SAINT CECILIA

So many have asked, "Who was St. Cecilia?" that I have promised to tell all I know about this Virgin Martyr. She was a maiden of noble family and her parents were of senatorial rank. From her earliest childhood she was brought up a Christian at the time when to profess the faith of Christ was almost certain death, but her father, being a pagan and very wealthy, the prefect of the city of Rome, spared to take her life at once. She had a lover, a young patrician named Valerian who loved her very tenderly but she refused to marry him because he was not a Christian. Valerian determined to find out about this new faith, so he went to the Catacombs where the Christians were concealed and embraced Christianity. But it was not very long before the prefect heard of it, and had him put to death. Meanwhile Cecilia was cultivating her great love for music and she became famed as a musician, and remained unmolested at her fathers house in Rome. Finally the prefect resolved to put her to death privately as many were converted to Christianity through her influence, so he ordered that she should be smothered by heating the room in which she was confined to suffocation, but this did not kill her. So finding that she was still alive, he sent an executioner to put her to death

Her beauty, youth, and grace so affected the man that, although he smote three times at her throat he did not kill her. It was against the law to strike more than three times, so he left her prostrate on the floor, bathed in her blood.

No sooner had the executioner gone, than from all sides came her relatives and friends and faithful slaves. They endeavored, in vain, to staunch the blood. She lingered however for two days and then died rejoicing that she was accounted worthy to die for her Lord.

Her body was enclosed in a cypress casket and buried and tradition says that thirteen hundred years after, when the sarcophagus in which she was buried was opened her body was just as she was in life. This is, of course very doubtful. But still the fame of St. Cecelia lives through the ages though she lived in the third century A. D. Curches are found built in her honor, and poets and painters have found her a favorite subject. She is always represented with some musical instrument, especiality the organ and I suppose her memory will be kept green as long as people love music, and admire, self sacrifice. One of the most famous of Rachael's pictures portrays her with the lyre which with the cornet, lute and harp combined to make the organ.

LA MODE

Shiny surfaces dispute the supremacy of dull ones in the new textile showings. Pebbly and metal brocaded satins are important for evening.

Lace is cast for an interesting role in forthcoming Winter collections. A variety of types from cotton thread to fine Chantilly will appear in frocks and trimmings. Lanvin's lace and Chanel's embroidered tulle evening gowns are successful forerunners of this trend.

Velvet gloves, whose cuffs of white peau d'ange lace match their Fauntleroy collars, are favored with velvet afternoon gowns. Felt gauntlets matching hats or other accessories are the latest additions to glove styles.

Cotton triumphs for all hours at fashionable Summer resorts. Gay cotton sashes, gloves and turbans are leading accessories with white sports frocks.

New necklaces made of tiny colored galalith flowers are worn even for bathing.

RECIPES

In The Housekeeper's Little Handy Book

Meat loaf bakes quickly in individual muffin or patty tins.

A coat of hard varnish improves the appearance of fiber-composition trunks and makes them last longer.

Sage, mint and thyme in pots or in a window box make an attractive and thrifty kitchen window garden.

To keep preserves from burning, place the preserving kettle over a large pie tin covered one-fourth inch deep with salt.

Two parts of finely ground bread crumbs to one part cornmeal make an acceptable corn bread. Crumbs may also be used satisfactorily in muffin recipes to save flour.

A small portable oven to be used over one burner on top of the stove saves gas; it does not heat the kitchen as much as the big oven does and bakes any small dish successfully.

Stuffed Tomatoes Put Into Elbow Macaroni

1 package elbow macaroni.
6 tomatoes.
3 tablespoons butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 1-2 cups hot milk.
1-2 cup grated cheese.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
1-4 cup buttered bread crumbs.
2 teaspoons parsley.
1 hard cooked egg.

Boil the elbow macaroni for 9 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. Cut off tops of the tomatoes and remove the pulp. In a double boiler, melt the butter, add the flour and when well blended, pour in the hot milk. Cook for 10 minutes, then add cheese, salt and paprika and stir until thoroughly blended. Mix half of the sauce with 1 1-2 cups of the cooked elbow macaroni and fill the tomatoes with the mixture. Cover the tops with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven until the tomatoes are tender. On a platter place the remaining elbows and pour over them the remaining sauce. Put the stuffed tomatoes in the center and garnish with the egg, cut in slices, and the parsley. Spagbetti may be substituted for the elbow macaroni, or wide noodles may be used.

Caramel Custard Pie Most Appetizing Dish

2 cups sugar
2 cups scalded milk
... 1-3 cup flour
3 eggs (reserve 2 whites for meringue)
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Carmelize 1 cup of the sugar, add the hot milk to the carmeliped sugar; cook until smooth; add the remaining sugar, flour, and beaten eggs. Cook the mixture until it is of the consistency of thick cream; remove it from fire; add the butter and vanilla; pour into a pastry-lined pie pan, and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F) until the pastry is a pale brown. Remove from oven; spread with meringue, and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F) about 15 minutes; or cook the custard mixture until quite thick; pour into a baked pastry shell; cover with meringue, and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F) 15 or 20 minutes.

Wonderful Private Library

The Morgan library stands at the rear of the residence of J. P. Morgan in New York city. It is of white marble, of classic design and has noteworthy bronze doors of Sixteenth century Italian workmanship. The library is not open to the public, but admission may sometimes be obtained by means of a letter to the librarian. There are many valuable collections in the library, notably the Bibles, which include a Gutenberg Bible and a Syrian Bible of the year 750. Other important works are the Ashburnham Gospels, the Golden Gospels, the Naples Offices, and a prayer book of Charles VIII. There is also a unique collection of English manuscripts.

Sublimity

If you can make the world stare and look on, there you have vanity or compassion to support you; but to bury all your wretchedness in your own mind, to resolve that you will have no man's pity, while you have one effort left to procure his respect, to harbor no mean thought in the midst of abject poverty; but at the very time you are surrounded by circumstances of humility and depression, to found a spirit of modest independence upon the consciousness of having always acted well—this is a sublime act which, though it is found in the shade and retirement of life, ought to be held up to the praises of men, and to be looked upon as a noble model for imitation.—Sydney Smith.

National Horse Show

The formation of the National Horse Show of America, controlling body for the sport, came about in 1883, as the result of friendly arguments as to which man, among the wealthy group in that era, owned the best trotter, the best pacer, the best jumper, and so on. The initial show was in old Madison Square garden, New York, on October 22 to 26, 1883. The democracy of the show was evidenced by the fact that although the main idea was to settle supremacy between blooded horses, all types of horses were invited to participate.

Make Apples Blush

By turning the ultra violet rays of a mercury lamp on green apples, using a filter of some special glass, the Boyd-Thompson institute of plant research has been able to speed up the action of the sun and turn the green fruit into a beautiful red color in 40 to 96 hours without burning or overheating. In other words, the fruit is colored quickly by improving on the sun's methods. If the peel is too old or crushed no color results, as Dr. John M. Arthur, in charge of this investigation, found that only living cells of the apple peel will respond to this treatment.

Plymouth Brethren

The sect known as Plymouth Brethren was founded by an Irish clergyman, Dr. John Darby, in 1827. The headquarters were made at Plymouth, England, whence the name. Missionary efforts were highly successful in Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France and the United States. The doctrine, besides being evangelical, believes in predestinarianism and millenniumism, and the body does not believe in a ministry set apart, believing all men are equal in matters of faith and doctrine.

National Anthem

"The Star Spangled Banner" was made the national anthem of the United States by act of congress, signed by the President, March 3, 1931. Prior to this its only official recognition occurred nearly a hundred years after it was written, when it was formally ordered to be played in the army and navy on occasions of ceremony. Its standing was undisputed in other lands, and whenever America was honored in music this air was played.

Fish "at Home" on Land

Fishes known as mud-skippers that are found along the coasts of the Indian and Pacific oceans are nearly as much at home on land as in the water. When they are stranded on the sands by receding tides they get over the ground in remarkable fashion. By means of their highly developed pectoral fins they jump about and climb up on rocks and other elevated objects in search of insects. These they catch on the wing by jumping at them as they pass by.
