DEATHS.

At the residence of her father, in Kent County, Md., CARRY MAY, daughter of William B. and Sarah E. Realey, aged five years, and thirteen days. [Cecil Whig please copy.]

CARRY MAY REALEY.

Close her eyelids, press them gently,
On this earth she'll be no more;
Lay her little hands beside her
Weep not, weep not, mother dear.

She is now an angel singing
On the bright and heavenly shore,
Though she's gone from thee forever
Weep not, weep not, mother dear.

We know you sadly miss your darling
When the evening hours have come:
And when the eve of day is fading
We know you miss your darling one.

She is happy now she's left you,
She'll be happy evermore,
Oh! be thankfull then dear mother
That she's on the heavenly shore.

Little Carrie—gentle Carrie—
On the earth she'll be no more,
But she's with her angel sisters,
On the bright and heavenly shore.

Oh! then weep not earth bound mother
For your darling's better there,
Oh, then do prepare to meet her
And all the glories you will share.
