FIRE HOUSES IN COUNTY ARE MILLIONAIRES' CLUBS."

Criticisms Concerning Loafing Are Causing Chief Engineer Much Concern, Hence Stringent Orders Are Likely To Be "Broadcasted."

are sometimes noisy and often indulge in language that is anything but edifying, and in more than one instance that ladies passing by have been annoyed by remarks intended for them to hear. Another complaint is that these outsiders join with the firemen in card games and that often the players and onlookers pretty well fill the houses.

There is no class of municipal employees who are more highly regarded by all the people than the firemen, and very naturally so. There is nothing that can happen to the family to give greater alarm and fright than a fire, and the prompt appearance of the fearless fire fighters restores morale and confidence.

Naturally the firemen have a great amount of time on their hands; sometimes for days there are no alarms, and they should have diversions to occupy their minds. No one wants to see them sit and twirl their thumbs. But all their diversions should be in moderation, and they should never permit their quarters to be the subject of criticism on account of disorders of any kind.

Firemen, of course, are in the public service; their headquarters, like school houses and station houses, are the property of the county. The firemen are the appointees of the County Commissioners; anything done at an engine house that is questionable and a legitimate subject of criticism is a reflection on the County Commissioners and we are sure there is no firemen in the employ of the county who would intentionally do or permit anything to be done in their engine house that would cause any reflection on their superior officers.

We believe a good guide for our firemen in the conduct of their headquarters would be the engine houses of Baltimore city. They, like other large cities, are very proud of their fire departments, and almost every engine house is kept in perfect order, ready at any moment for official inspection or a visit from firemen from other cities.

Baltimore county firemen cannot afford to have a reputation touching their equipment, their efficiency or their deportment second to any other jurisdiction. We remember so well the old police department of the county and the severe criticism of their conduct to which they were justly entitled. In the old territory of Highlandtown and Canton, where in some sections one side of the street was in the county and the other side in the city county policemen would patrol the county side and city patrolmen the other side. The county patrolmen with shabby uniforms and unpolished shoes, would slouch along, stopping on the street corners to converse with corner loafers and visiting the saloons on their beat, hobnobbing with the bar keepers and their customers and taking their share of beer as well—while on the other side of the street the city officer in faultless uniform performed his duties in a manner to reflect credit upon the department of which he was a member. In the language of Mrs. Partington such comparisons are "ordorous."

We happen to know that these criticisms of some of our engine houses are giving Chief Priester much concern. It is a situation not diffcult, of course, to deal with, but unpleasant. Of course, he could adopt stringent regulations and keep away from the engine houses all who have no business there, but that should not be put up to him. The captains of the various departments and the men under them should have sufficient discretion to know how to conduct their quarters without any action by the Chief.

We are simply stating what these criticisms are; they may be true or may be exaggerated, but we are stating them for the benefit of the various companies. They will know how much is true and also know how to improve conditions—but men! don't permit anything in your engine houses that will subject you to the slightest criticism, for the honor of your Department is at stake.

POLLUTION BLAMED.

Expert Refutes Theory Bombing Planes Caused Fish Deaths.

was investigated by War Department experts who could not substantiate the theory.

The Maryland State Board of Health conducted an independent investigation and came to the conclusion the deaths were caused by rawa sewage dumped into Middle river.

Doctor Davis was requested by Swepson Earle, chief of the Maryland Conservation Commission, to investigate. Dr. Davis is recognized as the greatest authority o nthe subject.

He says the trouble in Back and Middle rivers has been confined largely to catfish and eels. These, he said, have died because of an infacteious bacterial disease.

The deaths near Bodkin Point of all kinds of sea food, he says, is due entirely to pollution of the water by the disposal plant. He suggests no remedy.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR BALTIMORE COUNTY, IN EQUITY.

The objects of this Bill are: (a) to procure a decree of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County divorcing the plaintiff a vinculo matronii from the defendant. (b) And for general relief. The substance of the Bill is that the parties were married at Baltimore City on May 14th, 1902, and thereafter lived as man and wife in Baltimore City and Baltimore County for many years; that there are no children; that the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff in Baltimore County on July 2nd, 1921; that the defendant's abandonment of the plaintiff has continued uninteruptedly for over three years, is deliberate and final, and the separation of the defendant from the plaintiff is without any hope of reconciliation; that the plaintiff did not give the defendant any cause for said abandonment and has always been a faithful, cheste and affectionate husband, and his conduct has, at all times, been above reproach. That the plaintiff has resided in Baltimore County, State of Maryland, for over seven years next before the filing of his bill of complaint and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing in New York.
