ON THE SCREEN AT THE NEW LYCEUM

Robert Donat, who gave the screen one of its finest performances as the idealistic doctor of "The Citadel," once again reveals his consummate artistry and acting skill in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips," filmization of the celebrated James Hilton novel, which is currently on view at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, August 21, 22, and 23.

The story of "Mr. Chips" is the story of the education of youth the world over. Donat plays the kindly schoolmaster who comes to a large English school as a young man and passes his entire life there. He becomes the ideal of the boys in his care, and when these boys grow up they send their sons back to "Mr. Chips." He meets and falls in love with a young and beautiful girl and when she ultimately dies the tragedy leaves "Chips" with a great human understanding and compassion.

To the difficult role of "Chips" Robert Donat brings a forthright and sincere acting talent which marks him as one of the outstanding actors on the screen today. Playing four different stages in the life of the genial schoolmaster, from youth to old age, Donat makes him at once a human, breathing man, eccentric at times, but always understandable and lovable, and a symbol of the great profession of teaching. It is a performance which will live in the memory of screengoers for some time to come.

Although "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" is dominated by Donat's powerful characterization, tremendous appeal is offered in the role of his wife, played by Greer Garson, who has never before been seen on the screen but whose work here insures her of stardom in the near future. Lovely to look at, Miss Garson gives a warmth and intimacy to the role of the young girl whose life is cut off all too soon which make her scenes with Donat among those which stand out with clarity and power.

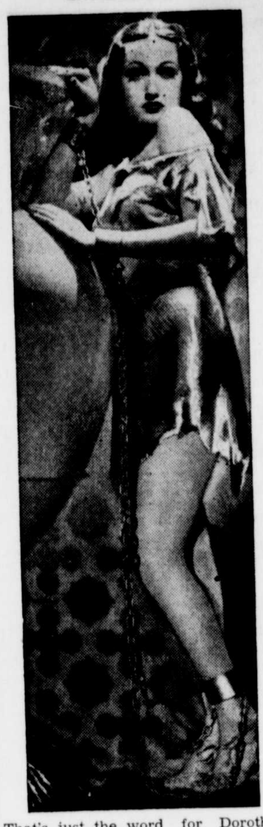
Not to be overlooked in a cast which includes some 2,000 English boys, is little Terry Kilburn, child actor discovery of "Lord Jeff" and "A Christmas Carol," who offers all his childish appeal to the part of Peter Cooley in the new offering.

The varied episodes of the story have been deftly woven together in the deft hands of Director Sam Wood whose contribution to the success of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" is a large one. Among the thrilling moments of the story are the rescue of the heroine from a peak in the Tyrolean Alps, a spectacular air raid during the World War and a great ball in the Vinna of the old ways. Cricket and football matches old interest and fast action.

BENNY CALLS

Jack Benny calls all lovers of comedy (and music) to see him as his natural gazzing self in Paramount's "Man About Town," which shows at the New Lyceum on Friday and Saturday, August 25 and 26. Jack's at his best in the role of an American theatrical impressario who becomes amorously involved in English society.

ENCHANTING!



That's just the word for Dorothy Lamour as she deserts her sarong for a slave girl costumes, and sings "Strange Enchantment," in Paramount's "Man About Town," which shows at the New Lyceum on Friday and Saturday, August 26 and 26. Co-starred with Jack Benny, Miss Lamour wil be seen as the singing lead of Benny's show troupe.

Local members of that almost innumerable legion of screen and radio followers who turn to Jack Benny for the best in comedy, have a distinct treat in store for them when his new picture, "Man About Town," shows on Friday and Saturday, August 25 and 26 at the New Lyceum Theatre, with Dorothy Lamour and Edward Arnold in co-starring roles.

Styled as a comedy with music, "Man About Town" presents Jack in the most natural role he has ever had in motion pictures, surrounds him with bevies of beauties and sensational dancing by "Rochester," who makes his screen debut with his radio boss, and by the world-renowned Merriel Abbott Dancers. He plays an American theatrical impressario who gets into a series of hilarious escapades with the English nobility in an effort to win the love of his singing star, a role essayed by Dorothy Lamour. The role is tailored precisely to Jack's most effective screen and radio personality, and really gives him an opportunity to gag his way through hilarious situations in his most effective manner.

Benny Lovelorn

Employing the foggy English capital city for background, the Morrie Ryskind story—he did the stories for "My Man Godfrey" and 'Stage Door'—gets under way when Jack's troupe finally joins him in London. Jack immediately becomes somewhat downhearted to learn that Miss Lamour is favoring the attentions of his orchestra leader, Phil Harris. On the advice of his valet, "Rochester," Jack decides to show Miss Lamour that he can be a Casanova when he wants to be.

Jack has little luck until he meets an attractive and lonesome lady of the English nobility, a role played by Binnie Barnes. She is distressed because her husband, Edward Arnold, spends too much time attending to his business. On the advice of a friend who has been in a similar position, she invites Jack to her country house for a week end. In a cleverly devised situation, Edward Arnold has gathered that Jack is dangerous as far as wives are concerned, and then matters really become embarrassingly hilarious for Jack.

Petty Girls in Show

Of course, Jack does manage to make love to Miss Lamour, and to present his show. And what a show it is! Girls by George Petty, the famous magazine illustrator who chose twenty of Hollywood's most delectable beauties to represents the Petty Girl and on the screen. Songs by Fredericw Hollander and Frank Loesser, and Matty Malneck and the latter entitled "Strange Enchantment," 'That Sentimental Sandwich,' and "Fidgety Joe". Amazing acrobatic dances by the Merriel Abbott Dancers in a harem sequence that would make a sultan turn purple with nevy.

The featured supporting cast of the picture also includes Betty Grable, E. E. Clive and Matty Malneck and his orchestra. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., the "Ziegfield of Hollywood," produced the picture for Paramount with Mark Sandrich directing.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
