Fly away, April—and as Longfellow wrote:

Hark! The sea-faring wild fowl loud proclaim
My coming, and the swarming of the bees.
These are my heralds, and behold! my name
Is written in blossoms on the hawthorn trees.
I tell the mariner when to sail the seas;
I waft o'er all the land from far away
The breath and bloom of the Hesperides,
My birthplace. I am Maia. I am May.

Yours quoting,

The Wanderer

SENTENCED TO DO TOWN WORK

Elkton—Five boys ranging in ages from 14 to 17 years of age, who were taken in by Elkton town officers, charged with breaking bottles on the streets and doing other malicious mischief, upon being given hearings before Trial Magistrate James Weinroth, recently, had fines imposed upon them amounting to about $35. In default of payment they were ordered to do a day each on town work. At least one of the boys had been before the same magistrate on a previous occasion for a minor offense.

POSTMASTER INSTRUCTS ON OVERSEAS MAIL

As many packages mailed overseas, to members of the Armed Forces, arrive at their destination in a damaged condition, Postmaster James J. Hadaway give the following instructions on their proper wrapping and addressing to assure safe delivery.

Boxes for overseas transmission should be stronger than containers used for parcels which do not leave our shores. Because of the great distance these parcels must be transported and the handling and storage they must undergo, it is absolutely necessary that all atricles for overseas be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard, testing at least 200 pounds.

Each box should be securely tied with strong cord, preferably by four separate pieces, two lengthwise and two crosswise, knotted at crossings. Sealing the flaps with gummed tape where they meet strengthens the box but the use of such tape alone is not satisfactory since the tape loosens if the boxes become wet or exposed to moist atmosphere.

Boxes should contain sufficient cushioning material so that the contents will be tightly packed to prevent any rattling or loosening of the articles within the parcels. Unless completely packed and tightly filled, boxes are apt to be crushed.

The War Production Board has approved the manufacture of boxes approximately 10 by 6 by 4 inches in size, which will be of greater strength and will permit more compact packing within the 5-pound weight limit than the containers previously approved. These may be purchased at the local stores.

It is also desirable that all fiberboard boxes be securely wrapped in heavy paper, if available, which materially strengthens the boxes. The boxes should be tied as above suggested, before and after applying the heavy paper wrapper. Sealed boxes should bear the printed inscription authorizing opening for postal inspection.

Care should be exercised to see that all parcels are clearly and definitely addressed, the complete and accurate Army or Navy address being used, and it is highly desirable that slips of paper containing the names and addresses of the sender and addressee and a list of the contents be inclosed in the parcels so that proper disposition of the parcels can be effected in the event the addresses on the outside become defaced in transportation, or the boxes become broken open and the contents scattered. It is preferable that the outside addresses be placed directly on the wrappers of the boxes rather than on labels pasted to the wrappers, since experience has shown that the labels frequently fall off when subjected to moisture.

Among the factors contributing to packages arriving in a damaged condition are:

(a) Containers made of corrugated material too light and brittle to carry the contents safely.

(b) Use of outside wrapping paper too thin, which becomes torn off and cord or string too light to withstand strain, which results in the contents becoming lost from the parcel.

(c) Insufficient and improper packing of breakable articles such as bottles of shaving lotions and jars of preserves; when broken, the escaped contents cause the outer container to disintegrate.

(d) Acceptance of perishable matter. This is prohibited.

(e) Loose packing of articles with sharp edges and corners thereby allowing movement of the articles within the container and resulting often in the outer wrapping being punctured or the tape holding the container together at corners being broken.

Postal authorities believe that by following the above instructions your packages will arrive overseas in proper condition.

GALENA HI-LIGHTS

The whole school was deeply moved over the sudden death of the President.

The pupils are now working for the United National Clothing Collection. This week quite a few bundles were brought in but we hope to make a huge pile before April 30th, the end of the drive.

On Monday afternoon at one o'clock the whole school assembled to hear President Truman's message to Congress and the nation.

On Friday afternoon Stanley Sutton and Helen Schellinger met at the school with a group of 4-H Clubers to explain the construction of a news story. This will enable the reporters of the 4-H Club News to send in well written articles.
