POETRY.

IF WE KNEW.

If we knew the cares and crosses
Crowding round our neighbor's way,
If we knew the little losses
Sorely grevious, day by day,
Would we then so often chide him
For his lack of thrift and gain—
Leaving on his heart a shadow,
Leaving on our lives a stain?

If we knew the clouds above us,
Held by gentle blessings there,
Would we turn away all trembling,
In our blind and weak despair?
Would we shrink from little shadows,
Lying on the dewy grass,
While 'tis only birds of Eden,
Just in mercy flying past?

If we knew the silent story,
Quivering through the heart of pain,
Would our womanhood dare doom them
Back to haunts of guilt again?
Life hath many a tangled crossing;
Joy hath many a break of woe;
And the checks, tear-washed, are whitest;
This the blessed angels know.

Let us reach in our bosoms
For the key to other lives,
And with love towards erring nature,
Cherish good that still survives;
So that when our disrobed spirits
Soar to realms of light again,
We may say, dear Father, judge us
As we judge our fellow men.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Hark from the Tombs.

The Southern democratic journals that lately tried to be facetious at the expense of the Opposition, and denounced as Black Republicans all who were not democrats, are suddenly struck dumb by the course of the Charleston Convention. They have been crying out "wolf, wolf," and the wolf is found at last in their own fold. In the language of one of the delegates to their Charleston Convention, "Black Republicanism has seized upon their national convention." It has inscribed its principles upon the banners of the democraticic party and it flaunts its anti-slavery standards in the face of the whole South.

Will the people of the Southern States, who have now so long listened to the syren voice of Democracy and heeded its denunciations of the Opposition as the allies of the abolitionists, now reflect? Will they remember what they were told by the organs and speakers of American and Whig parties in 1856, about the odious Squatter Sovereignty of the Cincinnati platform? Will they not recognize now the exact truthfulness of all that the Whigs and Americans then so eloquently and earnestly proclaimed?

Democracy has at length thrown off the flimsy mask of nationality it has worn for years past. It appears before the country with the unblushing effrontery of a hardened courtezan, who boldly, confesses her shame. Its sectionalism is openly acknowledged. The men who attempted to make a stand in favor of the Southern rights, of which the Democratic party claimed to be the peculiar guardian, are hooted from the Democratic National Convention. The opinions they espoused are scorned.—The principles they advocated are derided and trampled upon. The platform they solemnly declared "a cheat and a swindle" is crammed into their very throats, and the men whom they denounced as "Black Republicans" are set up over them to dictate to them the anti-slavery creed of the Democratic party.

All this has come to pass as it was predicted. The Democratic party is broken. It is scattered in fragments. Will the people not believe now that the Union party alone is the only refuge against sectionalisms.

It's Too Late.

"C'est trop tard!" shouted a brusque, kettledrum voice from amongst the multitude, when the Duchesse d'Orleans lifted up her darling boy, her only son, the Comte de Paris, and offered him to the people of France as their new ruler. "C'est trop tard!" went up in mighty response from the excited Convention, sitting to decide on the future form of their government. "It's too late!"

"It's too late!" exclaimed one of the ablest and shrewdest politicians in the country, at Washington, Mr. John C Rives, on hearing of the adjournment of the Charleston Convention last evening, without making any nomination. "It's too late!" The Democratic party is rent in twain, and a thousand future Conventions can "not unite it again next fall."

Our intelligence from Washington, is, that the passage of the resolution to meet at Baltimore on the 18th of June, was a mere letting down, a mere device to escape the general derision which would otherwise have overwhelmed the concern. The same is true of the Seceders Convention. The unhealable character of the split is seen in the invitation by the regular body to the people to fill up the seceders' seats!

Thus it is, that the "irrepressible conflict" prophetically anticipated by Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Calhoun, and audaciously revived by Mr. Douglas, has at last found its way into the very heart of the Democratic party—the party that iniquitously set out to maintain itself in power by the persistent agitation of this question, and the result is, it lies at the feet of public opinion, shivered into a thousand fragments. There let it lie.—It has met a merited fate for daring to make a political shuttle-cock of a question that was settled at the adoption of the Constitution, and remained so for half a hundred years.

Horses Burned.

The stable of Messrs. J. & W. Floyd, Baltimore, was destroyed by fire on Monday night, burning five horses.

By the destruction by fire of Stetsen's stables, Philadelphia, on Sunday night, 28 horses were burnt.

Torn to Tatters.

Months ago it was manifest to every unprejudiced observer that the disruption of the democratic party was inevitable. There was a time when the factions of which it was composed could differ about tariffs and banks and internal improvements, &c., and afterwards come together in National Conventions and restore harmony and unity to the party and all march on lovingly together to battle for the spoils of victory. This time is past. The differences begotten in the body of the party by the efforts of Stephen A. Douglas and his co-workers are radical. They admit of no compromise. They can be settled only by the unqualified submission of one faction to the other, and this submission, come from which side it may, involves inevitable defeat. Nothing is to be gained by it and it will not occur. With it or without it the party cannot avoid defeat, and there is nothing now left for honest, Union loving democrats to do except to abandon their shipwrecked craft and seek safety upon some friendly vessel.

Democracy is done for. As we have already forwarned our Democratic friends the "no chance" cry with which they were wont to pursue the Fillmore men in 1856, is now dinned ominously in their own ears. They can elect no Democratic candidate whatever. They must choose, therefore, between the Union candidate, and the Black Republican candidate, if there should be one, or if not, between the national nominee of the Baltimore Convention, and Douglas, whom they have denounced as even more objectionable than Seward. It is for them to decide under which banner they will serve—whether they will become Union men or Black Republicans. We shall not taunt them with the misfortunes of their party, but we commend to them now, what they said to us in 1856.—Will they follow their own advice?—Will they take their own medicine?—We shall see.

The Next Presidency.

As there is some probability that the choice of the next President of the United States may devolve upon the present House of Representatives, we subjoin a statement of its political cast by States. It will be borne in mind that in choosing a President, each State casts one vote. The present House is divided politically as follows:

Democratic.—Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia—14.

Republican.—Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Wisconsin—15.

Equally Divided—Kentucky, Maryland and North Carolina—3.

American.—Tennessee—1.

It requires 17 votes to effect a choice, and as neither the democrats nor the republicans have a sufficent number, the four last named States will, of course, hold "the balance of power." Should the House fail to elect a President before the 4th of March, that duty will then in effect devolve upon the Senate, which has the election of a Vice-President, who, under provisions of the constitution, becomes President of the United States. The Senate is composed of a majority of democrats.

Acknowledging the Corn.

The Washington Star in commenting upon the proceedings at Charleston, says:

"As the Convention have left matters, the party is certainly disrupted—clearly and unmistakably disrupted; every Democratic party State as represented in the Convention having refused, from first to last, to accept either the platform or the candidate insisted upon by every anti-Democratic party State as there represented."

In point of fact, the public plunder has ceased to exercise its "cohesive power" over the disappointed office-seekers and the leprosy of Locofocoism "striking in," that mortally discased party has fizzled out.

The New Territories.

The five new Territories, which the House committee on territories propose to organize, contain respectively the following number of inhabitants: Chippewa, from eight to ten thousand; Nevada, about the same number; Dakota, eight thousand; Pike's Peak, fifteen to twenty thousand; Arizona, six to eight thousand. Each of these bills contain the following proviso: Provided that, nevertheless, slavery has no legal existence in said Territory, and nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize or prevent its existence therein. These measures will come up for consideration early next week.

Maryland Fugitive Slaves.

The two fugitive slaves arrested in New York on Sunday were named Allen Graff and Josiah Hay, owned by Absalom Cline and Charles A. Lawrence, farmers, in Frederick county, Md. They ran away on the 14th ult., and made their way to the city of New York, where they were arrested by the United States marshal and taken before the government commissioner, who, from the testimony on Tuesday, promptly remanded them to the claimants.—The arrest was accomplished so quietly that the abolitionists had no chance of "shrieking for freedom" before the fugitives, who were anxious to return home, were en route for Maryland.

Matter of History.

It will soon become a matter of history that James Buchanan was the last democratic President, and that the Charleston Convention was the last Democratic National Convention.

☞ The Locofoco press is very chary of political information just now. They think the people have been surfeited with politics. They mistake, the people have been gorged with locofocoism and turn from it with loathing and disgust.

Condition of Utah.

A despatch from Washington states that Gov. Cumming has informed the President that Utah is in a condition bordering on anarchy, and that some action is therefore necessary on the part of the government to relieve the Territory from present and impending evils. He alludes to bands of desperadoes, whose conduct renders the tenure of life and property uncertain, and requests that either judges be sent out in place of those who have deserted Utah, or that the Probate Courts be authorized to exercise the power claimed by them and granted by the Legislative Assembly, or that some other means of insuring safety may be adopted. He asks that 500 soldiers be retained there, and protests against the withdrawal of the entire army as injudicious and unjust.—The Governor estimates the population of Utah at 52 or 53,000, though the Mormons say that it is larger.

Twenty-nine Children Drowned!

Twenty-nine girls and boys, comprising a pic-nic and fishing party, were drowned in Boykin's mill pond, near Camden, S. C., on Saturday. The flat boat sunk in the middle of the pond.—The water was drawn off and nineteen bodies recovered.

Gone to Its Final Rest.

The Democratic party is dead. Its last agony was concluded at Charleston, South Carolina, on the 30th of April, 1860. The epitaph upon its tomb should, be "died of Douglas and Squatter Sovereignty."

Cheating the Printer.

The other day we saw several Irish laborers trying to decipher a written notice headed 'public sale;' the notice, although written tolerably plain, could not be read by the Emeralders, and they requested us to read it for them, which we of course did. At the conclusion one of them turned to his comrades and remarked, in a very impressive tone, 'well, be jabbers, I'll never buy of a man who's so nagardly that he won't get his advertisements printed; he's chated the printer and he'd chate me.' They all acquiesced in his decision.

English Traveller—"Hi say, sir, ham I on the right road to 'Artford?"

Jonathan—"Well you be."

Traveller—"Ow far shall I 'ave to go before I get there?"

Jonathan—"Well, if you turn round and go t'other way, may be you have to travel about ten mile. But if you keep on the way you are going you'll have to go about eight thousand, I reckon."

☞ A popular divine tells a good story as a hit at those kind of Christians who are too indolent to pursue the duties required of them by their faith. He says that one pious gentleman composed a fervent prayer to the Almighty, wrote it out legibly and affixed the manuscript to his bed-post. Then, on cold nights, he merely pointed to the document, and with the words, "Oh Lord! those are my sentiments!" blew out the light and nestled amid the blankets.

The Japanese, if they have been walled in for centuries, have got sensible notions. They have no old maids there; when the girls don't get married voluntarily, the authorities hunt up a husband and make them marry, willing or not willing. Good idea.

☞ "May I be married, ma?" said a lovely girl of fifteen, to her mother, the other morning. "Married!" exclaimed the astonished matron, "what put such an idea into your head?"—"Little Emily, here, has never seen a wedding, and I'd like to amuse the child," replied the obliging sister, with fascinating simplicity.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after our own; but the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.

They say that smoking cures hams, and herrings, and haddocks, and many other things—but all I know is that I have tried it on my wife's temper for the last dozen years, and it hasn't had the smallest effect in curing that."

A London publisher advertises a new book about to appear from the pen of Mrs. Alfred Gatty, to be entitled, "The Human Face Divine, and others Tales."

A—"The man who has raised a cabbagehead has done more good than all the metaphysicians in the world." B. "Then your mother ought to have the premium."

A popular author exclaims, "What a pity some quadrupeds can't talk!"—We are rather disposed to say, "What a pity some pipeds can."

The violet grows low and covers itself with its own tears, and of all flowers, yields the sweetest fragrance. Such is humility.

The wasp attacks the ripest fruit first; so will slander atempt, to wound the most honest fame.

In the time that men waste in bewailing the perverseness of their fortune they could gain a competency.

Tranquil pleasures last the longest.—We are not fitted to bear long the burden of great joys.

A youth with a turn for figures, had five eggs to boil, and being told to give them three minutes each, boiled them a quarter of an hour altogether.

The great secret of life is never to be in the way of others.

B. F. HAINES,

WHOLESALE and Retail Dealer in Foreign and Domestic Hardware, No. 160 Franklin Street, between Paca and Green Streets, adjoining Baugher's Pennsylvania Hotel, East side, Baltimore. Oct 22, y.

A WORD TO THE WISE,

ALL goods purchased at my Store are warranted to wear well, and will be sold at city prices. I respectfully request a call from the public, assured that I can please all in the price and quality of my goods.

S. D. ELKAN,
April 6. next door to Fountain Hotel.

LAMPS.—Just received, another lot of new style Kerosene Oil Lamps. Also, Wicks, Chimneys, &c, all of which will be sold cheap, at

Shriver's West End, Drug Store.

Also, the best Kerosene Coal Oil at $1 20 per gallon. April 6.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE AND MILL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE.

THE Subscriber offers at Private Sale his VALUABLE

MILL PROPERTY,

situated about 6 miles South of Westminster, near the Washington Road, and a County Road passing though it. The premises comprise about

41 ACRES OF LAND,

lying on Big Morgan Run, adjoining lands of Lovelace Gardner, George Barber, and others, laid out in fields of convenient size, in a good state of cultivation, well watered and fenced, with due proportions of

MEADOW & WOODLAND,

neither of which is surpassed by any in the neighborhood. The Improvements comprise a TWO STORY LOG

DWELLING,

conveniently arranged and in good condition; Spring House and Spring of excellent Water near the door; a fine

LARGE BARN,

Corn House, Smoke House,

and other needed buildings, all in good repair. Also, near the Dwelling is a fine operated by a never-failing stream of Water, sufficient indeed to keep a Grist and Saw Mill in constant operation. The Saw Mill is worked with Circular and Upright Saws, has an excellent run of custom, and pays well.

SAW MILL,

This Property is eligibly located, in a good neighborhood, and offers many inducements to purchasers, as it will be sold very low and the terms made easy.

Also, another Tract containing about

27 Acres of Land,

adjoining the above, which is also nicely arranged and laid off in convenient sized fields, under good fencing, watered and in a fine state of cultivation; a quantity of fine

TIMBER LAND,

comprising the various qualities of Hickory, Oak and Chestnut, in connection with

Meadow Land

of very fair quality. A County Road passes through it.

Also, another Tract containing about

26 ACRES OF LAND,

adjoining the second described Tract, accessible by a County Road. About one third of it is

Meadow Land,

which produces heavily; and about 6 Acres of choice

TIMBER LAND,

the balance is Arable Land, highly susceptible of improvement, Lime acting admirably upon it, and lying near Quarries of Limestone, which can be purchased at a fair price.

Persons wishing to inspect either or all the above described Tracts, and obtain further information, will please call on the undersigned, residing on the first Tract mentioned, who will take great pleasure in passing over them.

These Tracts will be sold entire or separate, to suit purchasers, and the Terms made accommodating. They are now offered a Private Sale, and will remain in market until SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1860, and if not sold by that day, will then be offered at Public Sale, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

1. SUBSCRIBERS who do not give express orders to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order a discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled and ordered them to be discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing their publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Willoughby's Patent GUM SPRING & GUM FEEDER DRILL.

MANUFACTURED BY

E. WAGONER.

The Best Drill ever heard of!

IT Sows all kinds of Grain perfect, from one peck to four bushels without choaking the Machine. The quantity can be changed when in motion, by a slide. It will sow Wheat, Buckwheat, Rye, Oats, and Barley without choaking by white caps, wheat heads or straws. This Drill feeds by two vulcanized rubber cylinders revolving together. The spring drag bar is very useful in rough land, stumpy or rocky. It will pass over any thing not over fifteen inches high without breaking of pins or anything else. The hoe will pass over and fall in its proper place. I also build them with Guano or other fertilizer sowers attached, which all farmers who use any of those manures ought to have, as they will save one half of the manure and have more grain, as it sows direct with the grain. This attachment is warranted to sow correct without choaking or clogging, and will sow from fifty pounds to any number of pounds that is wanted to be sown by a Drill.

Persons wanting an Attachment of this Fertilizer Sower put on their Drills, will please be as early as possible, as I have a great deal of this kind of work to do.

For further particulars, address E. WAGONER, Westminster, Carroll County, Md.

☞ All kinds of work done as heretofore.
