A Good Story Well Told.

The following story is told by the Rev. [illegible] Smith:

"We stopped at Syracuse, New York, for dinner. You remember the railroad depot, centrally situated, with its eastern and western entrance, which are exactly alike, as much as the two ends of a car. After we had dined the depot master informed me that we had fifteen minutes to spare before the departure of the next train. This thought I, will give me an opportunity to see the city and a glorious chance for a smoke, provided a clergyman could be tempted into such a worldly and tasteful amusement. I sauntered forth, and, after an absence of exactly thirteen minutes, having enjoyed a delightful and soothing stroll, I was leisurely returning, watch in hand, when to my astonishment I beheld the train moving slowly out of the other end of the depot, and increasing in speed at every pull of the gigantic locomotive.

"Here indeed was a call which admitted neither correspondence nor delay; there was no time for taking the matter into consideration.

So, without conferring with flesh and blood, I put like a sky-rocket with a double fuse. For a moment I thought I was gaining ground, although I knew that I was losing wind. I was encouraged to pace by sundry helpful fellows who kept crying out as I passed "Go it gaiters!" "plucky boy!" "he ain't left—oh, no!" and well-meaning and benignant exhortations. Though they intended perhaps to help me over the course, I found that the more they shouted the less I was inclined to run, and more decidedly did the locomotive make its way against me.

To give up the chase, to submit to the chagrin of being left, to lose my party and my passage, meet with disappointment, not to meet my friends—all this was bad enough; but the thought of encountering all the way back to the depot that line of interested individuals who, with their cheering exclamations, had so feelingly encouraged me on my outward journey—this was the bitterest pill in this unexpected dose.

But it must be done, so, tapering off gradually, I gave up the contest, and, if I could find him, the depot master, whose blundering statements were the cause of all my trouble. Without search that individual advanced to meet me with the bland recognition of a friend that nobody could well deify.

"Well, you got left, did you?"

I replied with the resentment of a silencing eye. If I looked as I tried to look my photograph at that instant would hardly be chosen to grace an album gallery of "eminent divines."

Several bystanders seeking information asked, with a show of confidential interest in my case, in what wise the thing had happened, and others, wishing to point a moral, advised me to be on hand a little earlier next time.

With returning breath relief and words came together, and I squarely charged the railway official with all blame. I spoke of his incompetency in no measurable terms, recalling now, after I had placed my party in the car, he had assured me there was full seventeen minutes to spare before the train went out. "While here," said I, with a triumphant exhibition of my watch, "the seventeen minutes are now barely up, and yet the train has gone clear out of sight."

After no little hot talk had shot back and forth, with the usual variations and final perorations of "you did," and "I did't," "you're another," etc., I asked him if I would be risking another chance of being left if I depended on him to give me the exact hour of the next eastern bound train.

"Eastern?" exclaimed he.

"Yes, eastern!" I exclaimed with a decidedly upward and rising inflection.

"Why," quoth he, "the train you have been chasing with such good luck wasn't the eastern train, but the western express."

With much interesting confusion and excitement I stammered out: "Then where in Joppa is the eastern train?"

"Why, there it is," replied he, "just getting under way at the other end of the depot; leg it, or you'll lose that."

If ever I made quick time I made it then. I felt as if I was all legs. One glance, however, at the rear door of the last car as I was nearing it came near being too much for me. I discovered the group of my lost friends, whose forms seemed bursting with poorly-suppressed and ill-timed mirth.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

The perfect Southern expression for astonishment is: "Jee-e-m-ses river!"

"Albani's father says she is not married," but it is just possible that Albani knows more about it than he does.

Osman Pasha, it is said, "could not endure the sight of a newspaper correspondent." He is the man that got whipped.

A gentleman reprimanding his little son, was surprised to hear the youngster observe: "Father, remarks are not necessary."

An English paper chronicles the death of "Osman Plevna," aged twenty days. The unfortunate infant naturally refused to live under the incubus of such a name.

That was a scrupulous young lady in Boston who refused to meet her lover—Justus his name was—at home, because she had heard her minister say that Justice should always be meted out.

A traveler, accosting a newsboy asked: "Sonny, what is the quickest way to get to the North Penn depot?" "Run!" he replied, and set the example by getting out of the way pretty fast.

At Toronto last week two strangers walked into the house of Mr. Williams, an undertaker, on Czar street, sat down and ate up the dinner prepared for the inmates, whom they overawed with revolvers, and quietly departed.

"I do not think, madame, that any man of the least sense would approve of your conduct," said an indignant husband. "Sir," retorted his better half, "how can you judge what any man of the least sense would do?"

W. Miller, of Uniontown, Fayette co., Pa., recently captured an earless wild hog in the mountains. The animal is totally deaf and has but one eye, about two inches in diameter. The hog is as ferocious as a bear.

The gold yield of the United States for the present year is estimated at forty-five millions of dollars, and the silver yield at thirty-eight millions of dollars. If all of it were coined the country would have hard money in abundance.

Five of the sweetest words in the English language begin with h—heart, home, hope, happiness and heaven. Heart is a home-place, and home is a heart-place and that man sadly misteketh who would exchange the happiness of home for anything less than heaven.

The practice of decorating our churches with evergreens on Christmas originated with the ancient Druids, who wore garlands of ivy and mistletoe on that day, and since their time it has been religiously kept up by several denominations of Christians.

M. DuChaillu concluded a recent lecture with a description of how the cannibals cooked human flesh. He said they preferred to eat women of about sixteen to twenty-four years of age, and invariably roasted that delicacy, but people over fifty were generally boiled.

When Mrs. Van Cott comes singing down the aisle, and, and fixes her reviving eyes upon a man, and he turns pale and trembles, she thinks his soul is awakened. Yet we have seen the very same look in a man's face when he turned round after kissing the servant girl and suddenly encountered his wife's mother.

A strange disorder has seized upon cattle in Cornwell and Rocky Hill, Connecticut. It has many symptoms of hydrophobia. The animals begin by jumping, moaning and bellowing; they grow worse, and in three days they die. If approached they become furious and dangerous. All attacked by the disease have died.

Good Uncle Jabez said one cold morning, as he was hunting for the matches: "When I die I hope I'll go where I won't have to make the fire every morning." "You needn't fret about that," snapped his wife, from under the blankets. "You'll find the fire all ready for you, never you fear."

The town of Caliente, near the southern border of California, was raided upon by Mexicans and native Californians, a few days ago. The raiders were pursued, and five of them were captured and taken to Bakersfield. On Friday night a mob forced the jail, took out the prisoners, and after a lynch trial hanged them in the jail yard.

A steamer plying between San Francisco and Stockton keeps an eccentric and useful sheep on board. Its eccentricity consists of a keen relish for tobacco, which it devours with avidity whenever it is offered. The sheep is trained to go on a gang plank at a landing when a flock is to be loaded, to show that the approach is safe and to act as a pilot.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

ASK the recovered dyspeptics, bilious sufferers, victims of fever and ague, the mercurial diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerful spirits and good appetite; they will tell you by taking SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR.

The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

For DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Bilious attacks, SICK HEADACHE, Colic, Depression of Spirits, SOUR STOMACH, Heart Burn &c., &c.

This universally Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of MERCURY, or any injurious mineral substance, but is containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which an all wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

THE SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately costive and lax; Headache; Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes a dry Cough often mistaken for Consumption

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for disease of the Liver, Heartburn and Dyspepsia, Simmons' Liver Regulator. LEWIS G. WUNDER, 1525 Master Street, ASSISTANT POST MASTER, PHILADELPHIA.

"We have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Torpidity Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. We have tried forty other remedies before Simmons' Liver Regulator, but none of them gave us more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved, but cured us."—*Ed. $5,000 Worth of Boots and Shoes thrown on the Easton Market.

The daily increasing demand for a certain quality and style of Boot and Shoe, is an evidence of the popular favor in which our stock is held by the community generally. We keep none but the best make, and sell at the very lowest prices, and we venture to assert that have not their equal in the market. We have just received the largest invoice that we have ever before ordered of those celebrated boots and shoes, being almost an impossibility to keep the demand supplied and we are offering them still, at the same low price. Persons in want of a good Boot or Shoe, should examine our stock, and they will be sure to purchase, as they commend themselves to purchasers at sight, to say nothing of the wide reputation by the hundreds who have purchased the same make before. In addition to this class, we have the most complete stock of

The "Mongomery Boots" and "Plow Shoes"

Ladies and Misses, Boys and Youths
Boots and Shoes,

of every quality style and price, and we defy competition. Call early and see for yourselves, as our stock is just opened. Our stock of

is very large and complete, and goods are marked down! down!! down!!! so that all can buy without embarrassment. Our stock of

was never larger and more complete than at present, and we are selling them very close, indeed. An examination will be all sufficient to prove what we here assert. We respectfully invite our many friends and customers to call and see us at our old stand on Market Space. SAMUEL NORRIS.
