More than 55,000,000 Americans own at least one War Bond. That's an average of better than 1½ Bond owners for every U. S. family.

To clean a rope clothes-line thoroughly, wrap it around a washboard and scrub with a stiff brush, then place it under running water and rinse.

Points On Party-Lines

More people are now on party lines than ever before. This is due to war conditions, which have put a stop to the building of telephone plant. So, to furnish service to as many people as possible, we have had to stretch existing facilities to their utmost. One result is that more and more lines are now serving two families instead of one.

Party-line service is satisfactory service if these few reasonable rules are observed:

1. Avoid long conversations.
2. Do not make several calls in succession; give the other fellow a chance.
3. Do not interrupt the other party when he is making a call.
4. Hang up carefully after each call in order to keep the line open.

Friendly consideration and teamwork result in better service for all concerned.

Blankets a Nuisance IN THE BED OF TOMORROW!

DESIGNED BY EGMONT ARENS, INDUSTRIAL DESIGNER

Air-conditioning, radio, sun lamp and telephone may be yours in this wonderful bed of tomorrow!

In today's war-torn, hurried world, a bed is just a place to try to snatch a few hours of rest in preparation for another day of hard work. But tomorrow, when the grinding, never-ending demands of war have ceased, you're going to want something more than just "a place to sleep." The "Bed of Tomorrow" may be your answer.

This wonderfully luxurious creation is planned to give you perfect rest and relaxation, of course—but that's only a small part of the picture. You'll lie abed and let the health-giving rays of a built-in sun lamp pour upon you. Blankets? A nuisance! Air-conditioning will be automatic. Telephone, radio—every possible convenience at arm's length. This magnificent conception may be yours in the days of peace!

Today, when you ask the man for Gunther's, you are served a fine, premium beer . . . the finest it is possible to brew. But some day . . . who knows? Science may discover a way to brew an even finer beer.

The Gunther Brewing Company, leaders in the brewing industry since 1881, are prepared for any advance made in the brewer's art. They have always bought the finest, most costly malt and hops available . . . and will be quick to take advantage of any discovery that could possibly improve the Gunther's you buy today. If that day comes, you'll find Gunther's premium dry, beery beer still great . . . still the best beer you ever tasted, the finest that can be brewed!

The Gunther Brewing Co., Baltimore, Md.

If peace brings even finer beer...

its name will still be Gunther's
