TELLING THE WORLD

Washington . . . The commandants of eleven U. S. Naval Districts, Naval Academy and Washington Navy Yard were called into simultaneous telephone consultations recently by their chief, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. This coast-to-coast telephone hook-up is said to have been the biggest in the experience of the Navy, and in line with Secretary Knox's effort to eliminate "red tape."

* * *

Sydney . . . Braving mine-infested waters and descending to a depth of 438 feet, an Australian diver, in a special chamber equipped with a telephone connected with a salvage ship above, recently directed the salvage of $9,600,000 in gold bullion from the liner Niagara off the New Zealand coast. The Australian-Canadian vessel was sunk by a mine in 1940.

* * *

San Francisco . . . The first Chinese telephone subscriber in the world was Quong Lee, whose name appeared in 1878 in San Francisco's first telephone directory. His grandson, with the same name and address, is listed in the current directory.

* * *

New York . . . Because telephone service continues by night as well as day, the Bell System reports that more than 100,000 men and women are on duty during some part of the hours between 6 p. m. and 7 a. m., when other people are normally at leisure or asleep.

* * *

Singapore . . . The last message sent by the British colonial governor just before the fall of Singapore included the words, "telephone girls are still at their posts."

One of the fundamental principles of the American System of Government is that a Judge be free of Obligation to any man or group. The Maryland law even prohibits a party designation, on the ballot, in connection with a candidacy for Judge. This is done in order that the people shall make their selection wholly upon demonstrated qualifications.

EDWARD D. E. ROLLINS, of Elkton is a candidate for Judge in the Second Circuit of Maryland, of which Kent County, is a part.

He has been elected State's Attorney three times, with increasing majorities. He has practiced law in this Circuit for twenty years; appearing many times before the Court of Appeals. He has earned the respect of the members of his profession, throughout the State.

His opponent was admitted to the bar only six years ago.

Mr. Rollins served his country with distinction in the first World War. Always he has taken a leading part in community work. His neighbors have learned to rely upon his judgment.

He deserves your active support.
