A PLEASANT RAMBLE.

DANE'S QUARTER, MD., JULY 25.

Messrs. Editors:—Thinking that an account of my late visit to Baltimore may prove of interest to some of your readers, I will endeavor to give a short description of it if you will permit me. I left Chestertown July 17th on the Geo. Law, and had a delightful trip down the river, since it was enlivened by a very agreeable companion; the ride across the Bay and up the Patapsco was truly refreshing as a fine, bracing breeze was blowing at the time, and the many passing vessels served to dispel the monotony which might otherwise have arisen. I was agreeably surprised to find the city much cooler than I expected. I met a friend of mine, Mr. O. H. Murphy, on Fremont street in the evening, and we went out to Lafayette Square where we enjoyed the welcome coolness and country scenery very much; this is decidedly one of the pleasantest spots in the city and would well repay any one for the trouble of making it a visit. Franklin, Union and Madison Squares are very inviting during this sultry season, and they are all ornamented with beautiful shade trees, flowers and fountains. Druid Hill and Patterson Parks fully sustain their high reputation, and how much they are appreciated by the citizens of Baltimore is daily shown by the large crowd which gladly exchange the bustle and warmth of the city for the quiet and coolness which these pleasant retreats afford. In returning from Druid Hill Park I passed the "Old Men's Home," situated on the corner of Calhoun and Lexington streets; this is a very ancient looking building, having a large yard in front containing a few plants and flowers; around these two very old men were at work, while a third was resting against a porch contemplatively gazing upon the operations of his co-laborers. Just opposite is a large iron church. Truly if many churches indicate the matter of intellect and the increase of goodness, Baltimore of all cities should excel in intellectuality and morality. I confess I was much disappointed in the Poe monument and think talent such as he possessed deserved a better memorial. I visited many places of interest, which made my stay both pleasant and instructive, but time prevents my giving a detailed account of them here. I left Baltimore for beloved old Somerset early Friday morning on the schooner George W. Hooper, Capt. Nathan Todd, and had a delightful run down the Chesapeake.—We had several very exciting races during the trip, but our gallant vessel bore us victoriously through all and landed us home in safety Saturday morning. Although surrounded by all the delights of a quiet country home, my thoughts still often turn to the pleasures of "old Kent;" and its kind, hospitable inhabitants will long be remembered with much respect and esteem by. H. P. F.

CHARLES A. DANA'S SPEECH.

THE ISSUE OF THE CANVASS IN WORDS THAT BURN AND BLISTER.

At the Tammany Democratic ratification meeting in New York, Mr. Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, one of the old anti-slavery leaders, an assistant secretary of war under Mr. Stanton and the manager of the Tribune under Mr. Greeley, when it was the great abolition organ, made the following speech:

I have come to Tammany Hall with great pleasure to aid in ratifying the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden [applause] and Thomas A. Hendricks as the candidates of the Democratic party. In my judgment it is of the greatest importance to the people of this country that these candidates should be elected, and I will join hands with any man who desires and labors to assure their success. I know both the candidates, and I am sure that by their election the administration of the government will be reformed; that the corruption which now threatens to destroy free institutions will be stopped; that the enormous taxes which eat the fruit of labor will be reduced; that the stagnation of industry and the depression of business which deprive so many men of all employment and turn skilled laborers and their families out to starvation, will be ended, and an era of new activity and prosperity be begun for the country. [Applause.] The Republican party has been in power for fifteen years, and see where it has brought us and where it has brought itself. One member of the cabinet is now under impeachment for bribe-taking; another, more guilty, but more cunning than he, deserves impeachment, and, I trust will get his deserts [applause;] another, lately Secretary of Interior, having committed grand larceny in his office, resigned to avoid impeachment, and another, lately Attorney General, having committed petty larceny, was finally removed from his place through a contemptible social intrigue. Such are the representatives of the Republican party in the heights of power; and going down from that elevation, we find everywhere corruption, venality, contempt of law and plunder of the taxpayers. One would suppose that the decent men of such a party, seeing its condition, would require it to step down and out, to hide its face and die from among men; but, instead of this it comes forward with candidates and a platform to ask for the votes of the people, and to make a fight in the election. The impudence, the effrontry of this proceeding exceeds everything ever heard of before; and yet we have here the same managers who have brought the Republican party into this condition, with Zach Chandler at their head, talking about reforming the civil service and restoring the earlier purity of our politics! Do they expect anybody to believe them? Is there any considerable number of fools in the country who can again be deceived by such fraud? These are questions which the election will answer, and answer, as I hope and trust, by putting Sam Tilden—applause—in power and establishing the St. Louis platform as the charter of a real, radical, and lasting reform. [Applause.]

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS FRIENDS.

Under this head the New York Tribune of Monday has, appropos of the Bluford Wilson testimony at Washington, an article evincing an earnest desire that the republican party shall avoid all responsibility for President Grant in the coming campaign. It truly declares that no person in official station has ever received so much consideration, and had from the people such charitable treatment as President Grant; yet it is a little remarkable that while the President and his administration have been so heartily and formally indorsed in the national republican platform, the party should be called on to repudiate both. The Tribune says:

No man has ever been attended with such loyal devotion, none ever so cordially supported or so earnestly defended. And this has been at some cost, as the republican party well knows, to the party leaders and the party itself. It remains to be seen whether it has not at last cost the party its ascendency in the country, and turned over the government to the opposition. The few things that President Grant has done during his two terms which have been creditable to him have been most heartily applauded by friend and opponent, and his grave mistakes have been judged with much more charity than those of any other public man in the history of the country. In the recent developments, however, affairs have reached such a crisis that the party which elected him, and which has given such unswerving allegiance and personal devotion, can do so no longer without putting in jeopardy its own existence. It cannot be longer denied that President Grant—whether knowingly or ignorantly does not matter—has elected as his intimate and confidential friends corrupt and dishonest men, who used his friendship as a cover for frauds upon the government of the most surprising character; nor can it be disputed that the President has used his office to protect them in their operations, and his power to punish and disgrace government officials who undertook to bring them to justice.

The testimony of Mr. Bluford Willson, late solicitor of the treasury, discloses a state of things which honest citizens will read of with shame; an intimacy of relation between the President and the whiskey conspirators which only falls short of actual complicity. We do not care to dwell on it. The removal of honest and efficient officers who have been active in ferreting out frauds upon the treasury and bringing rogues to justice, and the regular executive certification to the good character of men who have been driven out of office under grave suspicion, or by the popular sense of decency, have come to be something more than coincidences. They illustrate the character, the tendency, the spirit and purpose of the administration. There is no need of longer attempting to hoodwink the public or gloss over the conduct of the President. Nor, we submit, will it do for Mr. Frye, of Maine, to talk nonsense to Congress and the country, as he did on Saturday, about "bringing down the great name of this great republic in the eyes of the whole world," by investigations which bring out facts. The facts and not the investigations bring disgrace upon the country. The people have seen the President sending certificates of character to rogues whom the people drove out of office, and himself driving out every officer who had shown zeal and energy in pursuing rogues and bringing them to justice. This is what is disgraceful about it, and the sooner Mr. Frye finds it out and stops talking nonsense about it the better it will be for his party.

The popular judgment of President Grant's administration is already made up, and cannot be changed. There is but one question concerning it which has any current interest, and that is whether the republican party proposes to carry the responsibility of it and to defend it through the presidential canvass. The opposition is anxious that it should, and will leave no means unused to so handicap it. The only escape is for the party to say distinctly in its State conventions in the first place by its nominations whether it proposes the continuation of Grantism, and in the second place by its resolutions whether it approves the course of the reformers who have been kicked out by the President or the conduct of the President in kicking them out. That is a question that has pertinence, and it will be wise in the light of recent occurrences to consider it seriously.

There is an awkwarkness, however, says the Baltimore Sun, in doing what the Tribune suggests which arises from the fact that all Mr. Wilson testified to was pretty well known, in a general way, when the Cincinnati convention endorsed Gen. Grant in its platform. Mr. Wilson's testimony is as to details, and more in confirmation of what was previously seen and believed than anything else. Without reference to party, however, it is presumed that the people know how to act, in view of the facts before them, to secure the great interests of reform so much needed in the future administration of the government.

QUEEN ANNE'S ITEMS.—We take the following from late Centreville papers:

Sales of Real Estate.—Messrs. J. B. & E. H. Brown sold on Tuesday the Wye Estate of the late Edward Paca as follows: The outer farm and woodland, 526 acres, to Thomas H. and James H. Dodd for $7,114.04. The middle and lower farms, 707 acres, to L. S. Stienburg, of New York, for $18,400.36. Also the John Brown Harper farm, situated in Corsica Neck about 2½ miles from Centreville, containing 259 acres, to Mr. Wm. B. Earle for $22.10 per acre. At private sale the Home Farm of the late George T. Burgess, 212 acres, to Catherine A. Buss, of Pennsylvania, for $3,200. W. T. P. Turpin, executor of Dr. Walter S. Turpin, sold on Tuesday the farm known as the "Clayland Farm," situate at Calahan's shops, about 3 miles from Centreville, and containing 381 acres, to Sam'l B. Fauth, of Baltimore, for $9.65 per acre. Dr. Turpin a few years before his death gave $9,500 for this property.

Kent Narrows.—The county commissioners of this county had an interview last Wednesday with the county commissioners of Talbot county on the appropriation required by the Act of Assembly of 1876 for keeping up the bridge over Kent Narrows. The interview lasted some hours, but we understand terminated very unsatisfactorily, the commissioners of Talbot refusing to comply with the law. This will of course necessitate an action at law, and furnish work for courts and lawyers.

"A Dance by the Light of the Moon."—A number of gentlemen in the vicinity of Sudlersville engaged the Smyrna string band, erected a platform in Black's Woods and had a regular good time picnicing and dancing Saturday afternoon and evening of the 22d. Everything passed off pleasantly and the party adjourned at 11½ p. m. expressing themselves satisfied with the pleasures of the occasion.

Two men, supposed to be tramps, demanded the money of Mr. Wm. Davis last Monday night as he was coming from Centreville Landing to Centreville. A revolver well handled by Mr. Davis had the desired effect.

Centreville is to have a new town hall, market house and Odd Fellows hall all in one. The building is to be 71 feet long and 36 feet wide and 3 stories high.

THE following camp meetings will take place this summer at the dates named: Deal's Island begins on August 4; Hungery Neck, August 11; Oakland, Caroline co., August 12; the Bethel camp, near Federalsburg, August 11; camp at Horsey's woods, August 4; Dailey's woods, near Marydel, August 11; Lakeville, Dorchester county, August 11.

A CENTENNIAL ITEM.—Mrs. Waterman of Bay Hundred has completed a quilt made of 1876 pieces in almost as many shapes, made from fabrics obtained by her husband, formerly a seafaring man, from almost every nation of the globe. Send it to the Exhibition.—St Mich. Comet.

The Institute also publishes "THE PHYSIOLOGY OF WOMAN AND HER DISEASES." Price $2.00. The best book of the kind extant.

Also, another valuable medical work treating exclusively on MENTAL AND NERVOUS DISEASES; more than 200 royal octavo pages, twenty elegant engravings, bound in substantial muslin. Price only $2.00. Barely enough to pay for printing.

"The Book for young and middle-aged men to read just now, is the Science of Life, or Self Preservation. The author has returned from Europe in excellent health, and is again the Chief Consulting Physician of the Peabody Medical Institute, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass."—Republican Journal.

"The Science of Life is beyond all comparison the most extraordinary work on Physiology ever published."—Boston Herald

"Hope nestled in the bottom of Pandora's box, and hope plumes her wings anew, since the issuing of these valuable works, published by the Peabody Medical Institute, which are teaching thousands how to avoid the maladies that sap the citadel of life."—Philadelphia Enquirer.

"It should be read by the young, the middle aged and even the old."—N. Y. Tribune.

The first and only Medal ever conferred upon any Medical Man in this country, as a recognition of skill and professional services, was presented to the author of these works, March 31st, 1876. The presentation was noticed at the time of its occurrence by the Boston Press and the leading journals throughout the country. This magnificent Medal is of solid gold, set with more than one hundred India diamonds of rare brilliancy.

"Altogether, in its execution and the richness of its materials, and size, this is decidedly the most noticeable medal ever struck in this country for any purpose whatever. It is well worth the inspection of numismatists. It was fairly won and worthily bestowed."—Massachusetts Ploughman, June 3d, 1876.

JUST published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits; induced by Self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of Self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps.

AFFLICTED, UNFORTUNATE AND DELUDED.—Dr. J. N. Hobensack, and Dr. J. B. Hobensack, son of Dr J. N. H., who has been engaged in private and hospital practice for 30 years, curing diseases which destroy both mind and body, unfits you for the duties of life, and leads thousands to insane asylums and premature death. Dr. J. N. H., and Dr. J. B. H. devote their time entirely to these diseases, and guarantee a cure in a short time and little expense. Dr. J. N. Hobensack has attended and cured eighty thousand cases.—Remember Drs. J. N. and J. B. Hobensack's office, No. 206 North Second street, above Race, Philadelphia. N. B.—Medicines sent by mail and express. je19y.
