There is no better time than right now—just before the busiest season on the farm—to go over your machines carefully, make a list of repairs you are likely to need and send it to us. With this list in our hands, we can order our stock so as to be prepared to met every call promptly.

Repair part service is a necessary part of our business. We realize what it means to you in time and money to get what you need at once. Help us to help you by making up your list now and sending it in to us.

Parrot's Comment Apt

A doctor was giving a dinner party. His favorite parrot was in the room concealed by some curtains.

During the meal one of the guests, a woman, was exceedingly voluble, and talked for several minutes without cessation.

When at last silence reigned, a sepulchral voice demanded from behind the curtains, "Let me see your tongue, please."

Church Constructed to Resemble Giant Organ

Scattered throughout the civilized world are churches of varying degrees of beauty—some small, some large and lofty, some with towering spires, others with beautiful domes, of exquisite glass windows—but perhaps the most unusual and original church in existence today is to be seen in Copenhagen. The whole edifice is shaped like a gigantic organ outlined against the sky, and at first sight is almost overwhelming. One almost expects to hear music coming from the pipes that constitute the roof of this wonderful building, so natural is the effect.

While on the subject of Copenhagen, another curious sight to be seen in the city is a tower that rises above the Church of Our Savior. This remarkable tower is 288 feet high, and is built like a corkscrew, round which are steps, on the outside, leading to the top! This tower was built in 1696, and has long been a special feature of the city.

Unfortunate Trend to Flabbiness of Thinking

It has been said a good many times over, in this generation as in others, but President Hibben of Princeton did well to remind the students of his university that they should be on their guard against a flabby mind, just as watchfully as against flabby muscle. The old Roman who spoke for "a sound mind in a sound body" put the mind first, let us remember—mens sana in corpore sano—but in our modern quotation of the saying we are almost always throwing the emphasis on the body. As civilization becomes more and more complex, the flabby mind, unequal to the task of taking up an important problem of life and thinking it through, becomes more and more perilous, both to its possessor and to others who may be obliged in any way to depend upon the judgment of that possessor. Certainly no one should be more watchful than the student.—Columbus Dispatch.

Varying Trade-Mark Laws

In discussing the principles of trademark laws existing in the world two separate systems of law have to be considered, one system being that in force in the United States, Great Britain, France and a few other countries where the first user of a trademark is protected, and the other system where ownership is based on registration of the mark. This latter system is used more generally throughout the Latin countries of the world. The law of the United States is practically unique in one respect, in that it requires as a basis of the right to register that the mark shall have been applied to goods sold in interstate or foreign commerce, this requirement following the clause of the Constitution in which trade-mark rights are recognized.

Founder of Homeopathy

Samuel Christian Hahnemann was the founder of the homeopathic system. This German physician was born at Meissen, Germany, April 10, 1755, and died at Paris, July 2, 1843. In 1775 he went to Leipzig and studied medicine. At a later period he went to Vienna. After some years he returned and completed his studies at Erlangen. He afterward practiced medicine at different places. He remained at Hofrath until 1833 when he proceeded to Paris.

Gas Bombs in Warfare

The Chinese have known and used gas bombs for many centuries, and there is positive proof of their using "stink bombs" against pirates along in the Ninth and Tenth centuries. The English used similar bombs in the Boer war and they were also used in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904. In spite of the fact that it was generally understood at the peace conference at Geneva in 1899 that their use would be abandoned, they were again used in the World war.
