NOW AND THEN

REFLUENCE

O lovely world, what could be lovelier
Than this clear sky, when summer days still hover
And the insistent bee seeks the last clover?
Squirrels begin their hoarding; woods astir
With winter plans reward the forager,
And the heart pauses, that was once a rover,
Whispering: "Summer has been, summer is over,
Frost has been tapping at the prickled burr."

Honey pressed deeper in the golden cells
Of the full comb is sweeter as the bee
Drains from each flower more sweet; the swinging bells
That crickets chime, quicken the memory
As the resurgent sound in spiraled shells,
Echoing seasons tidal as the sea.

Sara King Carleton.

The seasons come and go. Already the night birds and the cheery chirp of the cricket are heard in the land. The mournful coo of the dove, too, pervades the early morning hours, and well it may be mournful, for the huntsman will soon be allowed to shoot them, in order to provide a toothsome bit for the human appetite.

It was Thompson who long ago wrote "The Seasons", a great book, which has been covered up and forgotten in the long years that have elapsed since it was written, though one thought of it is still quoted, "Procrastination is the thief of time." And still the seasons one by one pass over all. As Holmes has said "May each new season nobler than the last, shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast, Till thou at length are free, leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

"C'est la Guerre"

Londan—The Government's command to waste no fuel has put an end to all artificial lighting of shop windows and showcases.

The West End's still handsomely-dressed windows now must depend upon daylight for illumination. Some stores may close basement departments.

Showcases in hotels, restaurants and subway stations also are dark.

Needs An Expert

A woman called the Akron Beacon Journal the other day for a photographer—at once.

"I want you," she said, "to take a picture for me out here. I want to enter it in your snapshot contest."

The Beacon Journal has been running the annual Eastman contest. The person who answered the call was somewhat shaken by the remark, but summoned strength to say: "But, lady, you're supposed to take those pictures yourself."

"Yes, I know," she said, "but I thought one of your men could do a much better job."—Editor and Publisher.

A Ton Of Coal

Each December for the past several years, the Green Mill & Elevator Company at Hamilton, Missouri, has given one ton of coal to every church in the town, including the Negro church. Mr. Martin Abraham, the manager of the company, says this is the most practical gift they can think of, and one that is always assured a warm welcome.

Opposition

President Roosevelt is reported to have enjoyed the following parrot yarn so much that he shared it with Prime Minister Shurchill:

A sailor walked into an auction shop as the auctioneer was asking for bids on a parrot.

"Fifteen dollars," said the sailor.

"Twenty," said another bidder.

"Twenty-five," said the sailor.

"Forty," said the other bidder.

"Forty-five," said the sailor. No further bids were heard, and the auctioneer said, "Sold."

The sailor took the bird and cage, passed over the money, and said: "That's an awful price to pay for a parrot. Can he talk?"

"Can he talk!" exclaimed the auctioneer. "Why, sailor, he was bidding against you."

Man—and the World

On Sunday afternoon, in order to have a little rest, Daddy tore a picture of the may of the world from a newspaper, sheared it into a number of odd-shaped pieces, and sent Joan into the living room to "put the world together again."

He hoped for an hour of quiet but in five minutes Joan was back, announcing that the map of the world was all laid out on the floor.

"How did you get the world together so quickly " queried her father.

"That was easy," exulted Joan. "I turned the pieces over and on the other side, I saw the picture of a man. I just put the man together right and when the man was together right, the world was right."—Paul Speicher in The Peninsula Light.

"Objector's" Camp To Be Opened On Shore

Ridgely, Md.—Congressman David J. Ward has been informed by the Selective Service System that the former Soil Conservation Camp at Powellville, Md., will be opened for a Conscientious Objectors' Camp between September 15 and 25. Between 150 and 175 men will be assigned to the camp.

A representative of the Selective Service System made an inspection of the camp last week and found everything in first class condition. After the closing of the CCC Camp at Powellsville, the Corps of Engineers had ordered removal of the buildings. The order was later rescinded, as it was necessary to keep the buildings intact for the proposed camp for conscientious objectors.

The assignment of these men to the camp will make it possible to continue the drainage work, which is so valuable to agriculture in that section of the Eastern Shore.

When Your Back Hurts—
And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.
