TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Association met at 10 o'clock at the school room in Chestertown, on Monday last. The roll was called and absentees noted.

The question—"Should children be admitted to our schools without knowing the alphabet?" was then taken up and discussed at some length by Messrs. Long, Meeks, and Miss Indiana Comegys.

It was then moved, seconded and carried that the above question be indefinitely postponed, and the following substituted: "The best method of teaching the alphabet;" discussed by Messrs. Long, Pinkind, Peterson, the Examiner, and Rev. Mr. Chatham. J. W. Corey moved the postponement of further discussion of the question to receive the address of Mr. Peterson.

ADDRESS OF JOS. PETERSON, ESQ.

Mr. Peterson gave as his reason for acceding to the request to make an address, the great activity of the Examiner, Mr. E. F. Perkins, and thought it the duty of all to assist him in his work. He said the first question is—What is the object at which I am aiming? The ultimate end of human beings is happiness; but how is it to be obtained? By what methods can the child be educated so as to be happy? He would answer—first, by the training of the moral character; second, by developing thought; third, by the impartation of knowledge. The training of the moral character is to be done most and first at home. It cannot be done in the school. The teacher can only direct the current. The training of the moral character is to be done by developing the higher of the nature. Passion rules the world. There is no such thing as self-government. We have but to subjugate the lower passions and make the higher dominant. Call it sentiment, emotion or the love of God, whatever you please, but science has never found a substitute for the love of God. Christ in his teachings addressed himself to the heart, not the head. In the second place, we are to develop thought, so that one may know how to use the knowledge he has obtained. Creative thought has made man what he is to-day. Man, without thought, is enslaved by the physical energies, while a man of thought enslaves nature. The attainment of knowledge is inferior to thought.

What course of study is best to invigorate thought? Mathematics. Spencer has said, we should teach not mere words, but to think. The third point, the attainment of knowledge, is subordinate to the others. The great error in schools consists in making the attainment of knowledge superior to that which is more important; crowding the memory weakens the mind; there are multitudes who are never heard of after they leave College. Then train the understanding; it makes no difference whether the scholar remembers or not, so that he understands the relation of things. Learning to read and write is the first necessity; then there should be a thorough training in scientific study, and this will best enable one to meet the demands of society.

At conclusion of address the association adjourned, to meet at 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Association met at 2 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment. The question—"Is any case of disorder in school to be attributed more to mismanagement at home or lack of discipline at school?" on motion, was indefinitely postponed.

It was moved and seconded to appoint a committee to petition the county board to make arrangements for the entertainment of teachers during the Teachers' Institute. The chair appointed Pinkind, Copper and Stuart on said committee.

Mrs. Beck then read a well written address upon "Literature." It was moved, seconded and carried that a copy of said essay be requested for publication.

It was moved by John V. Crosby, seconded and carried, that a copy of Mr. Peterson's address be requested for publication.

It was moved and carried, that the classification of scholars as laid down by the State Board of Education be taken up and discussed. The Examiner explained the working of the graded system.—Messrs. Pinkind, Crosby and Meeks gave their views.

Committee on Literature and Education reported the following:

"Is it desirable or expedient to introduce the Bible into our public schools, or retain it where it is already used?" J. M. Pinkind to open.

"What is the best method of teaching history?" S. W. Comegys to open.

Moved, seconded and carried to make arrangements to form a programme for next Institute. The chair appointed the President and teachers of Chestertown, together with Pinkind.

Moved and carried, that when this association adjourn it do so until the last Wednesday in June.

On motion, the association adjourned at 4½ o'clock.

A NEW PHILANTHROPIST.—Mr. William Carpenter, of Evansville, Ind., has decided upon a step which will place him among the great philanthropists of the world. He announces that he will give $1,000,000 to found a free college for poor students, clothing, tuition and food to be furnished for nothing. Provision is made for the support of a Faculty of instructors, and the whole fund is to be placed in the hands of ten trustees, five of whom shall be residents of Indiana and five of adjoining States. Mr. Carpenter has not quite contemplated his plan, but he hopes to witness the beginning of the enterprise before his death. The institution will be open to the poor alone, and will not be connected with any religious sect. Mr. Carpenter is 72 years of age, and is said to resemble in appearance Horace Greeley. He was born in Vermont and began life as a peddler, traveling over the New England States and New York with a pack on his shoulder. His children have already had their share of his estate, and there still remains sufficient to carry his project to success.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—This valuable paper, celebrated its 35th anniversary on the 10th inst. by taking possession of its magnificent new building, which it has been erecting for the last two years. This building is said to be the most complete for its purpose of any in the world. It has a sub cellar, basement, nine stories and an attic, and from the pavement to the top of the steeple it is 260 feet high, being next to the spire of Trinity Church, the highest in New York. We are pleased to chronicle this evidence of the prosperity of this great daily and to learn from its columns that it was never more prosperous than now—its daily circulation during April averaging 50,230. The Tribune though professionally independent in politics is by no means neutral, but has been a powerful element in bringing about the recent political revolution, not because it loved Democracy, but because it hated wrong and rascality. It is edited with consumate ability and in its columns may be found something about everything.

THE TROTTER OCCIDENT.—On Saturday night the celebrated trotter Occident arrived in this city from California, and was stabled at Point Breeze, where he will be immediately put in training for coming contests with Eastern flyers. Occident is the property of Governor Stanford, and is valued at above $50,000. Recently he was placed under the charge of Budd Doble, of this city, and has made wonderful improvement, and he will give the "Queen of the Turf," Goldsmith Maid, and Judge Fullerton, a lively shake for pre eminence. Occident was accompanied by another fast horse, St. James. The object in bringing the horses thus early is to have them acclimated by the time the May races commence. Occident will be carfully exercised by Doble, and each day will have private trots with the Philadelphia trotter Nettie, with a record of 2:18, and will with this mare, trot for the first time in public in the East. Occident's best time was 2:16. Doble has high expectations of the capacity of this California equine wonder, and thinks he will show better than ever before on our courses. Occident will probably be returned to Governor Stamford's farm this fall. As a measure preparatory to the coming battles on the turf, Doble has had built in Camden a sulky which weighs but forty-eight pounds for the use of Occident, and Mr. Ellis, the owner of Nettie, has had one constructed which weighs but fifty pounds.—Philadelphia Press, April 19.

SWEARING BY AN UPLIFTED HAND.—"An old friend from Montgomery county dropped into our office a few days since whom we know to be a strict 'Lutheran,' and always swears by the 'uplifted hand.' We called his attention to the action of Mr. Beecher, and expressed some surprise thereat. He rejoined that it did not surprise him, for he also entertained conscientious scruples against swearing upon the Bible. We asked him to explain what they were. His answer was in effect—that the Bible was simply a book composed of paper upon which letters were printed representing the word of God; that simply as a 'Book,' he attached no more importance to it than he did to any other piece of man's mechanism; that swearing upon it, and 'kissing' it, was giving to it a superstitious importance which he was conscientiously opposed to; upon the same principle he would be conscientiously opposed to making oath upon a crucifix made of wood or other material representing Christ upon the cross; that his religion was opposed to anything like superstition, and hence declined to give the Bible any superstitious importance by kissing it; that God was a spirit; that when men raised their hands heavenward, and solemnly swear by and in the name of that great spirit to tell the truth, &c., it was infinitely more solemn and impressive than kissing an inanimate bundle of paper and ink. We at once confessed the correctness of the distinction, and likewise realized its full weight and importance, but which had not previously occurred to us."—West Chester Am. Republican.

A TRIBUTE TO SOUTHERN SOLDIERS.—"The North and South." In response to a complimentary call of the President, General William F. Bartlett, of Massachusetts, made a remarkable and beautiful speech at the centennial celebration of the battle of Lexington, on Monday.—Referring to the Southern soldiers, he said:

"In conclusion, he said as an American I am as proud of the men who charged so bravely with Pickett's division on our lines at Gettysburg, as I am of the men who bravely met and repulsed them there.—Men cannot always choose the right cause, but when having chosen that which their conscience dictated they are ready to die for it, if they justify not their cause they at least ennoble themselves, and the men who for conscience' sake fought against their Government at Gettysburg ought easily to be forgiven by the sons of men who for conscience' sake fought against their Government at Lexington and Bunker Hill. Oh, sir, as Massachusetts was first in war, so let her be first in peace, and she shall forever be the first in the hearts of her countrymen."

REV. MR. PHOEBUS AND THE ELKTON METHODISTS.—The Methodists of Elkton still hold out in their determination not to receive the Rev. G. A. Phœbus, and it is now about settled that he will not go there. Mr. Phœbus is himself unwilling to accept the charge against the wishes of the members, although they have repeatedly declared their friendship and sympathey for him, and distinctly assert that their position proceeds not from any ill will towards him but from the treatment they have received from the Bishop. The Elkton church is still without a pastor, and in the meantime Mr. Phœbus remains at Smyrna undecided as yet as to what he will undertake. It is quite probable that the dispute will be settled by the sending to Elkton of another minister, who will be selected from another conference by Presiding Elder Quigg.

A KING TO VISIT THE CENTENNIAL.—James Forney, of Philadelphia, writing from Honolulu to Director General Goshorn, states that he is directed by his Majesty Kalakau, of the Hawaiian Islands, to announce that it is his intention to be present at the American centennial in 1876, in addition to which he has issued directions that arrangements shall at once be perfected for a full display of the products of his kingdom. A Hawaiian band of native youths are to accompany the king and his escort.

A COLORED man, convicted of larceny at Princess Anne and sent to the penitentiary, on Saturday, for five years, made a desperate effort to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. He made a gash on each side of the fleshy part of his neck about an inch deep. He is doing very well, but he says he wants to die.

A Sound Health Maxim.

"Order is heaven's first law." This great maxim applies with peculiar force to the discharge of the vital functions. Disease inevitably supervenes upon physical irregularity, just as calamity is sure to follow want of system and punctuality in the affairs of life. But, while it is next to impossible to overcome settled mental habits of disorder, it is quite feasible to remedy habitual irregularities of the body. Discipline the unruly organs by wise and timely medication, and health will be established upon a permanent basis. Although there are many remedies prescribed for this purpose, there is not one among them can compare in directness and promptitude of action with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For every disorder affecting the bowels, liver and stomach, and for the numerous sympathetic nervous ailments to which alimentary or bilious disturbances give rise, the Bitters are a most reliable specific. Their wondrous efficacy is attributable to the fact that they first remove the cause of such maladies, irregularity, and then by their tonic operation repair the loss of physical substance produced by sickness.—Constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, sleeplessness, intermittent fevers, rheumatism and nervous tremors always succumb to the operation of this safe and potent medicine. A regular habit of body, a good appetite, sound sleep and easy digestion are among the blessings which its use confers. It invigorates, relieves depression of mind, and by promoting complete assimilation, materially assists in covering the angles and hollow places of an attenuated, shrunken frame with firm, healthy flesh.

PREPARING FOR THE END OF THE WORLD.—The Chicago papers give an extended account of the proceedings of the Adventists or old Millerites in that city on Sunday last, preparatory to the advent of Christ, which they claimed would take place at midnight of Monday. Stanley Hall was crowded, and the exercises were conducted by Elder Thurman, who confidently predicted the end of the world was near at hand. When questioned by one of the audience in regard to the truth of the report that many of his followers had disposed of all of their goods, bedding, furniture, &c., Thurman replied that he had heard that such was the case, but that generally the people of Christ had but little to dispose of. Some thieves, unmindful of the great event which was alleged to be so near at hand, started the report that the hall was unsafe, and during the stampede which ensued succeeded in stealing a number of overcoats. Thurman stated to a reporter that thirty-two years ago when he began his studies of the prophecies of Daniel, he was a farmer in Albemarle county, Va. When he became convinced that he was called to preach the word of God he sold his farm and gave all he had to the poor. He crossed the Potomac on his way North, with sixty cents in his pocket, since which time he has traveled extensively North and West, preaching his peculiar doctrines.

INDICTED FOR ELECTION FRAUDS.—The grand jury of the United States District Court has indicted Wm. H. Whitely, of Carroline county, near Templeville, charged with having fraudulently omitted from the registry list the names of legal voters, "thereby depriving them of the right and privilege of voting at the election for members of Congress." He has given bail in $1,000 to answer at the June term of the United States District Court.

DEATH OF KENTUCKY.—The famous race horse and stallion Kentucky died on last Sunday afternoon of lung fever, at Babylon, Long Island. Kentucky was bred by Mr. J. M. Clay, on the Ashland estate, in Kentucky, and was fourteen years of age. He was sired by the greatest of all stallions, Lexington, and his dam was Magnolia, by imported Glenco, and at the time of his death he was owned by Mr. August Belmont, of New York.

THE DELAWARE PEACH CROP.—Accounts from Delaware state that the snow storm of Sunday and the freeze at night have blasted the prospects for a large crop of peaches in that State. It is said that on Sunday the orchards in the peach-growing districts south of Wilmington promised a yield of 4,000,000 baskets of fruit, and now they would not justify an estimate of 1,000,000 baskets, and orchards that would have brought a few days ago $5,000 could be bought now for $500. One gentleman in Kent county offered to sell the fruit that an orchard of four or five thousand trees would yield for $100.

THE CENTENNIAL AGAIN.—Gov. Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, promulgates an official account of the progress made toward preparing for the centennial, and particularly of the important part of the work, borne by Pennsylvania and Philadelphia. In addition to the $1,000,000 appropriated by the Legislature, Philadelphia has given about $500,000 to the project, and will probably give another $1,000,000 in the course of a few weeks.

THE Federalsburg Courier says a man in Caroline county has a calf born without eyes. The sockets and eyelids appear to be perfect, but Nature, in a singular mood, neglected to supply eyeballs.
