Civilians At War

The Government needs and asks its citizens in the 181st week of the war against Japan to:

1. Enlist your dog for scout duty with Pacific combat troops. The Army needs 500 large dogs immediately and 1600 before August. Write the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C.
2. Plan to can your surplus early vegetables and fruits. Present high blue point values indicate how necessary home-canned foods will be next winter.
3. Insulate your house now to keep it cool during summer, as well as to save fuel which will continue to be scarce next winter.

Foods In Plentiful Supply During June Listed

Carrots, cabbage, potatoes, tomatoes and onions are expected to be in plentiful supply throughout the greater part of the United States during June, the War Food Administration says. Also readily available will be dry-mix soups, dry edible peas, wheat flour and bread, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, oatmeal, and soya flour, grits and flakes. Apple butter, citrus marmalade, jellies, and grape, plum and fig jams continue in good supply. Due to military demands or transportation problems, some temporary local shortages may occur even in these plentiful foods. It is expected that an abundance of Georgia and Carolina peaches will be found in most Eastern and Midwestern markets after mid-June, and that substantial supplies of locally produced fresh vegetables will be available in all of the leading markets.

New Price Regulations On Auto Repair Announced

Specific limits have been set on the hours of labor that automobile repair establishments may charge for in computing prices for 56 common passenger car repair jobs, the Office of Price Administration announced. This action, effective June 14, 1945, is taken to check a practice in some repair shops of charging customers for more hours of labor than were actually required to do the particular repair job. The repair jobs covered range all the way from a minor brake adjustment to the complicated job of installing the crank shaft and bearings. All shops are required to supply sales slips or receipts to customers for any of the 56 listed operations, regardless of whether or not requested by the customer. The slip or receipt must describe briefly the service, cite its number in the new regulation, the shop's hourly rate, the number of hours charged for, the prices charged for parts and materials, and the total charge. Automobile repair services not among the 56 listed continue to be priced as formerly under the services regulation.

More War Prisoners To Be Used In Agriculture

The War Food Administration announced that it has been assured by the War Department that increased numbers of prisoners of war will be available this year for agricultural work. The WFA Office of Labor reported that a peak total of 85,000 war prisoners will be used in contract work in the period through July as agricultural laborers. Last year approximately 65,000 prisoners of war were available. The men will be assigned through the nine service command areas of the Army. The type of farm work they engage in will be determined by the Directors of State Extension Services. WFA will request an even larger number of POW's for farm work in the peak of the fall harvesting season.

Large Increase Of Alarm Clocks Not Likely Soon

Limitation Order L-275, issued April 14, 1944, to control production and distribution of spring-driven and electric alarm clocks, has been revoked to permit manufacturers to increase production whenever the large military contracts they now hold are reduced and materials and skilled labor become available, WPB announced. It said, however, that it foresaw no increase in the number of alarm clocks available to civilians in the immediate future. Production currently is at about one-third of the pre-war rate, estimated at 12,500,000 alarm clocks per year.
