Exhibit H.

At the request of Allen M. Sherman, Andrew Mehaffey, and Francis Bloodgood, the following Deed of Trust was recorded, October 3d, 1857.

This Deed of Trust, made this thirtieth day of September, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by the Cumberland Coal and Iron Company, (a corporate body incorporated by an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland,) to Allen M. Sherman, Andrew Mehaffey and Francis Bloodgood, of the City of New York, in the State of New York—

Witnesseth: That whereas, from various causes, assets of the said Company of larger value, and which, under other circumstances, would have furnished available means greatly in aid of the payment of its debts, have been rendered for the present unavailable for the purpose; in consequence whereof, it has been found necessary, for some time past, to make loans usually on call or at short dates, to a considerable amount, in order to meet the engagements of the said Company as they respectively matured; and whereas, from the severe financial pressure, now so generally existing, from the uncertainty of the period of its duration, from the great difficulty which will undoubtedly be encountered in raising money on loans, in case it should become necessary to raise any largely increased amount, and for any considerable length of time, it has been considered and decided by the President and Directors of said Company, that they would be blamably regardless of the interests of the stockholders of said Company, if they should conclude to expose the Company to such losses and sacrifices as would inevitably result from continued efforts to comply punctiliously, at all hazards at any cost, with the engagements of the said Company; and that, on the other hand, there can be no just ground of complaint on the creditors or others, if sufficient and ample provision be made for the payment of the debts of the said Company, without any unnecessary delay, by dedicating
