A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY—A Mother Drowns Herself and Three Children.—The Reading (Pa.) Eagle gives the particulars of a terrible tragedy which occurred in that city on Tuesday afternoon. About three o'clock on that day Mrs. Louisa Bissinger, took her three children and got into a Penn street car, and those who saw them supposed they were going on a pleasure trip. Upon reaching a point two and a half miles from the city, the women was observed to stop by a Miss Bitting, who was in the neighborhood. Filling a basket that she had with her with stones, the woman fastened it to her waist, and stooping down around her children, she picked up the little boy, and taking a girl under each arm she deliberately threw herself with her children into the canal. The preparations occupied only a few moments. A Mr. Fortney, who was passing along the road, heard the screams of the children, and summoning help from Mr. Gring's house, hastened to the canal in the hope of saving the lives of those struggling in the water. The woman disappeared quickly beneath the surface, and the additional weight of the stones and the three children clinging to her kept her under the water. The men commenced grappling for the bodies, and in a short time recovered two of the children; presently the third was obtained, and finally the body of the mother was found. The mother and children were well dressed. The bodies of the four were laid upon the bank of the stream, and intelligence of the sad event was immediately sent to Reading. Mrs. Bissinger had been married ten years, and has had six children, three of whom died natural deaths. Of the drowned children two were girls, aged respectively nine and six years; the third was a boy, and the youngest. It is said that family troubles induced Mrs. Bissinger to commit the act.

The circumstances attending the death of the mother and children were such as to create the strongest interest, which partakes very largely of indignation. Phillip Bissinger is the keeper of a saloon on Penn street, and his family consisted of himself, his wife, a woman of about thirty years, and three small children, a boy and two girls. His mother also made her home with his family. Of late, it is said there has been considerable unhappiness, caused, the neighbors say, by the treatment of Mrs. Bissinger by her husband and his mother. The report commonly accepted is that Bissinger had bestowed his affections upon an unmarried woman from Philadelphia, whom he frequently had at his house, and who was boldly accorded an authority denied his wife. On Monday, as is stated, a quarrel took place between husband and wife on this account, and he ordered her out of his sight. He told her he would give her $2,000 to go away, and return no more, she to take the two girls, and he to keep the boy, and he threatened to kill her if she returned. This prospect of separation from one of her children, added to the previous unhappiness of her position, manifestly preyed upon her mind, and so much depressed her as to lead to the emomission of the fearful tragedy.

The bodies were removed to the house of the husband and father, and he was notified of the occurrence, repeiving the news, it is said, while in company with the woman who caused the unhappiness. So great was the indignation among the people at large that a detachment of police was kept guarding his house from the first until after the funeral. It is stated that in the crowd in attendance at the funeral not less than fifty men, and even women, were armed with pistols for the avowed purpose of shooting Bissinger. He was guarded by the police all the way to the grave and back, and as a further protection, the coffin containing the little boy's body was placed in the carriage with him. When the bodies had been lowered into the graves, a part of the crowd hooted at Bissinger, and a number of women endeavored to get at him. One shot was fired at him without effect. He was instantly hustled into the carriage and driven off. Another shot was fired at him in passing the gate, and is supposed to have struck him, as he was carried into the house. Great indignation still exists and lynch law is still talked of.

A TERRIBLE DEATH—An aged German takes a spoonful of Creosote by Mistake—His Stomach Consumed.—It is doubtful if there has ever been reported in these columns says the N. Y. Herald of Tuesday morning of last week, a death more horrible than that which took place on Monday evening. He was a German, over 70 years of age. He lived with his daughter, a young woman of 18, at the address given above. For some time back he had been in feeble health, his disease being of a feeble character, which required the administration of narcotics to produce sleep and rest. Hydrate of chloral was the drug prescribed by his physician. It was kept in a little closet along with other bottles, among which was a small vial, containing creosote. On Monday evening Mr. Schoven, feeling ill at ease, requested his daughter to bring him the narcotic. The bottle containing it and that which held the creosote were precisely the same in form and size and also in general appearance. Neither bottle was labeled. The daughter, instead of bringing the old man the narcotic, brought him the creosote and he, equally ignorant, poured out a spoonful and swallowed it. The next moment the old man threw up his hands in terror and consternation, crying "My God!" I have made a mistake. I'm burning up. Help! for God's sake help!" The fumes of the creosote at once led the girl to realize the situation, and crying and wringing her hands she rushed frantically, into the street and accosted an officer, who at once called in the aid of the nearest physician. Meanwhile the old man was terrible. It was as if his entrails had been pierced with red hot iron, or as if he had taken a cup of melted lead. His face became livid; his eyes seemed leaping from their sockets; his body became couvulsive with spasms. Language cannot portray his agony. "Water! water! My stomach, my heart, my very soul is on fire," he shrieked in torture. The doctor came, and emetics were given in vain. In fifteen minutes he was dead.

QUEEN ANNE'S ITEMS.—We clip the following from our Centreville exchanges:

On account of the rainy spell much wheat was caught out in the fields in shocks, which the farmers have been unable to thrash on account of the continuous showers. Much of this wheat it is feared has been badly damaged.

As Bob Wells, colored, was walking down the railroad between Coxe's and Price's, one day last week, he was overpowered by a squad of "peach pluck" and robbed of his pocket book containing $4.

Mr. Hedge Thompson caught a shark in his seine one day week before last, while hauling in Wye river. It was twelve feet long.

The M. P. Church was broken open on Saturday night, and carpets torn up, books destroyed and other outrages committed. Can't the rascals be caught?

THE REFRIGERATOR EXPERIMENT.—C. L. Riker's refrigerating house at Middletown is about completed, a portion of the ice is already in, and the cooling drafts have been set in motion. The building has been substantially erected, with a view to permanency, and we understand that when the peaches are removed tropical fruits will take their place. It is stated that between one and two thousand tons of ice will be required to keep up the uniform temperature of 33 degrees, and we understand that the necessary quantity has been procured down East. Pussy & Rice, of this city, have supplied them with fifty tons, and have twenty yet to deliver. The storing of the fruit will be commenced in a day or two, we understand.—Wilmington Commercial.

THE Radicals will please forgive us for not "independenting," but the truth is the Democracy have a feeling that to "independent" would not help matters much. Jumping out of the Democratic frying pan into Republican fire is not desirable. We know it hurts the leaders of the Rads for us to do so, but they must really excuse us this time. Mr. Carroll will be our next Governor, and that is what is the matter with not only the Hannahs of our own party, but the Hannahs of the other side of the house. You may as well, gentlemen, make up your minds to be ruled by a genuine centennial governor for the next few years to come. So, grin and bear it, as the boy said to himself when his daddy laid him across his knee.—Hagerstown Twice-a-Week.

Purify the Springs of Life.

It is a sine qua non of health, that the sources of vitality, the "springs of life," should be free from contamination. The fluids which, by their action upon the food, transforms it in to blood, and the great vital nutrient itself, must be pure, if the muscles, the bones and the brain are to be properly nourished and kept vigorous. To this end the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the kidneys should perform uninterruptedly their various functions, since if these are disturbed the vital fluids speedily become vitiated. The best, nay, the only blood depurent which purifies them, by overcoming those bodily irregularities which produce them, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The principle upon which this salutary alterative acts is as simple as it is philosophic. The origin of most diseases, and invariably those which affect the organs above mentioned, is weakness, caused by insufficient assimulation of the food. The Bitters speedily rectify the cause of the difficulty by restoring vigorous digestion, so that all parts of the physical structure are supplied with an abundance of pure, rich blood. This increases the activity of the discharging organs, and enables them to throw off the effete matter, which, rankling in the system, destroys health. This bodily refuse has been got rid of, and perfect assimilation re-established, there is nothing to prevent a healthy and active performance of the various functions. Such being the case, it is plain that the Bitters are not only the most reliable stomachic, but an eradicant of those diseases of the liver, bowels and kidneys which contaminate the springs of life.
