THE IMPEACHMET PROJECT.

The proceedings of the republican caucus of Saturday night last were construed to mean an abandonment of their purpose to impeach the President of the United States. But the action of the House of Representatives on Monday presents the subject to the public mind in a direct manner. It can no longer admit of doubt that there is at least an effort going on among a number of influential and persevering leaders to bring the public mind to accept the extreme measure of deposing the Executive. It is true that the more sensible of the republican press deprecate the movement; but those who have witnessed the overwhelming influence of party discipline in driving men, apparently conscientious and firm in their opinions and conduct, into the support of measures which neither their consciences nor their judgment approved of, may well take note of it when they see a resolution for the impeachment of the President referred to the appropriate committee by a vote of more than two-thirds of the House of Pepresentives, with only five dissentient voices amongst the republican party. The usual parliamentary courtesy of conceding an inquiry may account for the proceedings, yet it bears upon its face the impress of skillful arrangement. There were two propositions, one from Mr. Loan, of Ohio, the other from Mr. Ashley. The former set forth the considerations of partisan expediency which require the impeachment of the President, and they will go out as the persuasive reasons why the extreme measure should be ventured upon. They are substantially as follows: That to obtain the fruits of the victory of the late elections, it is the duty of Congress to impeach and remove from office the President, in order to provide the effective means for reconstructing the governments of the Southern States, and to secure by federal authority the elective franchise to all, without respect to color, in those States. These resolutions tally precisely with the declaration of Thaddeus Stevens, the recognized leader and controller of the party in the House, that the impeachment of Mr. Johnson is essential to the consummation of the congressional scheme of reconstruction, which otherwise is a failure But while the reason must be given, it was not expedient that it should formally be declared in connection with the authentic action of the House, and therefore Mr. Loan's resolutions were taken away from the House, under a point of order, and referred, without debate, to the joint committee on reconstruction, and immediately thereafter the resolutions of Mr. Ashley authorizing the committee on the judiciary to inquire and report whether President Johnson had not been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors requiring the interposition of the constitutional powers of the House, were passed, with only five republicans voting in the negative. To comprehend the precise practical bearing of the question, it will be recollected that the republican party has quite as overwhelming a vote in the Senate as in the House —more than two-thirds majority. Now, while it may be said that the Senate, on the trial of an impeachment, acts as a judicial body, and, therefore, would not be governed by partisan bias, the same is true of them when determining the election of one of its own members; and yet the case of Stockton, of New Jersey, and many others, proves that the judicial office is no restraint over party necessities. And it is equally true of the House, in ordering an impeachment, that they act under the same solemn responsibility as a grand jury in preferring an indictment against a citizen. Nevertheless, fealty to the constitution and to their oaths are weaker motives than the inexorable decrees of a partisan cabal. Notwithstanding the fearful influences which, by every day's experience, are proved to reside in the passions of a dominant majority, there are so many disastrous consequences involved in the extreme measure of setting aside executive authority and absorbing all power in the hands of a legislative body—something so near to the brink of that anarchy which swallows up all liberty and destroys all hope of peace and good order—that one is reluctant to believe that so disastrous a crisis awaits this people. It must be that reason will yet prevail, and the good genius of the nation will rescue us from the perils which the insane impulses of a faction would gather for our ruin.—Sun.

A TWENTY YEARS' WAR.—The Louisville Journal contains the following:

Two families of Carter county, East Tennessee, named Roberts and Johnston, have been waging a bloody war between each other for twenty years. During this time fourteen men belonging to the two families have lost their lives, and on the evening of the 5th instant, in Elizabeth, Tennessee, the sole surviving males of the two families engaged in an altercation, which resulted fatally to both. This domestic war originated over a dozen fence rails.

SALE OF LAND.

THE undersigned, as Attorney for Mr. Anthony R. Wallace, who intends to remove out of the State, will sell at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, at the Court House, in Centreville, Queen Anne's county, on Tuesday, Jan. 29, 1867,

at 2 o'clock, P. M., the following VALUABLE REAL ESTATE, to wit:

No. 1. THE FARM

whereon said Wallace now resides, containing

180 ACRES OF LAND;

about 40 acres of which are in WOOD, detached, but directly across the road from the main tract. This Farm is one of the most beautiful locations in Queen Anne's county, in sight of the Steamboat Wharf at "Spencer's Landing," on Corsica Creek, fronting the Steamboat road, and also the road leading from Centreville to Chester River, and about two miles and a half from Centreville, the Shire Town of the county. The arable land is under good fencing, a considerable portion of it Hemlock and Oak plank, with Cedar and Chestnut Posts.

The soil is good, easily cultivated and readily improved, and has had a recent application of 2,000 bushels of lime. There is no better soil for a Fruit, especially a Peach Farm, in the county, or, perhaps, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. It has now an in good bearing, and of choice varieties of fruit.

Orchard of about 60 Apple Trees,

The IMPROVEMENTS are all new, and eligibly located, commanding a beautiful view of the water and the surrounding country, and showing well from all points of the compass. They consist of a

LARGE FRAME DWELLING,

with PANTRY and KITCHEN attached, a commodious Granary and two Corn Houses under one roof; a large Stable and Carriage House, under one roof; a Meat House and a Poultry House.

No. 2. THIS LOT

embraces about TWENTY-FIVE ACRES OF LAND, separated from the Woodland of the Main Tract by a branch, is partly cleared, and has a SMALL DWELLING upon it.

No. 3. THIS TRACT

contains about THIRTY-SIX ACRES of LAND on the right of the road leading from Centreville to the main tract, adjoining the land of Henry Garnett, negro; is about half cleared and half in WOOD, and has a SMALL DWELLING upon it.

THE TERMS OF SALE are easy, a considerable portion of the purchase money for the main tract not being required for four years.

Possession given immediately upon compliance with terms of sale.

HAS JUST ARRIVED from the city with his

COMPLETE STOCK OF

and Gents' Furnishing Goods of all styles, and would respectfully announce to his friends and the public that he has now on hand a Stock of Clothing never surpassed in this market, and would invite all now in want of Clothing to give him a call before purchasing.

☞New Store Room, corner of High and Cross Streets.

THE winter season is now fully upon us, and reminds us of the necessity of buying our clothing where we can get the best on the most reasonable terms. Our young friend, STRAUS, offers inducements which cannot fail to satisfy all purchasers. His complete stock and prices are worthy of their attention. Never misrepresenting goods, you can rely upon what he says.—The business suits he has on hand comprise all grades, cassimeres, meltons, satinets, &c., and his overcoats are manufactured from such standard grades as Moscow, Esquimaux, American beavers, Chanchillas, Whitneys, English and American meltons. He also makes garments to order from patterns of the latest designs. In connection with the above, his line of gents' furnishing goods surpass all the novelties of the season; in fact, it is such an establishment as we can advise our friends to patronize.

Chestertown, Dec. 8, 1866.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT.

BELIEVING that the people of this Town and County are often driven to the necessity of going to the city to obtain many articles which ought to be furnished in Chestertown, I therefore have made it my business to examine and buy upon the best terms in Philadelphia and New York, the largest stock ever offered in Chestertown in my line. All kinds of the most fashionable and can and will sell them lower in many instances than they can be bought in the city at retail, having purchased from the factories, and living and rents being much less. All goods warranted as represented when sold, and will be redeemed whenever differing from representation. NOTIONS.—Fine French and American Toys, the prettiest and most in quantity ever before seen in this market, fresh from the maker's hands. Pocket Books, pen-knives, best scissors, razors, combs and brushes, ink stands, and almost any such thing you can think of. Nothing but an examination can give you any idea of the extent of the stock.—Call and look at THE LARGE JEWELRY STORE in Chestertown.

Jewelry, Watches, AND CLOCKS,

REPAIRING.—Long experience in this department, and a first-rate stock of the best materials, enables me to assure the public that they shall have their work well done, and on the most moderate terms. All work warranted. Jewelry repaired while the customer waits if desired. J. V. SMITH.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain!

NITROUS OXIDE.

I DESIRE to call the attention of those suffering from bad teeth, (as there is nothing more calculated to undermine the constitution than decayed teeth,) that the time has come, and now is, when they can have their teeth taken out without pain, and that in Chestertown. When I first introduced this powerful æsthetic, I was called upon to vouch for its innocency, and the happy effect it was said to produce.—That I could not then do except upon the authority of other responsible parties. But, as I now have practical knowledge in its operation, it gives me great pleasure to say, I feel no hesitancy in vouching for it, surpassing as it does my expectation in its happy effect.
