Fordson

FARM TRACTOR

On the farm, just as in the big factories in the city, the machine way of doing things is quicker, easier, better. The Fordson way is the machine way of farming. It will help you to raise more per acre, thus increasing your income. It will help you to do more work in a day. It will lighten your work; and make your work easier for you.

The Fordson doesn't stop with the field work. It is a flexible, all around power plant, ready for use during the entire year, and at a remarkably low cost of upkeep. And there's work for the Fordson on every farm every day in the year.

The Fordson is very simple to operate—a school-boy can drive it.

We will be glad to explain it to you, and tell you why it is a profitable investment. Come in and see us.

FASCINATION IN AIR FLIGHT

Various Reasons Advanced Why People Will Pay High Price for Short Trip Through Space.

Why do people fly?

Would you care for a spin in the air so much as to spend $15 for a 20 minutes' flight? If so, what is your motive?

Interviewing a half dozen commercial aviators along Miami's water front on this subject brought the following facts to light:

About 60 per cent of all passengers carried on the short 20 minutes' sightseeing flights are women.

According to aviators the types to whom scraping the clouds appeals are:

The wealthy man—the business man. He wants to see what flying is like. He sees the future of commercial aviation. The short flight offers also a novel method of entertaining friends.

The "sport." He flies for the excitement of the thing. He usually insists on stunt flying. Then, too, an occasional flight provides a way of demonstrating to his friends his sporting self.

The average man. He finds in the short flight at $15 for himself or $25 for himself and a companion a method of realizing the thrill and pleasures of the air. He is presented with an opportunity of realizing an overwhelming desire at a minimum expense.

The large percentage of women passengers is considered something of a slap at those reveling in the thought that women were too timid to fly. According to pilots, in most cases women accept an offer of an aerial spin on the direct dare of their masculine companion.—Miami (Fla.) Herald.

TRAINING WAIFS OF CAIRO

Government of Egyptian City Has Instituted School Where Stray Boys Will Be Educated.

It looks as if the problem of the waifs and strays of Cairo was going to receive at last serious attention.

After much insistence on the part of some public-spirited officials a special school for boys of this class has been opened in the environs of Cairo, where they will be looked after and trained by the government without their having committed some crime to admit them into the reformatory, previously the only institution of the kind.

Nothing so far has been done for the girl children, though another home is promised for this purpose. It is therefore satisfactory to hear of the formation of an organization called the "Brotherhood Federation," ostensibly nonsectarian and international, with the object of looking after and improving the lot of the child waifs generally.

A meeting recently held in support of this movement was given much prominence in the local English papers, but in spite of its intimate bearing on a purely Egyptian problem none of the Arabic papers appears to have given the matter any publicity.—Christian Science Monitor.

Progressed by Slow Stages.

Thirty years ago the men of Hartshay, a hamlet of Derbyshire, England, were accustomed to meet at a bridge on the edge of the town, where they would read the papers and discuss events. This was all right in summer time, but in the winter it was different and they would occasionally adjourn to a sheltered spot under the bridge. From this they moved into a vacated pigsty and later annexed another pigsty. This rude building was improved by their own efforts until it was a fairly comfortable place. From this humble origin there is now a rather pretentious library, with the best papers and magazines and a stock of good books.

CHURCH NOTES

The observance of Easter Sunday in Kent county was characteristic of the great church festival. There was nothing to mar the harmony of the day. The day was all that could be desired. Song services in the churches and fitting Easter sermons were all that could be desired. Flowers everywhere added to the beauty of the day. On the highways hundreds of people were out taking advantage of the good weather, while many took long walks through the quiet, wooded placed in search for flowers.

At the meeting held last week at the residence of Bishop Davenport in Easton of the committee appointed to formulate plans for the proposed memorial to Rt. Rev. William Forbes Adams, the late Bishop of this Diocese, it was agreed that a Diocesan Synod Hall would be the best type of a memorial serving for the Diocesan offices and the housing of Bishop Adams' library bequeathed to the Diocese. The building will be erected upon the grounds of Trinity Cathedral in Easton. Henry L. Constable, Esq., of Elkton, Rev. Samuel Borden Smith, of Trappe, chairman of the memorial committee, Edwin Dashiell, of Cambridge, and Bishop Davenport represented the committee at the meeting.
