North Carolina FFA boys owned 9,299 dairy cows and invested profits in War Bonds totalling $308,650. Edward made a net profit of $548.12 from his flock last year and is putting his profits in War Bonds. No. 4 shows Colin English, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Herbert Shuman, president Palmetto Chapter FFA, and Harrison E. Don't throw away your old handbag or purse, just because it looks dilapidated. There are two things you can do to save the price of a new bag, and to help make store stocks last longer. If the bag body is worn, you can replace it with new material—a piece of tapestry, perhaps, that may be in one of your trunks. If the frame is damaged, broken, won't close properly—you can buy a new frame at notion counters for very little.

When hanging clothes in the basement in the winter, put dresses, etc. on wire coat hangers. This makes the clothes keep their shape and takes up much less room on the line.

"The squeaking wheel gets the grease!"

They say that the old phrase, "The squeaking wheel gets the grease" applies to business. But somehow we don't like to think you have to make a lot of noise to be seen or sought after by the public. Not if you do a good job.

As you can imagine, it's almost impossible to make enough GOOD beer to go around these days. But we were convinced you'd rather be offered a little less of GOOD Arrow Beer... than a whole lot of Arrow that would just get by in a crowd.

You all seemed to agree with us. You've told us in a dozen different ways that you know, "Arrow is still a good glass of beer."

Yes, each glass of Arrow has that distinctively different flavor you've always liked and enjoyed. We'll keep it that way as long as we make Arrow.
