says the gentleman from South Carolina

who always drives a Buick... to the lady from New Jersey as they pulled up to the bright red pump..."pleased to meet you, and no trouble at all to show you the nearest way to the S. S.... and how does your little bus (and it's a pert neat Dodge) take to our scenery?"... says the lady from New Jersey, smilingly..."I like S. S. and my little bus is perfectly content with S. S.* anywhere"...

...and there's a reason why every kind of driver for every kind of car asks for and insists upon "Standard" Gasoline and "Standard" Motor Oil... ask any one of the eight million motorists from New Jersey to the Georgia line why they use these power twins and their answer is always the same... "reliable products and service everywhere."

★...the gentleman from South Carolina when he says "S.S." may mean "Sunny South"...then again we are fairly certain that he also means good old "Standard" Service.
