Drydocking a Warship.

One of the operations a naval officer dislikes more than anything else is docking a big warship to undergo repairs. It is one of the most difficult and tricky jobs imaginable, and the slightest carelessness may mean mighty costly damage

Before being floated into the dock the vessel is usually lightened of everything that can be easily taken from her, and then she is towed in by tugs.

The greatest care has to be taken to get the huge mass to float in exactly its proper position so that when the water is pumped out of the dock it will come to rest upon the keel blocks in such a way that its great weight is evenly distributed. These big repairing docks, or graving docks, as they are usually called, are built in a series of steps, so that they are much narrower at the bottom than at the top. These steps give support to the balks of timber which keep the vessel upright.

A float, called a "marker," is used to show that the battleship is in its right position before the water is drained away. Any miscalculation and the vessel might heel over, and there is no stopping a 25,000 ton ship when it begins doing that.—Pearson's.

Useful Glycerin.

Glycerin has many useful properties. It will cleanse a cut and cause it to heal quickly. In washing clothes, where softness is imperative in water, the addition of three tablespoonfuls to an ordinary tub of water will prove effective. When it is necessary to boil clothes two tablespoonfuls in the wash boiler will produce good results.

A little glycerin applied with a flannel on shoes that have become hardened by wetting softens the leather, which will absorb it overnight. One tablespoonful of glycerin to each pound of fruit in preserves prevents the formation of a sugary crystal on the top. In stewing fruit, fresh or evaporated, two tablespoonfuls of glycerin to each pound of fruit, a pinch of salt and less sugar make a useful addition.

And, finally, glycerin softens scrubbing water, whitens wood and is good for the hands.—New York Sun.

Diving Birds.

Water birds which are ordinarily able to float high on the water can also sink at will by expelling the air which is inclosed within the film of feathers surrounding their bodies, thus making them heavier than water. This mechanical trick on the part of diving birds is probably familiar to all who have watched the kingfisher at close quarters and have noted the sudden contraction in the bird's apparent size as it takes the plunge. This is much more easily observed in the case of the starling, which sometimes imitates the kingfisher by plunging into water for food. The shrinkage of the bird in apparent size is very apparent when, after hovering above the surface, it turns downward to dive.

Not the Metric System.

Little Lucile, aged five, was talking ing to a gentleman. When she became impudent her mother took her out of the room to punish her. She could find nothing but the yardstick, so she whipped her with that. A little later Lucile came back in the room, and the gentleman asked her what her mother had done to her. She said, "Mamma just measured me all over." —Christian Herald.

A Busy Station.

The San Francisco ferry station is the busiest terminal in the United States, nearly 42,000,000 persons passing through the depot yearly. The only depot in the world from which more persons arrive and depart annually is the Union railroad station, in Paris.—Argonaut.

Excused.

Two ladies, each with her child, visited the Chicago Art museum. As they passed the "Winged Victory" the little boy exclaimed: "Huh! She ain't got no head." "Sh!" the horrified little girl replied. "That's art—she don't need none!"—Harper's Magazine.

An Inference.

"I have lost my best friend," sighed the poet.

"Cheer up. I will loan you my riming dictionary."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Gas In the Stomach.

The belching of gas is a condition caused by indigestion. Sometimes indigestion occurs from hurriedly swallowing the food without having taken time to masticate it. Food carried to the stomach in chunks invariably acts as an irritant. It sours and ferments, and there may be painful sensations in the stomach. Gas forms, and until it is expelled by belching there will be increasing pressure and pain in the stomach. The cure is, first of all, prevention. This means chew and chew the food until it is well ground up before swallowing it. Persons who spend a long time eating their food seldom suffer from stomach affections.

The symptoms are distressing at the time and must be relieved. Common bicarbonate of sodium, a teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water, sipped while hot, will relieve the immediate symptoms. If the condition is habitual an effervescing laxative medicine and a plain saline will be curative.

KENT TAX-PAYERS MUST PAY.

Court Holds that Salary of Engineer Should Not Have Been Taken From Road Appropriation.

An important decision was given in the Circuit Court Friday night in the case of John Gale Usilton versus the County Commissioners for the work done under the direction of the road engineer. This was a test case in which over $9,000 was involved.

In the last year of Engineer Gibbs' term of office he issued orders for work exceeding the 20 per cent. levied. Suit was brought on one of these orders and the court decided that the county was liable for this debt. For six years the salary of the engineer was paid out of the road fund, which the law said should be expended in roads and bridges. The court held that inasmuch as the engineer was a State officer his salary should not be paid out of the road fund.

W. W. Beck and S. S. Beck represented the plantiff, while John D. Urie appeared for the county commissoners.

The Test That Tells

Is The Test Of Time. Many Chestertown People Have Made This Test.

Years ago this Chestertown citizen told for a public statement the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed—the testimony complete. Instances like this are numerous. They doubly prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Can any Chestertown reader demand more convincing proof? It's Chestertown testimony—it may be investigated.

Harry Hodgkin, N. Mill St., Chestertown, says: "I had various symptoms of Kidney trouble. There were pains through my loins and the Kidney secretions were irregular in passage. My supply of Doan's Kidney Pills was obtained at M. A. Toulson's Drug store, and this remedy made me feel better in every way. "(Statement given May 27, 1911.)

On August 17, 1916, Mr. Hodgkin said: "You can still keep right on using my name as you have been, because I still have a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have had no Kidney trouble since they cured me."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hodgkin has twice publicly recommended. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo N. Y.
