to have been delivered by James L. Ridgely, P. G. M. was dispensed with in consequence of the lateness of the hour. An Ode, composed for the occasion, was then sung by a large and efficient choir of male and female voices.

An eloquent Oration was then delivered by E. H. Chapin, M. W. G. M. of Massachusetts. Another anthem by the Choir and a prayer by Rev. Albert Case, D. D. G. S. of South Carolina, concluded the exercises in the Park.

The ceremonies being over the Procession was again formed into line and marched to the New Hall in Gay street, where the ceremony of dedication took place in the usual form. The dedicatory prayer was made by the Rev. H. Letzinger, R. W. G. Chaplain.

The Grand Secretary having read the record of the Dedication, the officers of the Grand Lodge solemnly attested it.

An Ode, composed for the occasion, was sung by the Choir.

The Master of Ceremonies then introduced Gen. A. S. Hurlbut, P. G of South Carolina, who delivered an Oration appropriate to the occasion.

At its conclusion an anthem was sung by the choir; and a prayer made by the Rev. George M. Bain, P. G. M. of Virginia.

The ceremonies of the day were brought to a close by the performance of a piece of Music by the bands.

Beat This Who Can!!—Yesterday morning an Irishman named Peter Kerney, in the employ of Mr. Gustavus Beall, shouldered and carried (in one bog) 11½ bushels of wheat. The wheat weighed 61 lbs. per bushel, making in all 701½ lbs.—Cumberland Gazette.

We knock under—we can't beat either the story or the Irishman.

It is rumored, (says the Washington Capitol) that Col. Gardner has been appointed to the Auditorship made vacant by the resignation of the Hon. Mr. Whittlesey.

FOREIGN NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CALEDONIA.
16 DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

The steamship Caledonia, Capt. E. G. Lott, arrrived at Boston on Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock, having left Liverpool on the afternoon of the 5th inst.

The crops look as promising as can be expected,considering the heavy rains which have prevailed in various parts of the country of late, and the cold spring.

Parliament was prorogued by Queen Victoria in person, Aug. 24th. All the foreign Ministers were in attendance.

The speech itself says little which is not common place,except the portion which relates to Ireland. In reading that portion of the document, her Majesty, it is said raised her voice, and emphacized a good deal. The terms of the speech as applied to that section of the empire are rather strong, but if O'Connell is to be credited, her Majesty substituted "deep concern," for "indignation" in the original draft,when speaking of the Repeal agitation. The great agitator would seem to have friends—not to say spies—in high places.

Loss of the Barque Merchant, of Newport, R. I.—The Acadia arrived out in twelve days from Boston. On the morning of the 19th ult., at two o'clock, the Acadia, unfortunately, came in collision with the American barque Merchant, of Newport, United States, from Amsterdam. The barque sunk in fifteen minutes after the concussion, but all the crew were saved. The steamer sustained no damage to her hull. The weather was thick at the time.

Arrival of the Queen of England in France.—The European Times says:—Espartero has arrived in London. His arrival has caused some stir, and the ex-Regent of Spain has received the most hospitable treatment from the leading men of all parties in England. He was presented to Her Majesty at Windsor, by the Earl of Aberdeen, and has been the guest of Lord Palmerston and other distinguished individuals.

The King of the French hearing of Queen Victoria's intention of taking a short excursion by sea, commissioned his sons to invite her to his chateau at Eu. She took her departure on Monday from Southampton, amidst great rejoicings, and her progress is recorded with much minuteness by the daily journals. The Royal squadron reached Treport on the afternoon of of Saturday, where it was received by the King of the French and his family with great eclat.

The Queen's journey to France has excited no little interest on both sides of the channel. Some of the Paris papers look upon it with anything but satisfaction. This is the first occasion, for upwards of three centuries, that the sovereigns of the two countries have met under similar circumstances.

Ireland.—O'Connell continues to blaze away in Ireland. The agitation increases, if possible, in intensity, and the rent is kept up to the mark—swelled by contributions from various parts of the American continent. He has attacked the Queen's speech with great ferocity, treating it as the speech of the ministers, and wishing it to be believed that her Majesty was coerced into its delivery—that she is not a free agent, and that a resignation would have been the result of a refusal. This does not tally, however, with the marked intention which her Majesty is said to have imparted to the reading of the passages about the Repeal agitation. That reading plainly indicated her feeling on the subject.

Mummy Wheat.—A Scotch paper, the Caledonian Mercury says:—"In unrolling an Egyptian mummy in the Phebaid, in 1838, which was ascertained to be 3000 years old, several heads of wheat were discovered. A portion of this mummy wheat came into the hands of the Earl of Haddington; and on the first of November last year his Lordship's gardener sowed four seeds of it in the garden of Tynninghame. The produce is at present nearly 100 stalks, about six feet high, and the ears have from 45 to 55 grains each. The ears have beards or hands not unlike those of barley, and the leaves on the stalks are long, and nearly an inch broad."

THE WILL OF JAMES WOOD.

We learn from a London paper, that after several years litigation, the will and codicils of James Wood, Esq. the late wealthy banker and draper of Gloucester, have been proved in Doctors' Commons. He gives to the Corproation of Gloucester £60,000; to Mr. Philpotts, £50,000 to Mr. Council £10,000; to Mr. Helps, £30,000; to Mrs. Goodlake, £20,000; to Mr. Smith £20,000; to Mr. Clevhland £14,000; and to the family of the latter gentleman £6,000; and the residue of his property, estimated at about £500,000, to his Executors. The property has been sworn under £900,000,and the probate bears a stamp of £12,000. The executors named are Alderman Wood, John Chadborn, Esq. (who committed suicide, some time back, under very extraordinary circumstances,) Jacob Osborn, Esq. and John Surnam, Esq. The charges of three proctors, engaged in the suit relative to the will, amount to £17,-536 3s. 2d.

We believe there are some persons on this side of the water, who supposed that they had a claim to some of the property above alluded to.

☞The trial of Jacob Shipman, indicted for embezzling the monies, to the amount of upwards of 15,000 of the Union Bank of New York on the 4th of April last, took place last week, and resulted in the acquittal of the prisoner. He was acquitted by the jury, on the ground that the intention to appropriate the money to his own use was not conceived until after he had arrived in Philadelphia, and that he was therefore not guilty under the indictment.

The general belief is that Shipman will be brought to Philadelphia, and tried for the offence, by the Union Bank, who were the prosecutors in New York.

☞The laborers of New York city have held a public meeting, for the purpose of fixing upon one dollar per day as the lowest price at which they will labor.

SMUT.

Mr. Editor:—An eminent French Agriculturalist, after trying all the various methods in use for destroying smut in wheat, pronounces the following to be the only one entirely successful, and in no degree injurious to the germ of wheat.

"For every ten bushels of wheat dissolve five pounds and a quarter of Glauber's salts in six gallons and one quart of pure water, and pour it on the pile with a common watering pot, constantly stirring it with shovels until all the grains are wetted and the liquid begins to flow away from it. Take sixteen pounds and a quarter of unslacked stone lime and pour water on it until it is slacked to powder; then sprinkle it over and mix it completely in with the wheat, which may be sowed immediately or kept for several days, taking care not to let it heat."

I have no experience as to this method, but have known the application of lime, after washing the wheat in salt water, to fail in producing the desired effect; and for every instance in which I have heard of its success have heard of perhaps a dozen failures.

M. DeBombasle, who recommends the above, found the application of brine and lime to succeed in one case and fail in two others. With regard to the use of urine and manure water he says it has in some cases prevented a great portion of the wheat from coming up. Glauber's salts can be bought in Baltimore at two or three cents per pound if purchased by the hundred pounds. Five bushels of wheat would be more convenient to prepare in one pile on account of mixing it more readily. T.

☞Common sense asks why are the Stainburn Pills superior to all others? Experience answers because in the first place they are composed entirely of twenty-seven vegetable ingredients, and nothing but the extracts from those ingredients are used; the grosser particles, or those which irritate the system, without doing good, are not suffered to enter into their composition.

In the second place, they mix with our daily food, and while they open the bowels, give tone and strength to the digestive organs.

Thirdly, because they excite to action the stomach and bowels, the great purifiers of the system, and carry off every injurious excess of matter there deposited, whether of improper food or biliary secretions; and,

Fourthly, because they require no extraordinary care in diet or clothing, the body being less susceptible of cold when under their influence than at any other time.

Price 25 cents per box. Office 338Broadway, next door to the Tabernacle.
