For the Kent News.

ROCK HALL, August 23.

Messrs. Editors:—It is a matter of congratulation that with the termination of the excessive heat, the long unbroken silence of your correspondents also ends.

Kennedyville is a place, no doubt; indeed I know it, for I have been there. It has also a correspondent, as a late number of your paper certifies. All honor to Kennedyville! it moves. So does the world, but this is not asserted in the sense in which Galileo avowed it. The dog-star now rages not—then let steel pens rage.

Rock Hall, time-honored Rock Hall, where erst the busy, bustling, yet always courteous Captain Harris dispensed his generous hospitality, is yet progressive. Doctor Sharp, its present proprietor, has enlarged the store-house formerly occupied by Mr. Shreck, who, having bought the farm of Mr. Dickerson, has retired from the field of commerce to try his fortunes in the fields of maize, &c. The new store under the superintendence of Mr. Boyer, as agent for Mrs. Cavarro, is well stocked and doing, I should judge, a thriving business. The Doctor has disposed of his saw-mill, but two others in the vicinity of Grey's Inn fill its place. C. Cosden, Esq., runs one at the wharf, supplying peach crates; and Diehl, Leary & Co. have charge of another on the opposite side of the creek in Skinner's Neck, and saw lumber for any and every purpose.

The toil of the hardy men around Rock Hall and Grey's Inn who explore the circumjacent waters for the moluscular and finny treasures found in their depths, must tell effectively on the prosperity of the community. By the way, and parenthetically, did it ever enter into the calculation of our railway men how vast the trade these waters would furnish the road if it should ever reach them? The traffic in fish and oysters is now immense, and, if adequately protected, would develop into colossal proportions. If not better protected, however, than it is now, the marauding dredgemen from other States will soon ruin it.

I am not sure that you have been advised of the very acceptable improvement made by that prince of good fellows, S. A. J. Wickes, in the enlargement of his store house at Grey's Inn, and in fitting up a comfortable upper room for the especial accommodation of ladies waiting for the arrival and departure of the Chester river steamers. "May his shadow never grow less!" and let all the ladies say, "May his shadow never grow less!" Messrs. Wickes & Maslin, ever busy, attentive and polite, have charge of the store, and receive, as they well merit, a goodly share of custom.

About the commencement of the late unhappy civil strife our highly esteemed friends of the Esculapian profession had a meeting, and agreed, in view of the extraordinary high prices of all the necessaries of life, to increase the charges for their services. Then crops were good, prices high, and money abundant. The additional burden was scarcely felt. Now, however, the war is over, the necessaries of life are a great deal cheaper, the crops unequivocally short, and money—well—who has it? Yet there is no abatement, no modification of the tariff of rates. Is this right? Do not these gentlemen know that it is more difficult to raise five dollars now than it was to raise twenty in 1863, '4 '5? Was it not understood at the time the present rates were adopted that they should be temporary, and continue no longer than the exigencies which gave rise to them continued? Then has not the time come for a revision?

The people entertain a very high respect for their physicians, and very properly so too; indeed in many cases they love them, and so they should; but does not self-preservation and a proper regard for the interests of their families justify the most earnest protest against the present exorbitant rates, since the necessity for them has passed away, and the ability to pay them is proportionately less?—Come down, dear Doctors, do come down.

Apropos of professional matters. Rock Rall wood has been famous for legal lore since the days when the redoubtable Michael Miller met the late Judge Chambers in forensic strife, and assured the Judge that he (Miller) had forgotten more law than the Judge had ever learned. A legal case of almost universal interest has recently been decided by one of our Justices. A suit was instituted to recover of an employer of a free negro woman for professional services rendered the woman. The defence was that the services of the physician were not ordered, and that the woman being dead, her debts if any must be paid by her administrator, and there being no administration there could be nothing paid nor collected. In the absence of any order the plaintiff was nonsuited. Most certainly if a man employing a servant is to be held responsible for the servant's liabilities to the Doctor and druggist, as is usually held by the knights of the lance and the mortar, he is also responsible for that same servant's grocery and millinery bills. Yet who says so? Not the Doctors who hire them. The negro is now free, and if he is to enjoy the benefits of freedom, let him take also its disadvantages and annoyances, not the least of which is the payment of enormous medical bills.

Writing of Doctors reminds me to enquire something about the proposed monument to the memory of the lamented L. M. Ricaud. Quite a stir was made to raise the needed funds by subscription soon after his decease, and at least a year ago it was generally said the amount was secured, and the matter assured. What has been done? Who has the money paid in? Many of that good man's most humble friends, for of such he had many, would rejoice to see the consummation of their wishes in a suitable monument to commemorate the virtues of their friend. Let us heve it, or let us know why we cannot have it.

Yours as ever, SIMON SHARP.

PRESENT STRENGTH OF OUR NAVY.—The United States navy at present consists of 184 vessels, 51 of which are ironclads. Of the whole number 73 only are in active service, the others being laid up at the various navy-yards. There are but three iron-clads in active service, the Dictator, Saugus and Terror, all of which are attached to the North Atlantic fleet.

HORRIBLE ADVENTURE.—The Paris Patrie sustains the well earned reputation of the French press for producing sensational anecdotes, by contributing the following to that species of literature:

An adventure truly horrible, and which, if made the subject of a melodrama, would certainly be denounced as improbable, has just occurred in the environs of Vitcrbo, in the Pontifical States. A cattle dealer stopped at an inn on the road not far from the city. He seemed very well satisfied with the accommodation and with himself, and he related to the innkeeper that he had just made an excellent bargain about some cattle, by which he had netted a sum of 5,000 francs. After supper he started for the city, but had not gone far before he was attacked by three men, who tried to get him down. He defended himself bravely, and succeeded in making his escape. He returned to the inn and related what had happened. At the same time he said he would sleep there, as he did not wish, for fear of another attack, to resume his journey until the next morning. Accordingly, a room was prepared for him, and he retired to bed and soon fell asleep. In the course of the night he awoke, and heard some one speaking outside the door. What he heard filled him with horror. The innkeeper was saying to some one, "Dig the hole deeper in the garden. I will throw him out of the window, and you can bury him at once." The traveller understood the situation instantly. They were going to murder him, and the innkeeper was in league with the murderers to share the plunder and conceal his body. He immediately rose and dressed himself, and arming himself with a spade, which was standing in the corner of the room, he waited. It was not long before he heard some one approach the door. It was opened softly, and the cattle dealer saw the innkeeper about to step into the room. He immediately struck the wretch dead on the floor with the spade.

The cattle dealer then lifted up the body, and, opening the window, beneath which he could perceive in the dim light three men and a large pit dug for himself, he threw the innkeeper into the yard. The three men took up the body, which they did not recognize, and sat to work to bury it. The cattle dealer, without losing a second, crept down stairs, opened the door of the inn, and hurried off to give information to the Papal Carabineers. They soon arrived at the scene of the crime. The three accomplices of the would-be murderer had just finished their dismal work. They were immediately arrested and recognized as the three sons of the innkeeper. It was they doubtless, who, at the instigation of their father, has attacked the cattle dealer on the road.

Sinking Slowly.

Diseases that progress rapidly to a crises are not the only ones to be dreaded. Canker or dry rot does not blast a tree as suddenly as a stroke of lightning, but unless arrested, it destroys it as certainly; in like manner chronic debility, although it does not kill with the swiftness of yellow fever, is as sure to sap the springs of life eventually as any acute disease, if not checked by invigorating medication.—There is something inexpressibly touching in the spectacle of premature decay. Langour, pallor, emaciation, depression of spirits, and a distate for exertion, are its ordinary symptons, and they should be promptly met by tonic treatment. The best invigorant and exhilerant that can be administered in a case of this kind is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The stimulating principle of the preparation rouses the dormant energies of the system, and the strengthening and regulating properties give a permanent and healthful impulse to the vital forces thus brought into play. The failing appetite is re-awakened, the process of digestion and assimilation are quickened, the quality of the blood is improved, the secretions become more natural, and every organ that contributes to the nourishment of the body undergoes salutary change. By these means the repair of the physical structure is effected and its health and vigor restored. In no class of diseases has the beneficent operation of the Bitters been more marked and striking than in those characterized by general debility and nervous prostration. Ladies affected with these ailments find in this most wholsome of all tonics and correctives the safest and surest means of relief.—It is strong to restore and powerless to injure. Such is the uniform testimony of "clouds of witnesses."

POUDRETTE.

Twenty Years Success.

The Cheapest and Best Fertilizer extant.

$22 PER TON; 40 CTS. PER BUSH.

Especially prepared for Wheat, Rye, Turnips and Grass. It has no equal for all kinds of Grain and Vegetables, substantiated by references unsurpassed for reliability. Is a NATURAL MANURE free from adulteration. Every ton is taken from the privy well under our own supervision, it being an important branch of our business, having for twenty years sold it on its own merits and the demand constantly increasing we have extended our facilities for procuring night soil thus to accommodate new customers, while retaining our old patrons with the best fertilizer at a fraction of the extravagant prices of the many manufactured compositions called fertilizers. It is safe to predict at no far distant day experience will prove there are but two fertilizers besides good farm yard manure, "Poudrette and Guano, the only natural manures in the market." The farmer can illy afford to squander his money on the many manufactured compositions emblazoned through the columns of the rural press as fertilizers. The POUDRETTE is free from odor and agreeable to handle or apply. Our factories are open for the inspection of all interested in the use of Poudrette. Price $22 per ton.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, ETC.

No Medicine or Treatment can excel the Powerful Curative Power of

DR. SIMMS' WHITE PULMONIC BALSAM.

It cures with a rapidity unequalled by any other remedy offered for Throat and Lung diseases. It is recommended by over 2,000 persons in Wilmington, and hundreds in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities and communities throughout the country. Mr. Pennington, of Wilmington, Illinois, writes that there is not (with a few exceptions) a family in that city who will be without it if possible to procure it. Such is its popularity wherever it is known—and this popularity arises from the fact that it universally cures all who use it. There is no case of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Blood Spitting, Hoarseness, and even Pulmonary Consumption, where the system is not broken down with the wear of the disease, or pretended medicine, or inexperienced advice, that this Balsam will not cure if carefully used, according to directions. We guarantee it all we represent it to be, and invite a trial from the afflicted everywhere. Price, 50 cents, medium size, and $1 for large size bottles. Prepared only by
