IRREVERENT CHUCKLING.

THE TROUBLE ONE VIGOROUS AND PROFANE HEN CAUSED IN A CHURCH.

[Max Adeler in the N. Y. Weekly.]

They have had more trouble at our Methodist meeting house. Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Moody was just beginning his sermon, and had uttered the words, "Brethern, I wish to direct your attention this morning to the fourth verse of the twentieth chapter of Saint———'when a hen emerged from the recess beneath the pulpit. As she had just laid an egg, she interrupted Mr. Moody to annnounce the fact to the congregation; and he stopped short as she walked out into the aisle, screeching: "Kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-to-ko! Kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-to-ko!" Mr. Moody contemplated her for a moment, and then concluded to go on; but the sound of his voice seemed to provoke her to rivalry, and so she put on a pressure of five or six pounds to the square inch, and made such a racket that the preacher stopped again and said:

"Will Deacon Grimes please remove that disgraceful chicken from the meeting house?"

The deacon rose and proceeded with the task. He first tried to drive her toward the door, but she dodged him, and still chuckling vigourously, got under the seat in the front pew. Then the deacon seized his umbrella and scooped her out into the aisle again, after which he tried to "shoo" her toward the door; but she darted into a pew hopped over the partition, came down in the opposite pew, and in the side ailse, making a noise like a steam plaining-mill. The deacon didn't like to climb over after her, so he went round, and just as he got in the side aisle the hen flew over into the middle aisle again. Then the boys in the gallery laughed, and the deacon began to grow red in the face.

At last Mr. Binn came out of his pew to help, and as both he and the deacon made a dash at the chicken from opposite derections she flew up with a wild cluck to the gallery and pearched on the edge, while she gave excited expression to her views by emitting about 500 clucks a minute. The deacon flung a hymn book at her to scare her down again, but he missed her and hit Billy Jones, a Sunday school scholar in the eye. Then another boy sitting in the gallery made a dash at her, and reached so far over that he tumbled and fell on Mrs. Miskey's spring bonnet, whereupon she said out loud that he was predestined to the gallows. The crash scared the hen, and she flew over and roosted on the stove pipe that ran along just under the ceiling, fairly howling with fright. In order to bring her down the deacon and Mr. Binns both beat on the lower part of the pipe with their umbrellas, and at the fifth or sixth knock the pipe separated and about forty feet of it came down with a crash, emptying a barrel or two of soot over the congregation. There were women in that congregation who went home looking as if they had been working in a coal mine, and wishing they could stab Deacon Grimes without being hung for murder. The hen came down with the stove pipe, and as she flew by Mr. Binns he made a dash at her with his umbrella and knocked her clear through a fifteen dollar pane of glass, whereupon she landed in the street, and hopped off clucking insanely. Then Mr. Moody adjourned the congregation. They are going to expell the owner of that hen from church when they discover his identity.

The Danger of Detroit.

A little man, smoking a huge pipe and wearing an excited look, rushed into the City Hall yesterday, and found his way into the rooms of the Chief of Police.—Standing before that official, the little old man swelled out and exclaimed:

"No—by donder—no!"

"No what?" asked the Chief.

"You tings I bay dat license," continued the smoker, "You tings I bay one hoonored fifty dollar tax license."

"That's the new law."

"You tings I was a fool zo high, und zo pig around, und zo long!" continued the man measuring the air.

"I guess you'll have to pay."

"We shall zee about dat pooty quick. I shall do somedings."

"What?"

"I shall show you—ha! you know what I does—eh? I shall shut up my zaloon and sell nodings more. Vhen der vellers come aroundt and kick on der door nobody shall be dere. Ven a pig growd comes up from Doledo on Zunday dey shall have no peer, zigars, no Limburger. I shall rent my zaloon mit an insurance agent, und he shall sheat der beeples, und I shall get drunk in my house, und der peebles shall have to drink wasser, und Daydroit shall go down hill, und somebody shall gome here from New York und puy der whole place for zwelf dollars, und move him up by Shicago—ha!"

And he shook his fist at the Chief and rushed out.

A SHARP MAN.—The sharp man iz mistaken for the wize one, but iz jist az different from a wize one az he iz from an honest one.

He trusts to his cunning for success, and this iz the next thing tew being a rogue.

The sharp man is like a razor—generally too sharp for anything but a shave.

These men are not to be trusted; they are so constituted that they must cheat somebody, and rather than be idle or lose a good job they will pitch into their best friends.

They are not exactly outcasts, but live close on the borders of criminality and are liable to step over at any time.

It iz a step from cunning to rascality, and it iz a short step that iz always invitin' tew take.

Sharp men have but few friends, and seldom a confidant. They learn to fear treachery by studying their own nature.

They are always bizzy, but like the hornet want a heap of watchin.

The sharp man iz always a vain one. He prides himself upon his cunning, and had rather do a shrewd thing than a kind one.—Josh Billings.

Always keep on hand, as delay increases suffering. If you feel sickness coming upon you, take a dose of Dr. Bull's Vegetable Pills. They can do you no harm and may save you from the sick room.—Price 25 cents.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by Physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for Severe Coughs, Colds settled on the Breast, Consumption or any disease of the Throat and Lungs, a proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany and its wonderful cures are astonishing every one that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by C. F. Stam & Bro.

RECEIPTS.

SOAP and water is the best material for cleaning jewelry.

VIOLET POWDER.—Violet powder is made by scenting finely-sifted arrow-root with a little orris-root.

To each bowl of starch, before boiling, add a teaspoonful of Epsom salts. Articles prepared with this will be stiffer and in a measure fire-proof.

TO REMOVE KEROSENE OIL FROM CARPETS.—Scrub the oil spot thoroughly with hot water in which either ammonia or ox-gall has been put. Repeat the process if necessary.

KEEPING PRESERVES.—It is said that to set newly-made preserves for several days open in the sun is one of the best methods of making them keep through the summer unfermented.

ONE ounce each of muriate of soda, cream of tartar, and alum, boiled in a gallon of water, gives plate a beautiful whiteness. Dip the article in the mixture, remove and rub dry.

WASHING RIBBONS AND TIES.—Put a little ammonia into clear cold water, and the ribbons can be cleansed without rubbing. Rinse in two or three waters and press with a warm iron while damp.

To wash calico without fading, infuse three gills of salt in four quarts of water. Put in the calico while the solution is hot, and leave until the latter is cold. It is said that in this way the color are rendered permanent, and will not fade by subsequent washing.

THE Milford News says the apple and peach brandy manufactured in Kent and Sussex counties of Delaware is highly prized abroad for its excellence and there is an active demand at advanced prices, but only a limited supply. Even Brigham Young ordered a lot from a distiller last fall, it is said—if that is any recommendation to the brandy.

NEWSPAPER publishing is getting to be a hazardous business. Since the first of January of this year, no less than 317 newspapers have suspended publication.
