SATURDAY - - AUGUST 31, 1872.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT:
HORACE GREELEY, of New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:
B. GRATZ BROWN, of Missouri.

FOR CONGRESS — FIRST DISTRICT:
RICHARD B. CARMICHAEL.

HON. R. B. CARMICHAEL.

The telegraph informed us on Wednesday night that this gentleman had received the Democratic nomination at Princess Anne for Congress. At this writing our delegates have not returned, and we are without particulars as to the balloting, but presume that the contest was mainly between Judge Wickes, of Kent, and E. K. Wilson, Esq., of Worcester. However, after seventy-one ballots had been taken, and there seemed no prospect for the nomination of either of the candidates who had been presented, Judge Carmichael's name was placed before the convention and he was nominated, receiving 17 votes. This result was of course altogether unexpected, but as it has been attained, we hope that every friend of the liberal movement—of constitutional law and order—of good government and the rights of the States—will rally to the support of Judge Carmichael and use all honorable means to secure for him an overwhelming vote at the approaching election.

Judge Carmichael is as well known, we suppose, as any man in Eastern Maryland. He represented this district in Congress about thirty years ago, and has been much in public life. As a Circuit Judge he had the reputation of being a fearless, just and faithful officer, and on this account—because of his persistency in urging the supremacy of law over brutal force, he fell under the ban of the federal authorities during the war; he was rudely assaulted while on the bench and in the discharge of his judicial functions, taken therefrom by military satraps, and without the form of trial even by court martial, was for a long time incarcerated in a Northern fortress.

No one will question Judge Carmichael's eminent qualifications for the distinguished position for which he has been nominated. His high moral character—his christian virtues in both public and private life—his enlarged experience and familiarity with governmental matters, eminently qualify him for the place; and although other gentlemen were preferred in different sections of the district, there is no reason why a cordial and united support should not be given him. He is a warm supporter of the Liberal movement, and heartily endorsed the nomination of Greeley and Brown as the only hope of a reform in the administration of the Government, and therefore has a claim upon all the friends of the national ticket. Then let us inscribe on our banner the names of GREELEY, BROWN and CARMICHAEL, throw it to the breeze, and march onward to VICTORY!

A GRANT "BANTLING."—Blanton Duncan, the old fossil humbug of Kentucky, seems to be meeting with poor success in enlisting the sympathies of Democrats in his "straight out" enterprise. We have not seen the name of a single Democrat of national reputation connected with the affair, but on the contrary the whole thing seems to be engineered by the Grant party, in the hope of catching those Democrats who cannot see the wisdom of any effort to save the country except through instrumentalities of their own special choosing. Our party throughout the country is almost a unit for Greeley and Brown, and this last desperate effort of the administration to create a diversion in its favor by extending aid and comfort to the Louisville Convention will prove futile. It is a Grant "bantling," and no Democrat who is sincere in his desire to defeat the Grant party will be humbugged by it. Appeals have already been made to the Radical national executive committee for funds to defray the expenses of delegates to Louisville, and we doubt not that most of those who go there will do so on money obtained from that source. But for the encouragement the movement has indirectly received from administration quarters it would have died out long ago.

EX-GOVERNOR SEYMOUR'S OPINIONS.—A reporter of the New York World had a conversation with ex-Governor Seymour on Monday, at the St. Nicholas Hotel, and the following expressions are given as the opinions of that talented orator and acknowledged statesman and sagacious politician:—The Governer expressed himself satisfied that the campaign would result in a brilliant success to the Democratic candidates. "But Governor," said our reporter, "an opponent suggested to me this morning that there were signs of an ebb in the Greeley movement." The Governor replied, with a smile, that if by this it was meant to imply that there was any lack of vigor in the canvass just now, he was prepared to admit it. "For," said he, "I do not see how we can expect any violent exertions in the midst of such weather as this. But if it is meant that there is any decline in Mr. Greeley's popularity, I deny any such statement. My observations lead me to believe that his prospects improve daily, and that of his election there can be no reasonable doubt."

APPEALING FOR DEMOCRATIC VOTES.—The Radicals of New York are appealing to Democrats to support Dix, their nominee for Governor. Their ranks have been so thinned out by the great stampede of Liberal Republicans, that, like a drowning man, they are willing to catch at any straw to save them. But their appeals will be in vain. New York Democrats will be found "deaf to the snare of the fowler," and so the Grantites may as well string their harp to another tune.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—The Maryland State Agricultural and Mechanics' Association has been actively engaged for some time, says the Baltimore Sun, in preparations, now nearly complete, for the coming annual exhibition, the fourth, to be held at their spacious grounds at Pimlico, Baltimore county, on October 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th, and if one may judge from the extent of such preparations, the exhibition of 1872 will surpass any as yet held upon the new grounds. The officers of the Association announce to the public that communications in relation to space for exhibition may be sent in at once, and the earlier the better, each communication stating clearly what amount of space is required, and for what purpose. "Trials of speed" will take place at three o'clock each afternoon, with a hurdle race, over four hurdles, distance one mile, on the last afternoon.

THE U. S. SENATE.—The United States Senate has been so largely Radical for many years that people have come to the conclusion that it was not possible for it to be changed for a long time. But the New York Tribune, in an article in a recent issue, contends that the changes that are likely to be made during the present campaign will make a grievous rent in that overshadowing majority, leaving the opposition 31 to 42, so that six changes more will shift the preponderance of numbers. When a reaction sets in it generally runs very rapidly.

Horrible Murder in Baltimore.

A shocking homicide was committed about two o'clock on Tuesday morning, at the dwelling, No. 664 West Lombard st., Baltimore, the victim being an aged lady, Mrs. Amelia Wheat, who was killed by a pistol shot while asleep in her bed. The occupants of the house, in addition to the victim, were her nephew, a young man named Jesse Uppercue, his mother and sister, and a colored servant. Mr. Uppercue states that his aunt had called him into her room, and while lying on the bed beside her had fallen asleep, when he was aroused by a pistol shot and saw a retreating figure which he pursued and at which he fired his own pistol, but that the intruder escaped. He then ran to the front door and cried for help. When the police came he told them that the house had been entered by burglars and that his aunt had been shot. An examination of the premises by the police, however, failed to convince them that the house had really been entered or that anything had been stolen. Subsequently a coroner's inquest was held, which, after a number of witnesses had been heard, returned a verdict of death by the hands of some one to the jury unknown. One of the signers of this verdict, however, entered a protest setting forth that he believed the young man, Mr. Uppercue, was the murderer. Later in the day Uppercue was arrested and lodged in jail to answer the charge of murder. He was to have been married in a few days to a young lady residing on Poppleton street. Mrs. Wheat was a lady of considerable property, and whoever killed her did it no doubt from mercenary motives. Mr. Uppercue was raised and educated by Mrs. Wheat's husband, now deceased, and is studying law under John P. Poe, Esq. It is hard to imagine what motive he could have had for killing his aunt, as it is stated that she had already deeded to him a large share of her property.

The Sun of Thursday says: Yesterday afternoon a youth named Albert Welles, aged 15 years, living at 349 Hollins street, visited the western police station and produced a seven-barrelled Allen revolver, which he claimed to have picked up, in the presence of others, on a lot in the rear of No. 668 West Lombard street, two doors from the house where the homicide was committed. The finding of the pistol was supposed to throw some light upon the mystery surrounding the tragedy of the night before, but Frederick Pinkney, Esq., deputy State's attorney, who chanced to visit the police station, with an indictment already prepared against Uppercue, pronounced the finding of the pistol "a weak invention of the enemy," and ridiculed the idea of producing it to affect the case.

On Wednesdy, the prisoner was visited at the jail by Judge Inglis, of South Carolina, and Neilson Poe, Esq., his counsel who were engaged in a long conversation with him. About 11 o'clock his mother visited him, and the meeting was a very affecting one, the lady occasionally giving way to her maternal feelings.

After a few minutes of conversation pen, ink and paper were called for, and the prisoner was requested to sign a check for $200, with which to pay the funeral expenses of Mrs. Wheat, he having control of all her funds. He signed this check with a firm and steady hand, and, turning to his mother, who evidenced slight nervousness, remarked, "you needn't be alarmed, mother, this charge against me will never damage either your reputation or mine." The mother turned away, bidding him adieu, and the prisoner at once became an object of interest to the members of the grand jury, who were at that time making their official visit. He was approached by several members, and chatted freely with all who spoke to him.

MAINE AND VERMONT.—The full vote of Vermont and Maine has not been out since 1868. It is probable that there will be a very large vote in both States in the coming September elections, and therefore comparisons should be made with the vote of 1868 to ascertain what has been gained or lost by the Radicals. It is obviously unfair to make this year's full vote compare with last year's light vote, when 24,000 people did not go to the poll's in Maine, and 12,000 stayed away in Vermont. The vote for Governor in Maine in September, 1868, was as follow: Republican, 75,834; Democratic, 55,431; Republican majority, 20,403. The Vermont vote the same month was: Republican, 42,615; Democratic, 15,289; Republican majority, 27,326. Therefore, any falling off of 20,000 Radical majority in Maine and 27,000 Radical majority in Vermont this year must be considered so much Liberal gain.

The election in Maine takes place on the 5th of September.

WEST VIRGINIA ELECTIONS.—A telegram from Parkersburg, West Virginia, announces the adoption of the new constitution by a majority of 3,500, and the election of Jacob, Independent Democrat, for Governor, by 1,000.

ORPHANS' COURT, Tuesday, Aug. 27th.—Present Judges Beck and Scott.—The release of B. M. Crawford, Trustee for E. B. Caulk and Lydia A. Staats, to Walter J. Griffith, was received. Also, release of Georgeanna Butler to John Hadaway, adm'r of John Butler. Miss Kate Pryor, daughter of James L. Pryor, was selected to fill the vacant scholarship in the Baltimore Female College. On application, ordered, that citations be issued directed to Richard Smyth, of Kent county, and James Kemp, of Baltimore city, to testify for Sarah E. Warner, petitioner in the matter of the estate of S. W. Canady, returnable Sept. 5. John Hadaway, guardian to Andrew J. and Ann C. Cruikshank, returned his final guardian acc't. Mary E. Watts, guardian to Elizabeth, Mary E. and Laura E. Watts, returned separate guardian accounts for the years 1868, '69, '70 and '71.

ACCIDENT TO A CONDUCTOR.—Mr. Edwin Bastian, the conductor on the morning train of the Kent Co. Railroad, was injured at Townsend on Monday. While coupling cars he was caught between them and considerably bruised about the shoulders and breast, and it was feared that he had sustained some internal injury. He was put on the train and brought to this town, where he received the attention of Dr. Holton, and though still suffering some pain, his condition has greatly improved.

THE FREEMAN FARM.—R. Hynson, Esq., as Trustee, offered at public sale on Tuesday last the real estate of the late John M. Hudson. The farm was offered in three parcels and withdrawn, the highest bids being as follows: The front farm, containing 300 acres, at $65 per acre; the back farm, 160 acres, $32; the lot, 28 acres, at $50.

THE HOG-PEN NUISANCE.

Messrs. Editors:—The Commissioners of Chestertown, some months since, with commendable solicitude for the health of the inhabitants, adopted such measures as in their judgment were suitable to prevent the introduction of that dreaded pestilence—the small-pox. Allow me to suggest that cholera, dysentery or typhoid fever is not a desirable visitation: and if there was reason to apprehend the communication of small-pox by means of a chance visitor, coming here on an excursion, there is more reason to fear that one or other of the diseases named above will be generated by the fetid effluvia from numerous hog pens. If we must have styes in the town and around it, let disinfectants be used, or other means be employed to render them less offensive.—What right have the keepers of hogs to neglect cleanliness, to the certain discomfort and probable ill-health of their fellow citizens? Is lime too dear? Carbolic acid unattainable? Copperas out of the question? Then dry earth ought to be abundant, such a season as this, and it is "dirt-cheap" at that. Such smells as have contaminated the atmosphere for several days past, if continued, will fairly give our town the sobriquet of STINK-TOWN.

Dear Editors, do prevail upon the keepers of swine, or the honorable Commissioners, to abate the nuisance, and confer a favor upon THE SUFFERERS.

QUEEN ANNE'S ITEMS.—We find the following in the Centreville papers:

A Sad Affair—Three Men Drowned.—We learn from the Baltimore Sun, of Friday, that on Thursday afternoon a most distressing affair occurred at the foot of South street, resulting in the drowning of three men, two of whom were citizens of our county. It seems that the steamer Matilda had just left her wharf, en route for Fair Haven, when a boat containing Mr. Albert Shriner, a Baltimore butcher, Mr. Sam'l C. Waters, a merchant in Piney Neck, near Queenstown, and Mr. Henry Coursey, also of Piney Neck, were seen to put off for the steamer, when she slacked up, and the men rowed under her guards, capsizing their boat and throwing themselves into the water. Ropes were immediately thrown over, but strange to say neither of the men was seen to rise to the surface. The services of an experienced tongsman were availed of, and in a short time all the bodies were recovered, but life was extinct with all three.

Dr. C. M. Newnam, a prominent physician of Church Hill, and Theo. Vickers, of Centreville, left this county last week for Covington, La., where they propose to take up their residence.

The Carpenter's Island Fishing Club, composed of a number of gentlemen of this town who spend a week each year on Carpenter's Island, have just returned home from their annual trip. They enjoy themselves fishing, crabbing, shooting, smoking, lying under the shade inhaling the delightful sea breezes, etc., and invariably declare the last trip superior to any before.

A Grand Dress Tournament will take place at Queenstown, in this county, on Thursday, the 12th of September next.

APPLES OF GOLD SET IN PICTURES OF SILVER.—Governor Smith, of Georgia, in a letter accepting the nomination of the Democratic party of that State, for Governor, holds the following language:

I cannot separate myself from my own people. Nay, more: I would stand by them even when in the wrong rather than give the enemies of good government my countenance and support. The National Convention having nominated candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, and the State Convention having recognized and accepted these candidates, I shall not permit myself to call in question either the wisdom and patriotism which directed the choice made by the one or the acceptance or endorsement accorded by the other. The Democratic party, with Greeley and Brown as its candidates, is infinitely preferable, in my judgment, to any other political organization in the country. I shall give to the Baltimore nominees, therefore, my earnest and zealous support, believing that in their election the cause of honesty and constitutional government will achieve a triumph over fraud, corruption and usurpation.

Here we have the issue fairly stated, and we trust that our friends will with one accord unite in opposition to the party of "fraud, corruption and usurpation."

THE Elkton Whig says: "A mammoth hog is owned by James B. Price, Esq., proprietor of the Farmers' Hotel, in this place. It is 2 years old in November, and now weighs 1,300 pounds. Mr. Price has refused several fine offers for it, and has now a standing offer of $500, by a gentleman in New York."

Wheat Growers—Do not jeopardize your crops this year, by using untried fertilizers.—The "Excelsior," manufactured by J. J. Turner & Co., has been used successfully for the past thirteen years, and it is the best.

CHESTERVILLE ITEMS.

Messrs. Editors:—We always dislike to see one-half of a communication taken up with an apology for writing, and so don't intend to apologize for this introduction, but merely make a little explanation.

Chesterville, as you are probably aware, is a very small place, and if we confine ourself strictly to it and its immediate vicinity for our items, numerically they will bear strong resemblance to angels' visits—and you know how scarce they are. Therefore, we claim the privilege of itemizing under the above head all our eyes do see, and our ears do hear, and centreing all the glory thereof within the boundaries of our own loved Chesterville, whose antiquity entitles it to such honors. (P. S.—If the devil were here, he would doubtless say that "antiquity" alone entitled it to such consideration.) "With these preliminary remarks," in pulpit parlance, we proceed.

On the 7th and 8th of September the Quarterly Meeting of the M. E. Church South, at Millington, will be held. The M. E. Church will hold its Quarterly Meeting in Chesterville on the 14th and 15th. At that time also it is proposed to commence a protracted meeting in the latter Church. On the closing of the camp recently held there were several additions to the Church. For some days past, Rev. George T. Tyler, pastor of the former Church, has been ill of bilious fever.

It is reported that a Mr. Rash, residing between this place and Chestertown, was robbed of a pocket-book containing $157 in Millington, on Monday night last. A strange boy was the suspected party, and he is reported to have been seen on the public road between here and Millington the same evening. At last accounts he had not been arrested.

Here, as elsewhere, many wells have gone dry this summer. Sometimes the whole village had to depend on one or two pumps for its supply of water.

The damage to Gooding's mill dam has been repaired, and the mill is now in running order.

Our school will be opened, it is said, on the 8th proximo. Miss Julia Brashaw, a former teacher, has been employed as Principal.

In Galena, on Sabbath morning last, Mr. Wm. Crew and brother were thrown from a carriage, and the former badly injured. He was pitched out on his head, which was severely cut; his breast was badly bruised, and his whole nervous system greatly shocked. He was picked up in an insensible condition, and carried into a house near at hand, and did not recover consciousness till the next morning. He is now, we hear, improving. It is said the horse became frightened at a cow criminal, who goes about with a chain and log to her leg. The carriage was pretty well used up. WALTER.

AN INVITATION TO LOUISVILLE DECLINED—The Straight-Outs Catch a Tartar.—D. G. Bush, Esq., one of the leading democrats of Conti county, Penn., having been invited to attend the Straight-out convention at Louisville, declines the honor, and replies to the gentlemen tendering the invitation in the following manner:

"No person outside of a lunatic asylum can imagine that the nominees of the Louisville convention could, by any possibility, be elected. The only objeet, therefore, in holding that convention is to distract our party, direct votes from Greeley, and thereby directly assist in the re-election of Grant. But two classes of men will take part in such a programme—the one natural fanatics adhering to our party, who are always dissatisfied with what the majority does; the other, a class of corruptible men who are being purchased by the money stolen by Grant's administration from the people. I therefore think you are mistaken in saying 'the honor of no democrat can be assailed for participating in such a national assemblage.' I see no particular objection in you gentlemen protesting against 'the shameful abandonment of principles,' and 'disgraceful abandonment of political honor,' which Judge Black, Judge Woodward, Charles R. Buckalew, Hiester Clymer, and more than three hundred thousand other Pennsylvania democrats fail to protest against, especially if the radical State central committee, Simon Cameron and Grant's administration are willing to pay the cost of the protest. In conclusion, you ask me to furnish you with the address of gentlemen who will go from this congressional district as delegates to Louisville, 'so that transportation can be furnished to and from the convention.' It would probably have thrown some light upon the question in whose interest is the Louisville convention to be held, if you would state who is to furnish this transportation. Are the different railroads making an exception in favor of this convention, and giving free transportation? Is this transportation paid for out of that immense corruption fund, said to be counted by millions, which has been placed under the control of Simon Cameron and his 'rings' to carry Pennsylvania and perpetuate his power in this State? You, gentlemen not being sufficiently explicit upon these points, and I, failing to recognize you among the safe leaders of our party, must decline the invitation to bear you company."

HOW THEY DO THE CAMP-MEETING BUSINESS OUT WEST.—They have at Urbana, Ohio, the "national camp-meeting" of some one of the half dozen Methodist churches. On Wednesday a contribution was being raised for some purpose when a negro gave his silver watch. The watch was immediately sold at auction for $100. This started the blaze, and the faithful began to strip off their jewelry and personal valuables. A Mrs. Uhder, of Marion, Ohio, passed up to the altar her solitaire diamond ring, another gave her ear-rings, another her bracelets, another her Geneva watch. The gentlemen, on the whole, were poorer or else more discreet, and are only credited with a pair of sleeve buttons and a Mexican dollar. The amount of these offerings was reckoned at $1,500. The brother who had the affair in charge very honestly offered to return privately anything that had been given in excitement, and we have not yet learned how extensive the reimbursements were.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

GEN. GRANT TAKES A WHIFF OF SMOKE AND DELIVERS AN OPINION.—In answer to General Farnsworth's question about the meaning of a certain passage in his last message, the President "took his cigar out of his mouth after a deliberate whiff or two, looked over the passage and said, "well I really cannot exactly say what that does mean. Morton put that in."

THERE seems no longer to be any doubt that Merrimon, Democrat, was legally and fairly elected Governor of North Carolina. Evidences of fraud on the part of the Grantites are accumplating daily—enough already has been unearthed to make Merrimon's majority at least two thousand.

Letter from Gen. Averill.

Amongst the federal officers of cavalry who served during the late war, none made a better reputation than Major General W. W. Averill. In the Shenandoah Valley he was recognized as a skillful soldier, whilst his kind treatment of the people of that section and respect for private property won him hosts of friends even among that thoroughly Southern population. It having been announced with a flourish of trumpets that Gen. Averill had signed the call for a soldiers and sailors' convention, to be held in Pittsburg, in the interests of Grant, the General has written a letter declining any participation in the proposed convention. After sketching hastily the cause and results of the late war, Gen. Averill says:

"These results, which cost us so many lives and so much money, were accepted by the South. The people, with the habit of concentrating all praise or all blame on an individual, selected Gen. Grant as the ideal, on whom they bestowed all honor and all power. Since Geo. Washington, to no American citizen has been afforded such great opportunities as to Ulysses S. Grant; and no man, living or dead, has ever exhibited such absolute lack of intelligence to understand or of will to embrace them. That he has had the necessary power has been shown by his ability to make extraordinary exertions for the success of many unworthy as well as unconstitutional schemes without provoking articles of impeachment. His first great opportunity to reconcile this people, to heal the national wounds by the first intention, was utterly disregarded. What had he to fear? No human power could alter the results of the war. Union and democracy were assured forever. The soldiers of the South had not only laid down their arms, but had at once gone to hard work at various occupations, formerly despised, showing that they had well learned the lessons of the war. Every consideration of honor, dignity, and even of mercy, demanded that we should encourage them in their struggle for life and peace, no less heroic than their conduct in battle. The shattered fragments of their former social structure were ready at hand to reconstruct society on a democratic foundation, but those fragments have been ground into dust under the vindictive heel of Ulysses S. Grant and the men who control him. Ignorant, superstitious negroes, who will abide with us forever, have not been instructed in the duties of self-government; but by the special efforts of the President and his cabinet, and other officials, they have had their apprehensions aroused and a race hatred begotten. If this be peace, then the firmest rallying cry of his partisans, 'Let us have peace,' is but a cruel mockery."

In conclusion he says he shall make every proper effort in his power toward securing the election of Horace Greeley.

POSTMASTERS' SALARIES.—The Post-office Department has just completed the adjustment of salaries of postmasters not amounting to four thousand dollars per annum. The law provides that all salaries not reaching above these figures shall be adjusted every two years, based upon the business done by each office, and that where there is an increase there shall be a corresponding increase of salaries.—The present adjustment shows that the increase in the postal business in some of the States has been enormous, and that some offices which the adjustment of two years ago allowed the postmaster a salary of only fifty dollars per annum, have increased to such an extent as to now admit of a salary of over twelve hundred dollars. The aggregate increase of salaries in the whole country under the present adjustment, as compared with the one made two years ago, is a fraction less than eight hundred thousand dollars.

THE Boston Jubilee is $210,000 out of pocket, and it is proposed to make up the deficiency by a gift concert affair, with the difference that ordinarily a ticket-holder has a chance in twenty-five to win something, but in this he will have one chance in one hundred thousand to win one-sixth of the building.

THE casualties by lightning are either more numerous this summer than ever before, or else more faithfully reported; from all over the New England, Middle and the Western States come reports of houses destroyed, property damaged, and lives lost in thunder storms.

THE Democratic majority in Montana will reach five hundred. Last year the Radicals carried the Territory, and chose Clagett to Congress by over four hundred majority.

The dear one has left us, her spirit has fled
To the land of blest spirits, the home of the dead;
Her sufferings are over, her soul is at rest,
Her harp is now tuned with the song of the blest.

Hope like a vision now breaks on our view,
To our home on this earth we'll soon bid adieu;
Then borne on the pinions of love we will fly,
And meet our dear lost one with joy in the sky.

In Chestertown, on the 26th instant, after a lingering illness, CHARLES ELWOOD, only child of William and Mary Kirby, aged 2 years, 6 months and 6 days.

Thus in faith we place our darling
In the hands of Him who gave,
Knowing that his precious body
Only sleeps within the grave.

Now the little soul's an angel
With a crown upon its brow,
Shining with resplendent glory;
Yes, dear parents, even now.

Why, O, why then weep, dear parents,
While he is so glory blest,
Do not weep, rejoice, be thankful
That your darling is at rest.

A CARD.

WORTON POINT, Aug. 28, 1872.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—After reading several articles that have been published in your paper in reference to our proposed Exhibition of the Kent County Agricultural Society No. 1, and fearing some erroneous impressions may have been drawn from those various articles, or that the exhibition is yet a matter of doubt, I desire as chairman of the Committee appointed by the Society, to inform the public that the arrangements for holding the exhibition on the 1st and 2nd of October, are completed and will soon be published.

The Society is in no way connected with the "Hawkins' Park Association," and therefore are not responsible for its trials of speed, which will take place on the same days in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

After learning and becoming acquainted with the rules of this association by which it is to be governed, and the restraints which are thrown around it, a large majority of the committee saw no impropriety but much to be gained by its having its trials of speed on the same days in the afternoon, after the exhibition had closed. The admittance fee to the exhibition will be appropriated to the benefit of the Club.

I cannot agree with our friend "Spelix," who says that "Particeps" has placed our committee in a false position, for they are gentlemen too well known to be found in a false position. They are gentlemen of general information in regard to agricultural pursuits.

"Particeps" was a member of the Executive Committee and resigned, and published in your paper "no racing or no exhibition," as though the committee were preparing for racing. As ours is not a debating society I do no not propose to say anything more at present upon this subject.

JOHN T. SKIRVEN,
1t. Chairman of the Executive Comm.

$5 WILL BE PAID for the apprehension and return to me of my indentured apprentice, WILLIE TODD, who absconded from my employ Aug. 22nd. He is about 15 years of age, small, imperfect in speech, and slightly deaf; black hair, cut close, and black eyes. Had on when he left a Jeans jacket, grey kersey pants, and straw hat. All persons are warned not to harbor him, as I shall prosecute to the fullest extent all who disregard this notice. W. J. VANNORT.

STOLEN from the subscriber on Monday night, Aug. 19th, a SORREL COLT, two years old last April. Has three white feet and scarred on left breast, where he has been cut with a knife. If delivered to me or where I can get him, I will pay the above reward.

NOTICE.—Owing to my affliction, I have been unable to attend to business for some time, and am consequently very much in need of money. My business affairs are in the hands of J. E. HARTLEY, and any arrangement made by him will be satisfactory to me. Please settle at an early date as I MUST have funds. TILGHMAN SHAFER,
