Our Bodies Are Machines.

How many people, I wonder, ever pause to consider that their bodies are merely machines to do work, furnaces in which necessary fuel is burned, workshops in which wornout parts are supplied and storerooms in which fuel and food are laid away for use when needed? Further, like any other piece of apparatus, the body works better under certain circumstances. Its fires burn better with fuels of certain sorts, mixed in certain proportions, and it cannot keep in perfect condition unless furnished with proper materials. Man thinks he eats because he is hungry; he really eats because his body is crying out for building materials with which to repair the waste that is always going on and for fuel to keep itself warm, and it is rather "finicky" as to the supply it wants for each of these purposes. At a pinch it can use almost anything digestible for either, but it groans and complains and punishes its unfortunate possessor if it is not properly treated.—Crittenden Marriott in St. Nicholas.

Drawing Room.

A curious and regrettable revival of the word "draw" in the sense of "withdraw" occurs in "drawing room." Here the original meaning of the word is lost because of its lamentable pronunciation by the uneducated. Nobody, hearing it mentioned as "droying room" at its best or as "droring room" at its worst," would suspect it of being a room to which to withdraw for relaxation. Most words of the kind, though, have no better claim to our admiration, and many have a worse one to our sense of language. "Parlor" is an ugly growth from the old monasterial "parloir," or room where speaking was allowed, and "boudoir," that early Victorian expression of gentility, began by being a room to sulk in. "Sitting room" is a strange instance of the confusion of cause and effect, and so is "living room." We come back to "drawing room" as to honest words, at least.—London Notes and Queries.

Du Maurier and the Fenian Leader.

When John O'Leary, the Fenian leader, was released from prison in 1870 after spending five of the twenty years to which he was condemned for a felony he went to Paris, where he spent the next fifteen years of his exile. The revolutionary leader used to tell how when crossing in the packet to France he met Du Maurier, then a young man, going to Paris to study art. They became warm friends, lodging together in the same building, where they became acquainted with two other artists, whom Du Maurier afterward made famous in his popular story "Trilby" as The Laird and The Baronet. It was to O'Leary, who had been a medical student in Paris long before he threw in his fortunes with the Fenian movement, that Du Maurier owed his first glimpse of bohemian life in the French capital.—Westminster Gazette.

It Was All Right.

They had evidently been quarreling before entering the Sutter street car at the ferry.

"I would thank you, Mr. Johnson, not to sit by me!" she said icily.

"Oh, Lucy, I'll never go with her again—never, never, dearie!"

Gradually the harsh tones melted to soft, endearing phrases. The car had become very crowded. It stopped at Van Ness.

The conductor, wedging among passengers midway of the aisle, could not see the rear steps. With his hand on the bell cord, he suddenly yelled:

"How is it back there now?"

"It's all right. We've made up again," impulsively responded the young man.

"Oh, Willard, he didn't mean us!"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Too Much Curiosity.

A dangerous operation was being performed upon a woman. Old Dr. A., a quaint German, full of kindly wit and professional enthusiasm, had several younger doctors with him. One of them was administering the ether. He became so interested in the old doctor's work that he withdrew the cone from the patient's nostrils, and she half roused and rose to a sitting posture, looking with wild eyed amazement over the surroundings. It was a critical period, and Dr. A. did not want to be interrupted. "Lay down, dere, woman," he commanded gruffly. "You haf more curiosity as a medical student."

The Result.

A nervous passenger on the first day of the outward voyage importuned the captain to know what would be the result if the steamer should strike an iceberg while it was plunging through the fog. "The iceberg would move right along, madam," the captain replied courteously, "just as if nothing had happened." And the old lady was greatly relieved.

The Minister's Text.

A little girl came home from church the other day and was asked what the minister's text was. "Don't be afraid, and I will get you a bedquilt," was the astonishing answer.

Investigation proved that the central thought of the sermon had been, "Fear not, and I will send you a comforter."—Technical World.

Only a Dream.

Wife—I dreamed last night that I was in a shop that was simply full of the loveliest bonnets, and— Husband (hastily)—But that was only a dream, my dear. Wife—I knew that before I woke up, because you bought one for me.

Kept a Good Table.

Brown—Keeps a good table, does she not? Robinson—Excellent. Solid oak. Has had it for years.—New York Tribune.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

UT TOMATOES!

WHY IS IT Peerless outsells all other Tomato goods?
WHY IS IT Peerless sells higher than other brands?
WHY IS IT other fertilizer men say their Tomato Fertilizer is as good as Peerless?

The answer is easy—everybody knows it?

QUALITY.

Captain Emory grew on one occasion 17 tons per acre. Mr. Zac T. Gilbert grew 19 tons to the acre. Mr. G. W. Collins has bought as high as 50 tons per year, and his men grew from 12 to 15 tons per acre. We have sold already in Anne Arundel county, and the lower counties and New Jersey, hundreds of tons. Messrs. Baker and Morgan have bought as high as twelve hundred dollars worth. Captain Dashiel says he would have it if he had to give $50.00 per ton for same. Mr. Joseph Downey says when he was canning that he could actually tell the difference in tomatoes grown with Peerless when brought to his cannery. Mr. Numsen says he knows that tomatoes grown with our goods are fine. Mr. Frank Moore, who runs Assaw Bains & Co's cannery, says the best tomatoes brought there are from Peerless. Mr. Loose, a customer of his, says a ton of Peerless grew him $96.00 worth more tomatoes than another goods costing $7.00 less per ton. Mr. Money says it is certainly good. We could go on, but with a testimonial will close.

Unsolicited sometime ago Mr. J. W. Elburn & Son came in our office and said: "I believe your Peerless to be the best tomato goods I ever saw. You remember what an advocate I was of it when I lived out at the mill. Well, wherever I have lived since, on the Western Shore or elsewhere, I would have it, and last year I put some of this same goods on some onions grown from the seed, and they were as fine as Burmudas. Many measured 4 inches in diameter, and I grew over 600 bushels per acre, or at rates of 1162 baskets. I used it on strawberries and picked 8000 quart per acre."

The above testimony, should, therefore, be convincing.

TO BE DISPOSED OF.

The buds were selected from the best strains of each variety, which were sent out from the Nicholson nurseries 25 to 30 years ago, and many of these orchards were more healthy and vigorous the past season than quite a few orchards 5 and 6 years old. These trees have been inspected by authority from the State Entomologist, Prof. Symons, and found entirely free from any root disease, San Jose Scale, or other insects.
