Gov. Harrington to the School Children.

Governor Emerson C. Harrington has addressed the following letter to the school children of Maryland relative to the importance of the observance of Arbor Day on April 7th:

March 17th, 1916.

TO THE CHILDREN OF MARYLAND.

My dear Young Friends:

I am sure that you know that Friday, April 7th, will be "Arbor Day" and that you know also that while it is not a legal holiday in Maryland, the day has been specially set apart by proclamation as a day for planting shade trees about our homes and along our public roads.

Most work of public interest in the State must of necessity be done by your parents and your grown relatives, but the work which the General Assembly of Maryland thought important enough to direct the Governor to call to the attention of all our people by proclamation each year, setting apart a special day for it, is a work which little boys and little girls, as well as big boys and girls, can do, and I am writing you this letter, requesting you to help us do the work.

If I could see each one of you in person and ask you to help me to do something for the welfare of our State, I am sure you would do it if you could, but as I cannot do that, I want you to regard this letter as a personal request from the Governor and I believe you will grant it. Our State is a beautiful State and we all love it. We love its trees and flowers, its farms and rivers, and loving it, we want to do all we can to make it even more beautiful than it is.

Nothing contributes more to the beauty of our yards and roads than pretty trees, and if each girl and boy in our State will carefully plant a shade tree, in a place where one is needed, along a public highway, you will be helping to beautify our State and helping to make it a more pleasant place to live in. I request you to do this, and I hope that after it is planted you will take a pride in that tree, and that you will watch it as the years go by, and protect it from harm, and that you will do all you can to make it thrive and grow.

If you will do this, it will be a pleasure after you have grown up to manhood and womanhood, to regard the tree as your tree and to point to it with pride as something you have done that has added beauty to the landscape and given comfort to the traveler.

I send a special greeting to you all, and I ask you to help us in this work to beautify the State.

Sincerly yours,
[Signed] EMERSON C. HARRINGTON,
Governor of Maryland

Not Keen For Roosevelt.

A poll of Presidential preferences which has unusual interest is that which is being taken by a postal card canvass of subscribers of the Nation. The salient features are the vote for Wilson among the Democratic possibilites, and the vote for Hughes among the Republican. That Wilson should command 1,085 votes as against a total of only 10 for all other Democrats combined is not surprising, seeing that any other nomination at St. Louis than that of Wilson is unthinkable; but it is distinctly notable that the Wilson poll is almost exactly equal to the number of those stating that they voted for him in 1912 It is also worth noting that the Wilson poll—namely, 1,085— exceeds by more than one-third the number of those recorded as "usually" voting Democrat or independent; these latter being 477 and 336 respectively.

In the Republican list Hughes is far and away at the top; he has 724, as against 263 for Roosevelt and 247 for Root, while the rest command but insignificant numbers. In Roosevelt's case, as in Wilson's, the number declaring for him now is almost exactly equal to the number of his 1912 followers. Whether these results indicate an almost unbroken adherence to the choice of four years ago, or whether there has been considerable cross-shifting, is an interesting question, upon which, after examination of the original returns, we shall hope to report when the poll is compelete.—New York Evening Post.

Notice to Breeders of Holstein-Friesian Cattle of Maryland.

At the annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Club of Maryland held at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, on December 2, 1915, the club decided to give prizes amounting to $100 to owners of pure-bred Holsteins in Maryland for the best seven-day butter fat record made between December 2d, 1915, and November 15th, 1916. Only owners who have never done any testing before may compete for the prizes. The prize money is to be awarded as follows: $50 to be given for best record. $25 for second prize record; $15 for third prize record; $10 for fourth prize record.

In addition to this, Mr. John M. Dennis, of Lutherville, Maryland, has offered a prize of $50 to any one owning pure-bred Holstein cows in Maryland whose cow will produce over 25 lbs. of butter fat in seven days.

All these tests will be made under the same rules that apply to the Advanced Register work of the American Holstein-Friesian Breeders Association. Any one desiring further information, kindly write:

G. H. HIBBERD, Secretary,
Lutherville, Maryland.

The Maryland State Firemen's Association will hold its annual convention in Havre de Grace June 7, 8 and 9, and it is thought that between 1,000 and 1,500 firemen will be there to take part and make things hum in Havre de Grace.

The American Spirit.

Save to the aged clerk with his silver hair and those destined followers in the race of life whose duties are the bars of habit, work in America is not a "squirrel's wheel." The English Wesley once said, "I can plod." The American says, "I can plod if I can see something ahead to plod for." In this country of vast dreams and huge fulfillments idleness is a rusty sword in the soul, but work that has no point to it turns the iron around and is even more excruciating. The resiliency of the American spirit is proverbial. It is born of hilltop visions of work that is profitable to do, endeavor that gets one on. Everything must be charged with a more or less useful idealism. A business man said to a clergyman who urged him to join his church, "If there is anything I can do that will really count I will come in, but I don't want to join the church just to sit around and sing." It is this intuitive sense that he has taken hold of a great work that explains much of the American's enthusiasm and unquenchable buoyancy.—From "American Ideals," by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper.

Grasshopper Glacier.

Grasshopper glacier, at the headwaters of the East and West Rosebud rivers in the Beartooth mountains of Montana, derived its name from the myriads of grasshoppers imbedded in the perpetual ice of that neighborhood. Many of the specimens are as perfect as if preserved in alcohol for exhibition. In the opinion of scientists who made a first hand study of the glacier the insects were caught in a periodic southward flight and succumbed to the cold in their attempt to cross the mountain range. The huge ice mass, under whose crust the grasshoppers are buried, is virtually under the shadow of Granite peak, 12,842 feet high, the highest in Montana. Only recently has its existence as a perpetual glacier been verified, though as long as forty years ago it was traditionally known in early Montana mining camps and mountain towns. It was considered then merely a fanciful tale of pioneer prospectors and fur trappers who had penetrated to the upper reaches of this branch of the rugged Rockies.—Argonaut.

Angora Rabbits.

The long haired Angora rabbit is a native of Asia Minor. Its name is derived from the province of Angora, where almost all the animals of whatever species have long fine silky hair. Over a hundred years ago the beauty of the Angora rabbit attracted attention, and it was introduced to Europe. The peasants of Switzerland, Savoy and Flanders have long bred the animal, and in those countries Angora rabbits are a source of considerable profit. Soft furry "Angora" caps and mittens and other articles of clothing are knit from yarn spun from the hair of the Angora rabbit. The hair is not sheared periodically, like the fleece of sheep, but is combed off every few months. In the course of a year some three-quarters of a pound of hair is obtained from a single animal.

Labor.

Labor is the contest of the life of man with an opposite. Literally it is the quantity or lapse, loss or failure of human life, caused by any effort. It is usually confused with effort itself or the application of power, but there is much effort which is merely a mode of recreation or of pleasure. The most beautiful actions of the human body and the highest results of the human intelligence are conditions or achievements of quite unlaborious—nay, of recreative—effort. It is the negative quantity—or quantity of defeat—which has to be counted against every feat and of defect which has to be counted against every fact or deed of men. In brief, it is "that quantity of our toil which we die in."—John Ruskin.

At His Own Estimate.

"What are the qualifications required to make a successful card player?" asked Mrs. Trumpit casually.

"Well, it's hard to say," replied her husband thoughtfully. "A man must be cool, calculating, crafty, cunning and have a touch of meanness in his disposition."

"Oh, Frank!" exclaimed his wife in shocked tones. "I should think you wouldn't like to play cards with such horrid people!"

The husband answered proudly:

"That's all right. I nearly always win."—London Answers.

Socially Successful.

Mr. Brown's colored valet desired to entertain some of his friends, and his master contributed generously to the cause. The next morning Mr. Brown asked Mose if his party had been a success. Mose drew himself up a couple inches above his usual height.

"Was it a success, suh!" he exclaimed delightedly. "Well, suh, it sho' wuz! Dey wuz sixteen invited and twenty dat come!"—New York Post.

The Balloon Spider.

One species of spider weaves a balloon four feet long and two feet wide, which it fastens to a tree by a single thread, then marches on board with its little ones, cuts the thread, and away goes the airship to some distant place to make a new home.

Science and Sense.

Science is a first rate piece of furniture for a man's upper chamber if he has common sense on the ground floor, but if a man hasn't plenty of good common sense the more science he has the worse for the patient.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Measure your mind's height by the shade it casts.—Browning.

Qualified.

"We want some one to play Samson," explained the movie manager. "Do you think you could wreck the temple?"

"Can I? Well, I've been a baggageman for eleven years."—Buffalo Express.

The Hoyden.

The word hoyden, now applied exclusively to a noisy young woman, formerly denoted a person of like character, but of either sex.

Think well over your important steps in life and, having made up your mind, never look behind.
