AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

A Model Farmers' Club.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes as follows of a Farmers' Club in Ohio, which is quite similar in its organization and mode of procedure to a number of similar bodies formed among the intilligent agriculturists of Baltimore county:

The club is formed of twelve members, who meet once a month, the meeting to take place at the residence of each member once a year. The time of these meetings was decided after this manner: Twelve cards, each card bearing the name of one of the months, are placed in a box and thoroughly shaken up; then each man draws from the box (without seeing) one card. The name of the month that card bears is the month in which the club will meet at his residence. We have a president and secretary who act in that capacity for one year. Upon our assembling—which is at 10 o'clock, A. M., in the winter months—the president calls to order. The minutes of the last meeting are read by the secretary; then follows a discussion of a question chosen at our last meeting. These questions relate to the farm, crops, stock, etc. Example: Question for next meeting—Winter care of horses. The president chooses a foreman at the time of the selection of the question who opens the discussion. The members are then called upon one by one, and make remarks in a conversational manner. Between the hours of twelve and one o'clock the club sit down to a plain and substantial dinner prepared by the frugal housewife. Conversation on various topics is carried on during the meal. The neighbor who is uninitiated would never dream of a club, but would suppose his friend had 11 of his neighbors as visitors.

After dinner the club listens to a report of the farm where they are assembled—the number of acres sown in the different grains, the manner of cultivation, the cost of the crop, the number of bushels received, number of acres in grass, amount of hay per acre, etc., amount of stock on the farm, what kind, and how farming pays, etc.

After the farm report, miscellaneous business is in order. Under this head a question is selected for the next meeting. If any member have stock for sale, he here informs the club, who will help him to find a buyer; or if any one wish to buy any kind of stock, he also makes it known to the club; all thus assist each other.—A band of brother farmers, you see.

After this order, the farm, stock, buildings, etc., are inspected, and suggestions made, advice given, etc. The secretary makes a minute of all said and done, and in one year the farm is again inspected, and the improvement made is marked by the club.

In conducting a club in this manner the results gained are: 1st—More sociability; 2d—It is a stimulant to keep the farm in order, as it is inspected once a year by eleven farmers who will critisize pretty closely; also to try and raise as big crops as any of the club, and to keep as good stock of all kinds.

When thought advisable improved implements for farming can be bought by the club and tested; if found of value all can purchase; if worthless, the loss to one is small.

Everlasting Fence Posts.

"I discovered many years ago that wood could be made to last longer than iron in the ground, but thought the process was so simple and inexpensive that it was not worth while making any stir about it. I would as soon have poplar, basswood or quaking ash as any other kinds of timber for fence posts. I have taken out basswood posts after having been set seven years that were as sound when taken up as when they were first put in the ground. Time and weather seemed to have no effect on them. The posts can be prepared for less than two cents a piece.

"For the benefit of others I will give the recipt: Take boiled linseed oil and stir it in pulverized charcoal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this over the timber, and there is not a man that will live to see it rotten."—Cor. Western Rural.

PEACHES.—Whatever may have been the blight in other sections in reference to the peach crop, we can report it here as free from damage. The prospect for an unprecedented crop has never perhaps been so flattering as at present. From adjacent counties we have the same reports, while north of us the severity of the winter has almost entirely destroyed the crop. The neutralizing influences of the salt breeze from a bay on either side of us, or from some other favorable cause, our peach trees have escaped the cold, and now it is too late in the season to entertain fears of disaster from cold and freezing weather. The lower peninsula will have an abundance of this delicious fruit, and we hope that it may be large and luscious.—Denton Union.

HORSE RACING AT FAIRS.—The right of managers of County Agricultural Societies to permit horse racing at their annual exhibitions, is to be tested up in Washington county, Penn. Previous to the fair held in that county last Fall, Dr. Le Moyne notified the authorities of the association that he should enter suit if horse racing or trotting was allowed, but no attention was paid to his notice. The Doctor has instituted proceedings against the managers, and the point at issue will be subjected to the most rigid legal investigation. The result of this case will be looked upon with considerable interest.—Turf, Field and Farm.

THE London papers are discussing some of the merits of Texas beef. A party of twenty-five gentlemen tried this meat at Liverpool recently. It was pronounced exceedingly tender, juicy, and perfectly free from all taint, although shipped on the 21st of December and two months on the voyage. It is said that a responsible English Company is to take the project of supplying the Liverpool market with Texas beef. It is packed in ice in Texas and shipped direct to Liverpool. If Texas can succeed in this business, that State can raise cattle enough to supply Liverpool and London with beef and bring down the price within the reach of laboring men in England.

"CHEATED BY HOGS."—The United States treasurer lately received letter from a gentleman at Scottsville, Illinois, inclosing the mutilated remains of sixty dollars worth of greenbacks, which the writer said was a part of money which had "been chewed up by hogs." Of the $60, $55 worth of bills was identified by Gen. Spinner's experts, and will be redeemed.

"Is this seat occupied?" asked an exquisite of an old lady. "I don't know," said she, running her hands over the surface, "it feels mostly like plush, but you can't always tell."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Two Ways of Cooping Up a Hen.

When a woman has a hen to drive into the coop she takes hold of her hoops with both hands, and shakes them quietly towards the delinquent, and says "Shew! there." The hen takes one look at the object to convince herself that it's a woman, and then stalks majestically into the coop in perfect disgust of the sex. A man don't do that way. He goes out of doors and says, "It is singular nobody in this house can drive a hen but myself," and picking up a stick of wood, hurls it at the offending biped and observes, "Get in there, you thief." The hen immediately losses her reason and dashes to the opposite end of the yard. The man straitway dashes after her. She comes back again with her head down, her wings out, and followed by an assortment of stove wood, fruit cans and coal clinkers, with a much puffing and very mad man in the rear. Then she skims up on the stoop, and under the barn, and over a fence or two, and around the house, and back again to the coop, all the while talking as only an excited hen can talk, and all the while followed by things convenient for handling, and by a man whose coat is on the sawbuck, and whose hat is on the ground, whose perspiration and profanity appears to have no limit. By this time the other hens have come out to take a hand in the debate, and help dodge the missles—and then the man says every hen on the place shall be sold in the morning, and puts on his things and goes down street, and the woman dons her hoops, and has every one of those hens housed and contented in two minutes, and the only sound heard on the premises is the hammering of the oldest boy, as he mends the broken pickets.—Danbury News.

IN his Sunday sermon, Mr. Beecher, touching upon the crime and punishment of Foster, declared strongly against capital punishment in enlightened and civilized communities. It may do well enough in a barbarous state of society, but it does not prevent crime here. He denied to society the right to punish when it does not prevent crime. When it licenses groggshops and drunkenness, when it delays the punishment of crime and thereby emboldens the criminal, and when individuals calmly surrender to robbers in their own homes, they do not deserve to have homes at all, nor does society possess the right to punish, and especially it should not punish criminals as beasts, but as men. Mr. Beecher believed forty years' imprisonment would prevent murder much more effectually than hanging a man and then forgetting him. He also deprecated the prominence given to criminal news in the press, and he did not believe that young persons can read the daily record of crime and not be injured by it.

A Sacramento lawyer remarked to the court: "It is my opinion, Judge, that you are an old fool." The judge allowed his mildly-beaming eye to fall upon the lawyer a brief moment, then, in a voice husky with suppressed tobacco juice and emotion, said: "It is my candid opinion that you are fined $100."

IT is proposed to spend $10,000 for the construction of a government telegraph connecting the White House, Capitol and departments. The Patriot presumes it will be extended to Long Branch, where most of the exhausting official labors of which the President so feelingly complains in his inaugural, are usually performed.

A correspondent of Every Evening states Arthur Colburn broke ground last Monday for a combined butter and cheese factory on his farm of 1600 acres, near Delaware City. He expects to make up the milk of 250 cows into butter, skim-milk cheese or whole milk cheese, as the market justifies. The main bulding is to be 30 by 50 feet, with appurtenances.

AN Indiana woman is mad because her husband took her very best sheet to hang himself, when there was an old clothes line in the cellar, which was good enough for that purpose. She says he always was extravagant, and too lazy to go in the cellar for anything.

PRISON FOR WOMEN.—A committee of the Massachusetts Legislature has reported in favor of a separate prison for women. This is a wise measure, and the New York Sun proposes that action be taken to provide for matrons in station-houses to take charge of females arrested for drunkenness and other offenses.

THE jury have decided in the case of George O. Evans that he owes the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania $136,000. Yet cannot be punished for robbing the State out of this money, because Judge Pearson has decided he was not a State Agent. It is a nice state of affairs when a Governor can appoint an agent to rob the State of $136,000.

A sailor named Escott, belonging to a Maine vessel at Lewes, fell through the ice at the Breakwater one day last week, and the tide carried him fifty yards under the ice, until he came to an air hole, through which he popped up and was saved. So the Breakwater Light says.

AN enterprising rat-killer in Wilmington one day last week made a raid upon a nest of livery-stable rats, and with eleven dogs and that one enterprising man, 183 rats were killed in 22 minutes and 18 seconds.

THE Wilmington Advertiser tells of a man in that city, who, before retiring one night last week, took, in the dark, what he supposed was cough medicine prepared by his wife, but in the morning found he had drank all the guano water his better half had procured to put on her flowers. It cured his cough though, if it was nasty.

THE English Attorney-General proposes to reduce the number of jurymen in all except capital cases to seven, and to render valid the verdict of a majority of these.

THE EUREKA FANNING MILL.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!

Farmers Look to Your Interest!

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public.

It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:

It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!

THE "EUREKA" MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL

that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mill is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL, Chestertown, Maryland.

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of Noland & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee that they will be put up in the best manner. je17-tf.
