SATURDAY . . . . JULY 18, 1874

A Conflict of Races.

We learn from the Attakapas Sentinel that the white citizens of the parish of St. Martin in Louisiana have formed a league for the protection of their property, persons, rights and race. They say that a league of black men is in full organization there, and that under its control the State Government of Louisiana, with its municipal and parochial organization, has been nothing less than a net work of spoliation. The community is covered with the gloom of abject poverty, despair and mortal agony. Unable to pay the taxes, their homes are sold by the auctioneer, and while a large portion of the parish is under water, its taxes have been raised from $11,000 to $18,000 by Kellogg's police jury. The courts are partisan dens. The millions that an impoverished people have paid for the construction and repair of levees have been stolen. Immoral and impure legislation and criminal prevarication prevail in all departments of the Government; and over this chaos of infamy, repudiation and bankruptcy seem to portend. The address, of which these are the chief points, is signed by a large number of citizens, mostly of French extraction, and a great mass meeting was called for the 14th ultimo. Democrats, Conservatives, Unionists and Liberals are said to be equally engaged in the movement.

A conflict of races such as this manifests indicates is one of the most deplorable symptoms of social decomposition that can anywhere be manifested. But while the formation of such a white league must be deeply regretted, it is only what was to have been expected. The negroes have long been organized, and it is but natural that the whites should organize themselves in their turn. Besides, in a State where public plunder has been carried so far that private property is substantially confiscated, and where men of education, accustomed to the refinements of civilized life and culture, are driven to desperation by utter brigandage of legislation and government, it is a matter of course that they should attempt to defend themselves. Nothing, however, can be done to relieve their distress and to restore society to a normal condition until the wretches who have reduced the people to poverty are turned out of power and a new political order is set on foot.—New York Sun.
