THE NOMINATIONS.

Messrs. Editors:—I have not intermeddled much with the politics of the county and had no idea of the extent of the interest felt and manifested by the people in the selection of candidates; but as such important nominations occur only once in six years, it is not surprising that the public should take a deep interest in the choice of candidates to fill important trusts for so long a period. The titles to our lands and much of our personal property, the wills and administration of estates, the interests of guardians and wards, and the records of all we possess, are committed to the custody and keeping of others, and the business connections with public officers and their capacity and readiness to discharge their duties in a courteous ond efficient manner, are matters of such high importance that it was well that the public mind should be exercised in such momentous concerns.

Officers are but the agents of the people, and they are selected with reference to the discharge of the great trusts committed to them. The emoluments of office are not its objects; while they are necessary, they are only secondary considerations, and incidental to the discharge of high and important trusts. Candidates for office should never magnify themselves in the sight of the people, and they should aspire to place only as servants and agents to perform official duties. It often happens that the people themselves prefer different agents to execute their purposes, and in the interchange of opinions and indulgence of their preferences much interest is produced and friendly excitement created. In these friendly conflicts, all having the one great object in view, personal and friendly attachments are often extended too far, and too much effort is put forth to insure success than is judicious. The old maxim, so well known and practiced, that "in union there is strength," is brought into play. Human nature, while it remains as it is, will naturally seek alliance, union and combinations to effect the object in view. A desires the election of B and C, and, to accomplish the purpose, will propose to unite with D and E to vote for F and G, provided they will vote for B and C. These arrangements and combinations have always existed and always will exist where differences of opinion are entertained. Concentration of sentiment can only be produced by union of views, and union of action can accomplish much where similar views are entertained. Farmers unite their forces to accomplish a purpose; armies are union of soldiers; churches are unions of Christians. Wherever there are more candidates than offices, there must necessarily be some disappointments. One man and his friends are very likely to think they are right and have the strongest claims; another has just opposite views, and hence when the results of voting are known disappointment follows to some extent and complaints are indulged. Whenever undue excitement or earnestness is permitted to exist, it sometimes misleads into practices to be regretted. We once heard it remarked that a defeated party always thought he was unjustly or unfairly treated. Whether this remark was true or not we are unable to determine; but as all parties and partizans run into excesses at times, the remark just made may be as applicable to one as to another person or section. But there is one thing about nominations that is of value and indicates a good feeling and principle in mankind; it is that all unkindness and murmurings and discontent pass away, and calmness, good will, harmony and union succeed, with united efforts to secure the success of the fortunate ones. This is a remarkably good trait of human nature, and redeems it from many faults and frailties.

The writer has been greatly disappointed in losing the nomination of two dear friends, but he submits to his loss, and, after mourning over it for a time, has resolved to support the nominees cordially, feeling bound in honor, pride and manhood to do his duty to others as he would have expected them to do to him had he been gratified in his choice. Justice, magnanimity, and a feeling of union conspire to make him energetic and diligent in his efforts to secure success. "Let us have peace" and a peaceful and brilliant triumph. A DISINTERESTED VOTER.

SERIOUS RESULT OF AN ELOPEMENT—Eight Years in the Penitentiary for Running off with a Girl Twelve Years Old.—Levi Nusbaum, indicted a few weeks ago for running away with Ida Englar, daughter of Mr. Solomon P. Engler, residing on Sam's creek, was last week tried in Carroll county court, convicted of abduction, and sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years. Ida, who is not yet 12 years of age, lived with Mr. Daniel Roop in Uniontown district, Carroll county, who had in his employ for the last two years or more, as a farm hand, Levi Nusbaum, about 24 years of age.

In the middle of May, about 3 o'clock in the morning, it was discovered that both Nusbaum and Ida had left the house during the night, and that the young girl had taken some of her clothing with her, and search was then made for the missing ones. Supposing that the missing ones had walked to Wakefield, distant about three miles, to take the morning train for Baltimore, a telegram was sent to Westminster to arrest them, and when the train arrived at that point Constable Matthews boarded the train, and sure enough he found the couple on board. When captured Nusbaum had $50 and the girl $22. Nusbaum is of medium size, with dark hair and moustache, and of good appearance.

A MURDERER'S PERILOUS JOURNEY.—Asa Broughton, who killed Covert Bancroft at Medina, New York, on the 14th of May, performed, in effecting his escape, one of the most perilous feats on record. A cousin of the murderer refusing to give him shelter, he started for the Niagara river. At Lewiston a suspension bridge formerly spanned the river. Some of the old wires still extend across the stream at an elevation of 100 feet above it. Broughton, confident that officers were on his track, reached the sight of this old bridge. Fearful that by trying to cross the river at Suspension Bridge he would endanger his safety, he determined to gain the Canada shore by means of the old wires. He sat on the bank of the river all night Friday night, and at daybreak on Saturday began his perilous crossing. Hand over hand, suspended in air 100 feet above the river, he made his way toward the opposite shore. The wire swayed to and fro with his weight. Several times he had to pull himself up and clasp his legs and arms around the wire to rest his hands, which were badly blistered and cut. When about half way over Broughton says he thought he must lose his hold, so nearly exhausted was he. By frequent rests, as stated, however, he completed his precarious journey. He was apprehended, however, in Canada, and was returned to New York.

A DREAM FULFILLED.—A singular instance of the verification of a dream occurred in Polk county, Fla., some days ago. A young daughter of Mr. Hill dreamed one night that she had been burned to death. Next morning she went with her brother into the corn field to keep the birds from the planted corn. As it was cold they built a fire, and while they were warming themselves the clothes of the girl caught fire. Her little brother tried to extinguish the flames, but could not. She died the next day.

CATTLE DISEASE IN GEORGIA.—Reports to the Georgia commissioner of agriculture from all parts of Southern and Southwest Georgia indicate the spread of disease among the cattle. The epidemic is not understood at all, as its symptoms and effects are quite new. In several counties heavy losses of cattle are reported. It first appeared about six weeks ago, but did not begin to spread rapidly until a few days since.

SOMERSET county carries off the palm for the most prolific sow. Lewis McGrath, the owner, claims that in ten months she had three litters, one of twelve and two of thirteen each, making a total of thirty-eight pigs.

COMMODORE FOXHALL A. PARKER, superintendent of the Naval Academy, died at Annapolis on Tuesday, of dropsy, aged 56 years.

A TERRIBLE DEATH—A Carroll County Farmer Commits Suicide for Fear of a Failure of his Crops.—A dispatch to the Baltimore American, dated Westminster, Md., June 9, says: This community was greatly shocked this morning by the news of the suicide of Mr. Daniel Bush, one of the wealthiest farmers in Carroll county. The facts of the case are as follows: Mr. Bush, who is a gentleman of about seventy-three years of age, and is estimated to be worth from sixty to seventy thousand dollars, has for the past twenty years been subject to annual fits of melancholy. These attacks generally come on in the spring of the year or just before harvest, and were always occasioned by fears that his crops were about to prove failures. This spring the crops, it seems, looked badly, and Mr. Bush was accordingly even more depressed than usual. On Sunday last he went in the morning to Sandy Mount Church, of which he was a member, and while there was much depressed and saddened by a hymn that was sung. After church he mentioned this to a friend, and said he wished this hymn to be sung at his funeral. He went to bed at his customary time, and arose this morning at his usual early hour of 5 o'clock. His wife also arose and busied herself with household cares, while Mr. Bush went out and fed his hogs. Returning from this he entered the room where his wife was and complained of feeling badly. He then went into the next room, took down a loaded gun which was hanging there, passed out to the porch, placed the gun against his breast, took a stick which he had prepared for the purpose, and with this pushed on the trigger and discharged the full load of shot into his body. He fell back dead. His wife heard the report of the gun, ran out of the door and saw her husband lying dead at her feet on his back, with the gun across his body. She called for assistance, which was immediately at hand, and the body was carried into the house. Mr. Bush's farm was at Sandy Mount, about five miles from Westminster, and was well known throughout the county.

ROASTED ALIVE IN HER CARRIAGE.—As Mrs. Honora Lacy was driving from Wilmington to her home in Chester county, Pa., on Saturday evening, the contents of the carriage—cotton and straw—were ignited by a match and in an instant the whole interior of the vehicle was in a blaze. The horse becoming frightened ran away and before it was stopped Mrs. Lacy was litterally roasted alive, her flesh being burned to a crisp. She died early Sunday morning. The cotton was purchased to make a quilt.

HUNG.—Peter Swingler, colored, was hanged at Chambersburg, Pa., Friday, of last week, for the murder of John Anderson, colored, at a ball. Peter exhibited remarkable nerve, placed the rope around his neck, removed it to make a short speech, then replaced it. The sheriff removed it again until after prayer by Rev. Dr. Crawford, when the cap was placed over Peter's head, the rope readjusted, and the trap sprung. He was pronounced dead in ten minutes. In his speech Peter said whiskey and bad company had been the cause of his trouble, and advised all to abstain from both.

AT Kelly's Station, Penn., a few evenings ago, Mrs. Carnahan climbed into a hay mow through a hatchway, under which was a mule's feed-box. She soon missed a wallet, which contained $250 in national bank notes. A prolonged hunt was made for the cash without avail. The next morning an attendant, who was feeding the mule, noticed a pulpy mass in the bottom of his feed-box. This was the remnant of the wallet. About $60 worth of paper was saved, but the mule had eaten $190.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.—The prospect appears fair for the passage of the army and legislative bills by the House this week in such shape as will secure the Executive approval. A bill is also in course of preparation providing for the expense of the judiciary, and it is believed that all three of them can be passed and reach the President before the 20th instant, in which event it is expected that Congress will adjourn about that date.—Washington Herald.

BEN. BUTLER, who is comparable only to the worm that dieth not, has commenced his campaign for the Massachusetts Governorship. Together with Wendall Phillips, Peter Cooper and other Greenback-Labor men, he fired off his opening gun at Music Hall, Boston, on Thursday. It is safe to say that Benjamin will conduct his canvass this year without the aid of Mr. Kearney, of California.

GEN. EWING'S ACCEPTANCE.—General Thomas Ewing sent the following dispatch upon being notified of his nomination for Governor of Ohio by the democrats: "I accept and thank the democracy of Ohio for the distinguished and unsought honor conferred upon me. Victory will crown our struggle for the supremacy of freemen over the dollar and the bayonet."

IT is stated that Mr. James R. Keene won $10,000 from Mr. Pierre Lorillard on the result of the race between Spendthrift and Harold for the Belmont stakes. Mr. Lorillard had also made a sporting bet of $4,000 to $16,000 that two Lemingtons and one Australian would be in the first three, but only the Australian (Spendthrift) filled the roll assigned him.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY HAIL.—The hailstorm on Friday afternoon of last week proved a very destructive one in Baltimore county. A path fully two miles long and one mile wide was swept clean, and it is estimated that 500 acres of wheat and rye were entirely destroyed, and that the total loss in that locality alone will reach many thousands of dollars.

EDWARD PARR, the murderer of his daughter, sank down in the Prisoners' dock in court in Philadelphia Monday from the effects of poison, just after sentence of death had been passed upon, and died next morning. All of his immediate relatives are held to await investigation as to how he procured the poison.

IT is positively asserted by some of our exchanges that one or two flaxseed, planted in a hill, will dispense with the potato bug. Let some one try it, and let us know the result. It is cheaper than Paris Green.

THE price of both cotton and wool have materially advanced lately, and are still advancing. Cotton is now worth about 14 cents per pound and wool 30 cents.

MR. MCCRARY, Secretary of War, has been appointed to the vacant Judgeship of the Eighth United States Judicial Circuit. His name is now before the Senate.

A COLORED man residing near Seaford, Del., has grown some perfect specimens of coffee from seed. What next?

BOTH Houses of Congress passed a bill appropriating $3,000 for a monument to mark the birthplace of Geo. Washington.

GEN. EWING will be compelled to give up his place in Congress to make a canvass for Governor in Ohio.

ADVICES from Texas, May 30, report the harvest in full blast.

Harvest of 1879!
THE BEST HARVESTING MACHINERY IN THE MARKET!
McCormick!
Self-Binders,
Harvesters,
Mowers,
Reapers,
Droppers,
For sale at PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES, by
C. B. JONES,
Locust Grove, Md.

The attention of the Farmers of Kent county is called to the justly celebrated McCORMICK HARVESTING MACHINERY, manufactured by C. H. & L. J. McCormick, Chicago, Ill. I am prepared to supply them at the lowest prices.

McCORMICK
Harvester and Binder
a Machine preeminently superior to all others. As a Harvester and Self-Binder it requires but one man to operate it, and single-handed a farmer may drive into his field with it and cut his grain at the rate of an acre per hour, and bind it into neat, regular-sized bundles.

The cleanness of the work done by these machines is most surprising—absolutely nothing is wasted. We guarantee a saving of from $1 to $1.50 per acre.

Taking into consideration all its points of superiority, we think every practical Farmer will concede that the McCormick Harvester and Self-Binder is the most valuable machine that has ever yet been offered the Farming public.

☞ Guarantee to cut any condition of Grain that any Reaper can.

We would also call attention to the
McCORMICK NEW IRON MOWER,
" PRIZE MOWER,
" ADVANCE
Reaper & Mower Combined,
" HARVESTER,
" DROPPER

Farmers are invited to examine critically into the merits of the above machinery, and whether they want a Reaper, Mower, Harvester or Self-Binder, they will always find the McCormick to be thoroughly guaranteed in every respect.
