KENT COUNTY FREE FROM DIPHTHERIA

No Cases Reported Here Last Year

The year 1937 went down into history with some noteworhty health records to its credit.

Provisional figures assembled by the State Department of Health and announced by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Department show that though there was an increase in the total number of cases of diphtheria reported in the State, there were fewer cases in the counties than in 1936. Sixteen of the twenty-three counties of the State came through the year without any deaths from diphtheria charged against them and in seven of the sixteen there were no cases of the disease reported. The seven with neither cases nor deaths were Allegany, Carroll, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot and Worcester. The additional counties in which there were no deaths from diphtheria were Calvert, Caroline, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Howard, Montgomery, St. Mary's and Somerset.

Mothers throughout the State, are urged, Dr. Riley said, to have their babies protected against diphtheria, before they are a year old, and certainly before they are old enough to go to school. The mothers are advised to go to the family doctor and if that is not possible to have the children immunized at the clinics arranged by the county health officers. In practically every instance, he said, when children have developed diphtheria, the record has shown that they had not been protected against the disease.

Typhoid fever had a less favorable record than in 1936. There were 327 cases with 31 deaths reported in 1937 in comparison with 266 cases and 27 deaths in 1936. No part of the State was entirely free from the disease but for eight counties, Anne Arundel, Caroline, Harford, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, no resident deaths from typhoid were reported.

Three counties, Calvert, Caroline had no maternal deaths from conditions asscoiated with childbirth. More babies were born in the State in 1937, 27,636, in comparison with 26,542 in 1936 and fewer babies died before rounding out the first year of life, 1,704 in 1937 in comparison with 1,842 in 1936. In other words, Dr. Riley said, 69 babies in each thousand born in 1936 died before the end of the year, and in 1937 the number of infant deaths dropped to 62 out of each thousand born.

Prenatal conferences for the care of expectant mothers have been established, Dr. Riley said, in nearly all of the counties. Over 1,600 women supervsion and advice and follow up nursing care.

TO OBSERVE DOLLAR DAY IN WILMINGTON

Annual Winter Event Next Wednesday

An announcement which practically every housewife on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula and adjacent counties of Pennsylvania and New Jersey will receive with real interest was made by the Mercantile Section of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce yesterday, when it released the news that its forty-fourth semi-annual "Dollar Day" sale would be conducted by merchants of that city on Wednesday, February 9th. This "Dollar Day" will be under the supervision of a special committee of which Edward A. Munch, well known Wilmington business executive, is chairman.

Co-operation of the Bureau of Police has been accorded cheerfully to protect out-of-town motorist purchasers from the normal restrictions of parking regulations. There is published in htis issue of this paper a coupon, whcih, if clipped out and pasted to the windshield of automobiles, will permit parking in Wilmington on "Dollar Day" as long as is desired, without police interference. This is a real accommodation, as it will permit the thoughts of the buyer to be concentrated on purchases.

This February, more than a hundred of Wilmington's leading mercantile establishments are participating in the "Dollar Day," after weeks of quiet but careful and thorough preparation of their stores and stocks, the careful combing of wholesale markets for the latest seasonal goods, the plannnig of drastic price reductions without sacrifice of quality of merchandise, and the arrangement of stores to display wares and care for expected throngs of purchasers. As is habitual, Wilmington stores expect large numbers of shoppers from all over the Peninsula and from the adjoining counties of Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey. The orderly and expeditions handling of such an unusual volume of store traffic is of itself a problem of no mean magnitude.

Official "Dollar Day" stores, as usual, will display a distinctive emblem and price cards, both of which will bear the copyright emblem of the Chmaber of Commerce. Shoppers are urged by the committee in charge to shop in those stores displaying these uniform window signs and price tickets, as these designate those merchants officially participating in the event.

All official stores in Wilmington wlil be open by 9 o'cloc, and are arranging for extra salespeople to prevent the necessity of anyone waiting to be served. Merchandise to be offered will meet the most discriminating taste and the entire range of "pocket-book sizes."

The Committee desires to stress that "Dollar Day" will be held on one day only, Wednesday, February 9th, regardless of weather conditions. It neither will be postponed, nor will "Dollar Day" merchandise bargains be available for reservation or purchase either before or after that date.
