SATURDAY - - - - MARCH 1, 1879.

Mexican Veterans.

The National Convention of the Mexican Veterans' Association was held at the main hall of the New Assembly rooms in Baltimore last Saturday. Among other business was the appointment of a committee to wait on the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, and urge the passage of the bill now pending granting pensions to the veterans.

General Shields, United States Senator from Missouri, was the orator of the day. He began by giving a detailed account of the operations of the American army in Mexico, and spoke of the deeds of valor of the army from the beginning of the war until the capture of the city of Mexico. He spoke in eulogistic terms of his commander, General Winfield Scott, and alluding to the capture of Cerro Gordo, said that if the commander-in-chief had not a general of consummate skill, the bones of the little army would have whitened the hills of Cerro Gordo. It was one of the most remarkable of wars on record. The Americans never suffered a defeat, never experienced a reverse, or met with even an accidental disaster. The commander-in-chief had remarked in the hearing of the speaker that he preferred to win his battles by strategy than by making himself a butcher, and that the needless sacrifice of one of his soldiers would cause him to regard himself as a murderer. Military men of to-day consider Cerro Gordo as one of the great battle-fields of the world. On the 10th of August, in the year in which Cerro Gordo was captured, 10,000 American soldiers entered the valley of Mexico, leaving behind them their supplies, reinforcements and communications. Isolated and cut off from all reenforcements that little army fought battle after battle, and on September 13th with 6,000 men crossed the ramparts of Mexico and entered a city with 200,000 inhabitants defended by an army of 30,000 men. Why, an Englishman, a resident of Mexico, asked whether that was the advance guard, and when told that it was the army of occupation, remarked that the Americans were not only the bravest, but the most impudent soldiers in the world. If the Americans had as great historians as other nations, this victory would have been heralded around the world as one of the greatest of modern times. Enough territory had been acquired to make a new republic, and enough mineral wealth to enrich any country, and it has changed the monetary system of the world. The war gave the United States control of the Pacific, the finest ocean in the world, so now this country is washed on the east by the broad Atlantic and on the west by the golden shores of the Pacific. All this has been acquired by the war, and here is a little wreck of those that helped to acquire it lifting up their hands to see if they can get some little pittance for the great services they have rendered their country. He hoped that this country would not do as other countries have sometimes done—erect monuments to the very men whom they allowed to starve while on earth. [Applause.] It is said that figures don't lie, but in Washington there are no greater liars than figures. [Laughter.] Look over the commanding officers—Scott, Taylor, Pierce, Cadwallader and others—all dead. He (the speaker) was the youngest, and is now the only one of the commanding officers alive. One regiment in his brigade, the Palmetto, of South Carolina, whose flag has been presented to the Association to-day, stood in Mexico 1,125 strong. When the war was over and Mexico taken, only 223 were left to return to South Carolina, and only a few of these are now alive. And now comes a Congressional bureau and says that 50,000 veterans are still alive. [Laughter.] He said he had come to Baltimore entirely unprepared, but it does not require much preparation to speak on this subject, for, as Henry Clay once said, "I was thar." [Laughter and applause.]

In the Supreme Court of New Jersey, at Trenton, Tuesday, Attorney General John P. Stockton presented the case of Graham, the accomplice of Hunter in the murder of Armstrong, in Camden county. He then proceeded to show that as early as 1775 the doctrine was held by Lord Mansfield, and afterwards by the twelve judges, that whenever an accomplice was used by the State the faith of the court was pledged not to prosecute. Graham was used by the State. Without his testimony the State could have made no case, and on the principles of justice, as well as precedent, he should not be prosecuted. The court reserves it decision.

The new steamer "Virginia," built by the Harlan and Hollingsworth Company for the Old Bay Line Company, which plys between Baltimore and Norfolk, reached Baltimore on Wednesday. She is a consort of the "Carolina," same size and pattern, although intended to be a much faster vessel.

The ice in the Susquehanna river at Port Deposit is still intact. Pedestrians are still crossing and recrossing. The freeze and snow gives the river an arctic appearance. Citizens of the town will be kept on the anxious bench until the river is free from ice.

A general jubilee of the Catholic Church will begin all over the world, on the second of March, and extend to and include Pentacost, which begins on the 1st of June. This is in conformity with the established custom of having a jubilee one year after the accession of a new pope.

Capt. Lemuel Mitchell, late commander of the oyster police sloop Nannie Merryman, has been appointed mate on the steamer Olive, which plies between Baltimore and St. Michael's.

A Handsome Income

For an Energetic Lady or Gentleman. The Ohio Scale Works of Cincinnati have just completed and are now introducing to the public a handsomely finished Family Scale, an article that has always been needed in every household, and in a communication addressed to the publishers of this paper the proprietors ask us to refer them to some reliable party, to introduce it for them to the people of this county. It is very seldom that a new article steps so suddenly into universal favor.—Housekeepers are loud in its praise, it is always ready, there are no weights to get lost or to be hunted up, is reliable, and will not get out of order. The description of them is a handsome base surmounted by a column in which works a spiral spring so scientifically adjusted as to weigh anything up to twelve pounds with perfect accuracy. On the top of the column is the platform on which the articles to be weighed are placed, and they have an adjustable indicator so that you can take the tare of any vessel you may use in weighing, giving you the exact net weight. Housekeepers at once see their value in weighing fruits, sugars, &c., in preserving, cooking, &c., or in testing the weights of purchases.

The Scales are made of all brass, are highly polished and are finished in a skillful manner.

They are very attractive and take the eye of every one who sees them.

It seems to us that nearly every family in Kent will want one, and is certainly a rare opportunity for some smart and energetic party to pick up a nice little income. Agents in other counties easily make from $5 to $6 per day selling them, and parties in need of employment should drop the OHIO SCALE WORKS, No. 125 and 127 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, O., a Postal Card, and all information, etc., will be cheerfully given them by mentioning this paper. f8-4t.

Can the State of Maryland beat this? N. H. McComa has a calf which he calls Hayes, two years old the 4th of February, 1879, which weighs 1,700 pounds. The night the calf was dropped he had a ewe that dropped a pair of lambs and disowned them. He had to take enough milk from the cow night and morning to feed the lambs until they were fit for the butcher. The calf got the rest of the cow's milk until he was ten months old. At four months old he weighed 405 pounds, 8 months 701 pounds, one year 1,030 pounds, 20 months 1,470 pounds, and the day he was two years old, 1,700 pounds.—Harford Democrat.

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler proposes to pension the maimed Confederate soldiers, and the Republicans are silent; had a Southern Democrat made the same suggestion in Congress what a howl Blaine and Hale and the whole Republican pack would have made!

The bachelor editor of the Cambridge News has had a vision that made him feel bad. Here is what he says about it: "The latest rendering of the proverb is, People who live in glass houses, and who want to throw their arms around the girl, should pull down the blinds."

The American Farmer says Hon. William T. Hamilton, of Washington county, the gubernatorial aspirant, made last year, from one hundred and forty acres, four thousand nine hundred bushels of wheat—thirty five bushels of wheat per acre, one-fifth corn land.

The court of inquiry convened at the request of Major Reno to investigate the charges of cowardice brought against him in connection with the Custer massacre has reported that the evidence does not warrant a trial by court-martial.

Zach Chandler, the great Republican war horse, who held to the doctrine that it was better for his party to steal the Presidency than to do without it, is back again in the United States Senate.

Senator Morrill, of Vermont, says he knows a man who will be entitled to $18,000 under the back pension act, and who now receives $100 per month.

A perfectly white muskrat is the latest curiosity at Princess Anne. It was caught in a trap near the mouth of the Pocomoke river.

The commissioners of Queen Anne's county have cut down the price of work on the public roads ten per cent.

Co. Commissioners' Notice.

By order of the County Commissioners this is to give notice that no levy will be made during the present year to open any new road.
