Our National Wealth.

An elaborate statistical brochure, compiled by Mr. Francis A. Walker, Superintendent of the Census Bureau, contains interesting information pertaining to the wealth of the Union, obtained from the appraisement of each State and county by the United States Marshals. The amassed wealth of the whole country, according to these statistics, was in 1870 $30,068,488,507, against $16,159,616,068 in 1860, and $7,135,780,228 in 1850. It will thus be seen that notwithstanding the immense waste and loss of property during the exhausting four years war, together with the loss of $2,000,000 in slave property, the increment of national wealth during the past decade reaches a little over 86 per cent., while during the past two decades the gain has been a little more than three hundred and ten per cent. The growth of real and personal property in the leading States has no parallel in the world's history. New York greatly exceeds in wealth any other State in the Union, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Illinois, Missouri and Indiana ranking next in the order written. The wealth of Maryland in 1860 was $376,919,944, and in 1870 it was $643,748,976.

The true valuation of the property of the whole country exceeds that of the British Isles, which is set by the eminent statistician, D. A. Baxter, at £6,000,000,000 sterling. The two valuations differ in other particulars. In Great Britain the active capital exceeds that of the United States, the chief investments here being in land and buildings. In Great Britain, also, the returns upon investments average little more than four per cent., while in the United States they average nearly eight per cent. They differ also in this, that the debt of Great Britain is nearly twice that of the United States, and the American valuation would preponderate were the debt on each side to be deducted. A portion of our national debt is held abroad, but the yearly growth of that part abroad is more than balanced by an annual growth of $250,000,000 in our railway investments into which British iron enters. The wealth of the United States is more progressive in its character than that of Great Britain. It nearly doubles in a single decade, while that of England takes ten decades to accomplish an equal growth. The rapidity of our growth will carry the valuations further apart in the future. The foregoing figures clearly demonstrate that the material progress of the country, during the last ten years, has been extraordinary and unparalleled.—N. Y. Shipping List.

VIRGINIA POLITICS.—Another tilt on Virginia politics took place in the House on Tuesday between Messrs. Platt (radical,) and Duke (conservative.) The former charged that the democrats and conservatives in Virginia were constantly violating the law. To this Mr. Duke said he would answer that "every officer of the United States courts in the State of Virginia is a radical. Every commissioner who tries cases on the preliminary examination belongs to the party. Every juryman who is summoned in a federal court belongs to the same party. Such a thing as summoning a democrat upon a federal jury in the State of Virginia would be like finding roses blooming in the open air at Christmas." He cited the fact that the enforcement act became a law in 1870, and that his colleague charged that since then hundreds of thousands of crimes have been committed, and yet but one solitary case had ever been tried, and in that the party was acquitted. "If then," said Mr. Duke, "the charge is correct that crimes are committed throughout Virginia, one of two things must be true, either that his charges are mere myths and misrepresentations, or that the courts, their officers, their juries, are utterly corrupt. He may take either horn of the dilemma; one or the other he must take, either that his charges are untrue, or that the courts and juries in the State of Virginia are corrupt."

THE AMERICAN INDIRECT CLAIMS—Prospective Arrangement.—The Evening Post, in commenting on the dispatch to the associated press from London stating that the Post of that city published a rumor that an important dispatch had been received from Washington giving a prospect of a satisfactory issue of the Alabama question, says: "The important dispatch from London which we print, indicating that an amicable agreement between England and the United States is likely to be made at or ce, deserves more attention and more credence than its excessively cautious language would commonly attract. Independently of this London rumor, we have strong reason to believe that our government has conveyed to great Britain its willingness to exclude, by agreement, the consideration of claims for indirect damages from the work of the arbitrators, at least so far as to demand no award upon this ground. Those claims, indeed, or rather those representations of injuries which we have suffered at the hands of Great Britain, must remain in the case as they are there presented, as arguments in favor of the award of a gross sum, but not as claims for money to be paid us. The proposition, as we are informed, is in a form which the British government can hardly fail to accept."

THE LIBERAL MOVEMENT.—The liberal reform movement appears to have gained considerable momentum from the recent declaration of sympathy by leading New York politicians. The names of prominent men, hitherto severely reticent, in various sections of the country, are almost daily becoming connected with the movement. The Springfield (Ill.) State Register of the 9th instant has the following significant paragraph concerning the progress of the liberal idea in that State:

"An immense liberal republican movement is in progress in this city, and in a few days a call will be issued calling a State Convention to select delegates to the Cincinnati Convention. The names to the call will embrace about all the prominent republicans in this State. Some of the names to this document are already on the 'regular' call for the State Convention of May 22.

THE temperance advocates of Shippensburg, Pa., who have been elated over the happy effects produced by the working of the Local Option law, have met with a crushing calamity at the hands of Judge Junkin, who decided that the law was unconstitutional, and upon his decision licenses were granted tavern keepers as if no Option law existed.

A DOUBLE FUNERAL.—A double funeral took place at Concord, in Caroline county, on Friday last. The corpse of Mrs. Willis, wife of Hon. A. J. Willis, and that of Mr. J. W. Gootoe, were placed near the altar in the Church and the funeral sermon preached by Rev. S. T Gardner. The services over, and the burial of each occurred the same time, in the church-yard.

DANIEL DREW has given thirty acres of land, at Carmel, N. Y., to the Methodists, for a collegiate institute, adjoining their female seminary. He also builds the college.

MISS NELLIE GRANT, the President's daughter, has gone to Europe, in company with Mrs. Borie, wife of the ex-Secretary of the Navy.

Nathan Coker, the "Fire King," Come to Grief.

The old negro of Denton, Md., Nathan Coker, known as the fire eater, or "Fire King," has come to grief in Baltimore.—A pupil of Nathan's was giving exhibitions at the Front Street Theatre, Baltimore, recently, and for five consecutive evenings the greatest success was attendant upon the exhibition, good audiences were present, a wide spread interest was created in the city, the personage was becoming famous and immortalization seemed to threaten him. But on the sixth night he severely burned his tongue and refused to re-appear upon the stage to complete the performance for the evening. He was unmoved by the entreaties and imprecations of his managers, and besought them to kill him rather than insist upon his renewing his attempt to eat fire. He at once sought medical advice, and after a few week's treatment returned to his home.

Nathan, dissatisfied at the failure of his pupil, determined to maintain the reputation of his profession, says the Wilmington Commercial, and proceeding to Baltimore, he secured a hall, and although his coming was less pretentiously heralded, he was received with greater eclat, and hundreds flocked to see him. Not satisfied with the insignificant feats which his pupil had performed, and which he had accomplished so often that they had become insipid to himself, he proposed to retrieve not only the honor which he felt had been sacrificed by others, but also to outstrip them and all others who claimed to do the same thing. He had, for a long time, vaunted his ability to sit upon a red hot stove, but had never attempted it.—This he, therefore, included in his performance, and heating a stove to a glowing heat, he proceeded to fulfil his promise. From some cause, however, he did not remain seated long, and what was more he could not sit down comfortably anywhere else. His flesh was literally burned to a crisp, and it also became necessary for him to seek medical advice. He had doubtless learned that it is far easier to hoe corn under the scorching rays of an August sun, than to sit upon super-heated stoves. In the meantime, a rare scene was being enacted at home. The entire community was on the qui vive. Some were practicing fire-eating, relying for success upon faith, which Coker had frequently assured them was all sufficient; others were prophesying the wealth and glory with which the absent ones would return, while others, more intimately connected by ties of consanguinity, were computing the personal advantage this wealth would be to them. Great, therefore, must have been the mortification when the real facts become known. Thus ends the history of fire-eating and the Fire King. It is a subject which has furnished much food for journalists, and the newspapers have made quite a reputation for Coker. His last effort has, however, stripped him of his reputation, and all his aspirations for fame will have to be gratified from some other source.

STATE SENATORS.—The following are the Senators who hold over for the Session of 1874: Baltimore city, 1st legislative district, John R. Blake; 3d legistive district, Isaac M. Denson; counties, Anne Arundel, Wm. H. Tuck; Calvert, Henry Williams; Carroll, John K. Longwell; Howard, John Lee Carroll; Kent, Geo. W. Spencer; Queen Anne's, James T. Earle; Somerset, George R. Dennis; Wicomico, Andrew T. Crawford; Washington, Z. S. Claggett; Frederick, Lewis H. Steiner; Baltimore, T. Sturgis Davis.

Elections will be necessary to fill the places of the following retiring Senators in 1874: Baltimore city, second legislative district, Henry Snyder; Allegany, Alfred Spates; Caroline, Daniel Fields; Cecil, John M. Miller; Dorchester, Daniel M. Henry; Harford, Wm. B. Stephenson; Montgomery, William O. Sellman; Prince George's, Geo. W. Wilson; Talbot, Charles M. Jump; Worcester, Wm E Timmons; St. Mary's, Jas. S. Downes, elected to fill the unexpired term of Senator Maddox, deceased; Charles, Barnes Compton, resigned; total 12.

A PIPE IN A POWDER ROOM.—The Hartford Times says: A singular occurrence is told us concerning a man at the powder mills. Of course the utmost precautions are used by the employees—wooden shoes, and no smoking or matches are allowed on the premises. This man, it seems, had been smoking; going into an apartment where there were a large number of open barrels of powder—it is said 100—waiting to be headed, and sat down on the edge of one of them for a few minutes, when he was suddenly called out to see a visitor. Arriving outside the door, he discovered that his coat was on fire! He had tucked his pipe into his pocket before entering the powder-mill, and had not, as he thought he had, extinguished the fire. A moment more, and there might have been such a powder mill explosion as Connecticut has not witnessed.

VERY SAD.—The Cambridge News says two weeks ago, a glad, happy couple left Wallach's wharf for Baltimore, to be married as soon as they arrived at the Monumental City; but the gentleman—Mr. Robert Wilson—was taken sick with Cerebro Spinal Meningitis, and in less than a week his remains were sent home on the steamer, in charge of the now sad, hartbroken woman who was to have been his bride.

THE Town Commissioners of Church Hill have appointed Washington Collins Bailiff of the town. Dice were not brought into requisition this time.

The True Grounds of Confidence.

Whence comes that firm reliance, that absolute, undoubting faith in the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a remedy for indigestion, billious disorders, intermittent and remittent fevers, which notoriously prevail in all parts of the United States? This confidence has been growing for twenty years, and it is still extending. It is not the result of credulity; it has not been engendered by any human device, but is the spontaneous and natural consequence of experience. What people see daily going on under their own eyes they cannot question. When families in unhealthy districts that resort to this wholesome vegetable tonic, as a preventive, escape periodical fevers, and their immediate neighbors, who neglect this precaution, are prostrated by the disease, how is it possible that the phenomenon should be without its lesson? In like manner when it is seen that obstinate cases of dyspepsia, of liver complaint, of constipation, of nervous weakness, and of general debility, yield to the operation of the famous remedy, how can even incredulity itself withhold its endorsement? Eye-witnesses of the salutary effects of the Bitters are to be found in every civilized settlement on this continent. The thousands upon thousands who owe their restoration to health and strength, or their preservation from sickness, to its extraordinary medicinal properties, are enthusiastic in its praise. The multitudes who recommend it in a neighborly way to their friends and acquaintances, as well as those who make public their estimate of its virtues, are always ready to state their reasons for the faith that is in them. They have all either felt or witnessed its beneficent operations.
