A Song for the Grangers.

From North to South, from East to West,
The Grangers move thirteen abreast;
Let Lawyers give briefs, the Doctor his pills,
We'll stick to our ploughs and handle our drills.
Chorus.—For none so well as the farmers know
How oats, peas, beans, and barley grow.

By the sweat of our brow since the world began
We've furnished the food for beast and man;
Fair play, fair play is all that we ask,
And rest assured we'll do our task.
Chorus.—For none so well, &c.

Let railroads and trades do the fair thing,
Or they shall soon know who is the king;
"Live and let live," our motto has been,
The rule works both ways—we're not so green.
Chorus.—For none so well, &c.

We've had back seats for many a day;
Now come to the front to see the play;
So banks and brokers who keep up the chink,
Look to your tills—we give you the wink.
Chorus.—For none so well, &c.

THE HORSE AS A WALKER.

In breeding horses we breed for trotters, racers, &c., but never for walkers—which is a great mistake, particularly if the horse is intended for the farm. What the plowman wants is a good walker, also needed for the harrow, and in fact for almost any kind of work on the farm, the road included.

Let us look a little at this. A good walker will walk with ease four miles an hour; the best walkers will make five miles per hour. This is done with as much ease as the ordinary walker will make three miles. This, in ten hours' work, will make a difference of from ten to fifteen miles, which is clear gain, as the one horse will use no more exertion to do this, than the other in doing less. It is in the mechanical structure in the gait, and this is as susceptible of transmission as the trotting or racing element.

Take the ten or fifteen miles gained in a day and make the estimate for the year, and the sum will aggregate an amount that must surprise those who have never reflected on the subject. The one horse will do from one-quarter to two-fifths more work than the other, which is a consideration that cannot be ignored. Recollect it costs no more to keep such a horse. He walks with ease, while the other horse labors or must be on a small trot to keep up. This every one must have seen, and it irritates one to see it. A good walker will walk sixty miles in a day, allowing twelve hours for the day at five miles per hour. Will the trotting horse do it and come out at the end of the day as well as the walker? Your walker will walk every day at a brisk pace (four or five miles per hour), and it will be but play for him, for it is the natural and therefore the easy gait of the animal. I have had such opportunity for testing this thing that I cannot be mistaken. The thing may be stated even stronger than this: The natural fast walker will do his four to five miles per hour easier than to be forced to do three or less. It will worry him to go slow if he has any mettle in him; and a good walker is not generally a lazy horse. But there is not the eclat attending the walker that there is about the trotter or racer, or even pacer. We therefore are indifferent. It is a great error; a great reform is needed. What the farmer wants is to breed for walkers. The country wants this, with the few exceptions of the regular trotters and racers kept expressly for that purpose; for, let it be understood, that for the extraordinary roadster the walking property will not hurt the trotting element—rather benefit it.

COMPARATIVE VALUE OF LIME AND WOOD ASHES.—The Live Stock Journal replies to a correspondent as follows, who asks to "know if lime is not as valuable as wood ashes as a fertilizer for grain crops?"

"Many farmers regard wood ashes as a simple elementary substance, and thus are led to compare them with lime or gypsum. But wood ashes is a compound body composed of many elements. The ashes of our forest trees contain all the organic elements that make up vegetable and animal bodies, including of course, lime and gypsum. Wood ashes is, therefore, a fertilizer for all crops. It contains ten to twenty per cent of phosphate of lime, besides potash, magnesia, sulphuric, phosphoric and carbonic acids, lime, silicia, etc. Ashes then are much more valuable for general application than lime or potash alone. Lime has a special application upon soils rich in organic matter, decomposing the sulphate of iron which is sometimes found, and forming combinations which are direct stimulants to vegetation. It unites with phosphoric acid in the soil and forms phosphate of lime (bone earth.) When applied to a heavy clay soil, renders it more friable, less liable to bake in the sun, permits the air to circulate more freely, renders it warmer and the harvest a week earlier. Lime is most valuable when there is most organic matter in the soil. The carbonate of potash in wood ashes acts much in the same way as lime, and as a general fertilizer for all crops, ashes has a much higher value than lime."

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.—The event of the year at Saratoga was the boat race on Saturday between nine crews, representing Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Princeton, Trinity, Wesleyan, Williams and Yale colleges. The course over which the race was rowed was three miles straight away on Lake Saratoga, its direction being nearly from southwest to northeast. The crews consisted each of six youths, averaging about 21 years of age, and 148 to 165 pounds. The race is described as a very exciting one, but was rendered somewhat disappointing by the Harvard and Yale boats fouling, thus causing the latter to withdraw early in the race, and the former to take the third position. The crew of Columbia College, New York, won the race in 16 minutes 42½ seconds, followed by the Wesleyan in 16 minutes 50 seconds. The University race of last year was rowed on the Connecticut river at Springfield, Mass., three miles down the stream. The result was not satisfactorily determined, for while the referee decided finally that Yale was the first to cross the line it was claimed that if that line had been correctly drawn Harvard would have crossed it first. It was expected the contest between Yale and Harvard would be definitely settled at Saratoga, but the fates it seems were against them once more.

PROTECT YOUR BUILDINGS!

Which may be Done with Less than Quarter the Usual Expense by the Use of GLINES' PATENT SLATE ROOFING PAINT!

A Roof may be covered with a very cheap shingle, and by the application of this Slate be made to last from 15 to 20 years. Old Roofs can be patched and coated, and made to look much better, and last longer than new shingles without the Slate, for

ONE-THIRD THE COST OF RE-SHINGLING

The cost of laying new Shingles is only about the cost of simply laying them, and the Slate is a Fire-Proof against sparks and live coals falling upon it, as may be ascertained by any one, and as appears from the fact that Insurance Companies make the same tariff that they do for slated roofs. Dry tin and iron it has no equal, as it expands by heat, contracts by cold, and will not crack.

NEVER CRACKS OR SCALES.

For Cemetery Fences it is particularly adapted, as it will not corrode in the most exposed places. Roofs covered with Tar Sheathing Felt can be made water-tight for a small expense.

The Slate or Paint is Extremely Cheap!

Two gallons will cover a hundred square feet of shingle roof, or ever four hundred of tin or iron. Price of the Slate, ready for use, is 80 cts. per gallon, $16 per half-bbl., or $30 per bbl. of about 40 gallons, with a liberal discount to the trade. We furnish and apply the material at Cost, per 100 square feet in the vicinity of Baltimore. We use therefore does not affect the water from the roof, if turned off from its cistern for the first one or two days, as does pure coal tar by leaks. A body, but little easier applied with a 4 or 6 inch coloring brush. On old and rotten Shingles it fills up the holes and pores, hardens them, and gives a new and substantial roof that will last very long. On curled or warped shingles, it brings them to their place and keeps them there. It fills up the cracks in Tin or Felting Roofs, and stops the leak. One coat is equal to ten of ordinary paint. The color of the Slate is a fresh and pleasant purple; in about a month it changes to a light, uniform slate color.

NO TAR IN THIS COMPOSITION

And is to All Intents and Purposes Slate.

It is a slow dryer, but rain will not affect it in the least in one hour after it is put on. Samples sent to any part of the country by Express, c. o. d., at the following prices. If ordered to be sent by freight, the money must accompany the order.

DYSPEPSIN

A Certain Cure for DYSPEPSIA, LIVER COMPLAINT, Jaundice, Billiousness, Sick Headache, and Habitual Costiveness.

WHAT is life without the enjoyment of health? If you had the wealth of Crœsus, and afflicted with Dyspepsia, or its kindred diseases, you could not enjoy life. Dyspepsia is a prevalent disease in the U. States, brought about by our habits and irregularities. The Materia Medica has been exhausted to find a remedy, and the skill of the most learned Physicians has failed to effect a cure. Notwithstanding this declaration we unhesitatingly say—"MILLER'S DYSPEPSIN" is a Certain Cure for Dyspepsia and the many complaints incident thereto. It has
