SATURDAY.....JUNE 19, 1880

THE Democratic National Convention will meet at Cincinnati next Tuesday. The Maryland Delegation will go under fortuitous surroundings, and no State will have an abler representation in the convention. Mr. John W. Davis, of the Northern Central Railway Company, one of the district delegates, and a party of gentlemen, consisting of three of the Maryland delegates at large, two other district delegates and four or five others, will leave for Cincinnati to-day in a private car over the Pennsylvania road. The car will be fitted with culinary and other arrangements, enough to accommodate the company. On Sunday they will rest at Cresson Springs, in the Alleghanies, and expect to reach Cincinnati at 7 A. M. on Monday. The remaining ten Maryland delegates, including Mr. Wm. Keyser, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, will leave Camden Station to-day, in special cars elaborately fitted up for the occasion, spending Sunday at Deer Park, in the Alleghanies, and will reach Cincinnati Monday morning. Both cars will remain until the close of the convention and will bring the gentlemen home.

A special train will leave Camden Station to-morrow (Sunday) evening with Marylanders bound for Cincinnati, of whom it is expected that several hundred will attend the sessions of the national convention.

Col. Lew Harris, a Democratic politician of Cincinnati, who has charge of the arrangements for the Democratic National Convention, says that the most elaborate preparations have been made to render Music Hall, in which the convention will meet, comfortable and attractive to the delegates, the press and visitors. Accommodations in front of the grand platform for fully 150 members of the press are provided. There is room on the platform for 900 people. A large space is set apart for ladies. The main hall will accommodate over 3,000 spectators, not including the 800 delegates, whose seats have been conveniently arranged. The hall has been handsomely but not too elaborately decorated.

HON. JOHN KELLY, of New York, has written a letter to Col. Wm. MacWilliams, of Baltimore, in which he emphatically denies a recently published statement, which first appeared in a letter from New York to a Philadelphia paper, that his differences with Hon. Samuel J. Tilden had been compromised. Mr. Kelly says he is opposing Mr. Tilden "on principle," and will not support him if nominated, and gives as a reason that "Mr. Tilden and his friends have tried to destroy" the Tammany organization, and "for no other cause except that they would not favor him." He further says the Tammany organization will not propose a candidate, but will accept the nominee of the convention, unless it be Mr. Tilden.

CONGRESS adjourned on Wednesday. All of the appropriation bills were disposed of in the early part of Tuesday's session. In the afternoon of Tuesday President Hayes sent to the Senate his veto of the marshal's bill. The Sun's correspondent says:

The veto is regarded as one of the weakest of the weak papers which have emanated from the White House during his incumbency. The course of Mr. Hayes in refusing to allow this bill to become a law is in entire accord with his inconsistent action in many other matters, and therefore occasions no surprise. When Mr. Bayard drew the present bill he had before him the veto message of the deficiency bill, which contained the provisions relative to the appointment of marshals, and he carefully weighed every word, so as to obviate the objections set forth by the President. He remarked to your correspondent at that time that if the President would stand by his own words he could not withhold his signature from the new bill. Several times while the bill was pending in the Senate the President, in conversation with different persons, intimated that it would meet his approval. In the very small portion of the message which is original it calls for no great amount of intelligence to discern that the real cause of objections to the bill is plainly because it does away with the present partisan appointments of marshals, and next, that it restricts, to some degree, the despotic and arbitrary powers with which they should never have been invested. The President thus proclaims to the whole country that he and his party are afraid to contest the presidential election unless with the powerful aid of thousands of partisan marshals devoted to their side and wielding absolute and irresponsible power over the personal liberties of the voters.

EVERYBODY knew, when petitions were pouring in upon the Chicago convention, asking the nomination of Senator Bruce or Fred Douglass for Vice President, that the colored race would receive no such recognition from the Republican party. Douglass was not even mentioned in the convention, and Bruce, after being regularly put in nomination, received but five votes out of 755. Indiana gave him two votes, Michigan two and Wisconsin one—no one vote did he receive from New England or the North.

HON. JAS. ASHETON BAYARD, father of Senator Thomas F. Bayard, died at his residence in Wilmington, Delaware, last Sunday morning, in the 81st year of his age. He represented his State in the United States Senate several terms and was regarded as one of the best lawyers in the country.

THE convention of the National Greenback-Labor party which met at Chicago last week, adjourned on the 11th instant, after having made the following nominations: For President, James B. Weaver, of Iowa; for Vice President, E. J. Chambers, of Texas.

AROUND THE WORLD FOR ONE CENT.—A postal card was written in the office of the Salisbury Advertiser, Wicomico county, Md., on the 17th day of December, 1879, directed around the world. It left San Francisco, Cal., on Christmas Day, Hong Kong, China, April 17, 1880, arriving at New York June 7, and at Salisbury June 8, making the circuit of the globe in six months, less nine days. Postmasters were directed to keep it going, but the one at Hong Kong detained it a month.

THE Maryland State Teachers' Association will meet at Ocean City on the 6th, 7th and 8th days of July next. Special arrangements have been made with the proprietor of the Atlantic Hotel, and board can be procured for $1 per day. The great reduction in the fare should insure a large attendance of the teachers. In addition to reports from standing committees, addresses will be made by Governor Hamilton, John M. Carter, Esq., Major John Y. Yellott, and the President of the Association.

WILLIE HAYWARD, a white boy four years of age, was attacked by a bull in the public road, near Easton, one day last week, and so seriously injured that he died in a few hours.

MR. SEYMOUR'S DECLINATION.—Hon Horatio Seymour has addressed a letter to Hon. J. Thomas Spriggs, a delegate from the Oneida (N. Y.) district to the Cincinnati convention, in which he says:

"My name has been spoken of in connection with the nomination to be made at Cincinnati next week; and as you are the delegate from the district in which I live I ask you in my behalf to state that I am not a candidate for any nomination to be made by that body, nor could I accept such nomination if the convention should see fit to present my name to the public. I do not suppose that there is the least probability of such action or that my name will be presented. But I deem it proper to send you this letter, to be used if any question should come up about my position or purposes."

A correspondent of the New York Herald quotes Mr. Seymour as saying: "Mr. Tilden is too old, too, to be a candidate for the presidency. We are both too old. Some younger man should be named."

In contradiction of the above the Philadelphia Times of Thursday publishes a telegram from a correspondent of its own, who went to Utica for the purpose of seeing Governor Seymour, and his report is that the nomination will be accepted if so tendered as to appear the call of duty, and that Spriggs denies receiving the letter of declination to which his name is attached. The direct question was put to Mr. Seymour in this way: "If it should appear at Cincinnati that you are the only sure man—in fact, the Moses to lead the party out of the wilderness to victory and prosperity—have you the backbone to decline?" Mr. Seymour avoided the question for some time, but on a persistent repetition replied: "If it takes that shape I will run if it kills me," adding that he hoped affairs would not take that turn and that a younger and heartier man would be found.

BOSH.—Mr. R. Stockett Matthews was the principal speaker at the Garfield and Arthur ratification meeting in Baltimore last week, and treated his audience to a mess of toadyism sufficient to disgust a pig. Grant, he declared the "greatest soldier who has lived since the days of Napoleon!" and, continuing in this strain, thus provides for the future of that distinguished personage in case of republican success. He says:

"If they can make General Grant minister plenipotentiary to all the courts of the world, so that he may be an itinerant minister, to be deputized in great emergencies to treat with the foreign nations; or if he would like to have any position below or beyond that of the presidency, I will be the first to say it shall be given." [Cheers.]

Again:

"To General Grant every head in this country involuntarily bowed as one deserving all the homage, trust, affection and gratitude, and the great gifts that the American people have it in their power to bestow on their benefactors."

This beats George Francis Train's most brilliant peroration on the monkey. The last sentence is a fact quite stubborn in the light of events at Chicago, while the former sentiment only shows what the republican leaders will yet do for Grant if they are only allowed half a chance. In the language of Matthews, he may have a position beyond that of the Presidency!

The colored republican mogul of Kent also made a speech at this meeting, and according to the American's report "said that this time the nomination was made by the people, when the last time it was made by the bosses." The elucidation of these propositions, we suppose, was characteristic of "Bill's" brilliant logic. Most people regard Garfield's nomination as pre-eminently a job of the "bosses!" And that of Arthur, wholly and solely to please the Grant boss of New York. Will any one deny this?

THE third and fourth district Congressional nominating conventions were held in Baltimore on Wednesday, when Mr. Fetter S. Hoblitzell was nominated in the third district, and Hon. Robt. M. McLane renominated in the fourth—both without opposition.

FRUIT EVAPORATING.—Mr. William M. Peters, agent for the Automatic Fruit Evaporator, is now in this county, with headquarters at Armstrong's Hotel, where he will be pleased to see fruit growers and explain to them the merits of the machine he represents. One of the machines is now being put up in Mr. J. W. Hines' warehouse at the Wharf, in order to more fully explain its working. Mr. Peters claims that it meets a long felt want; because of the excellent work it does on the true evaporating principle of a rising column of heated air passing through the trays in its progress upward; economy in running; moderate cost of the machine; great capacity and perfect distribution of the heat over all parts of the fruit trays.

CAPT. JOS. W. THOMPSON proposes to run two daily steamers from Chestertown to Baltimore during the coming peach season. The general satisfaction he gave in the careful handling of fruit last season should ensure him a larger patronage this. Having built a new wharf at Buckingham landing, opposite Round Top, and also building a substantial wharf to the county abutment at Quaker Neck, will give shippers much better accommodations at those places. *

THE EXCURSION that will leave here on Thursday for Bay Ridge will also go on to Annapolis. Some difficulties have arisen about allowing the excursion to land. In all cases the boat will continue to Annapolis. [Centreville papers will please note this.] *

ON last Sunday the Rt. Rev. T. A. Becker, D. D., Bishop of Wilmington, administered the Sacrament of Confirmation in the Church of the Sacred Heart to a class of 29. A large congregation in the morning listened with attention to the Rt. Rev. gentleman's beautiful explanation of this Holy Sacrament.

ANOTHER EXCURSION TO WASHINGTON.—Those who went on last week's Washington excursion seemed to enjoy the trip so much, and there are so many who express regret at not having been able to go, that the committee have determined to have another Washington excursion on the 2d day of July. See adv. in to-day's issue.

ANOTHER EXCURSION.—The Kent Guards advertise in another column to give a grand military excursion on or about the 16th of July.

FOUND.—The body of William B. Lynch, for which a reward was offered in our last issue, has been found and interred by his relatives in Baltimore.

ORPHANS' COURT, Tuesday, June 15.—Present, Judges Nicholson and Shallcross.

On application, the letters of administration on the personal estate of George T. Spry, late of Kent county, deceased, which were granted June 8th, 1880, unto Marion deK. Smith and Wm. F. Spry, are revoked, and citations were ordered for Mrs. Annie Spry, widow of said deceased, and Wm. F. Spry, to appear before this court on Tuesday, June 22, 1880.

THE motion for a new trial in the Turpin-Farrington murder case was overruled by the Wicomico court last week. Sentence upon Turpin was suspended until the ruling of the Court of Appeals upon exceptions taken at the trial is obtained.

THE population of Middletown, Del., according to the census just taken, is 1,277.

THE census of Denton has been taken, and she has 476 inhabitants.

THE new census gives St. Michaels a population of 1,175.

THE STORM of wind and rain which passed over this section last Saturday afternoon did considerable damage. The lightning was vivid and the peals of thunder deafening. Much of the standing wheat was blown down and shocks were scattered to and fro. Many peach orchards were also seriously injured; trees uprooted, limbs twisted from the body, and the ground sprinkled with the young fruit. In the vicinity of Kennedyville large trees were uprooted, and further up the peninsula the storm was much more severe. At Warwick the stable of Joseph Price was struck by lightning, set on fire and burned to the ground. In trying to save some of his harness, &c., Mr. Price came near losing his life by being caught under the falling loft floor. At Middletown the roof of the National Hotel was blown off, as was that also of the depot building. The barn of E. R. Cochran, in which was sheltered his cattle, was totally destroyed, and some of his horses and mules crippled; damage $5,000. The rain fell in torrents, and was accompanied in some places with very large hail stones.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Thursday afternoon, Wm. S. Walker, Esq., residing adjoining this town, started for his farm near Swan Creek, and on the way stopped at Mrs. Dr. Ricaud's, near St. Paul's church. On resuming his journey, in turning he drove his horses' heads into a bee nest on the hanging limb of a tree, and in a moment the animals were covered with the voracious insects and plunging in the most desperate manner. With the assistance of Mr. C. G. Ricaud, however, he managed in a few minutes to free them from the carriage, in the meantime calling for water. This was promptly responded to, and the application of a few buckets dampened the ardor of the devouring insects. The horses were then taken to the pump and thoroughly drenched, but the bees did not cease to hover around them for some time. While detaching the horses Mr. W. was stung in many places on the face and neck, and had frequently to wipe off the bees with his hand. Mr. W. undertook to resume his journey soon afterwards, but the horses were so tremulous with pain and fright that even the approach of a fly would cause them to shudder, and he put them in the stable and drove home at night. The only injury to the horses perceptible yesterday morning was some swelling about the ears. If a bee's nest had to be encountered on the journey it is fortunate for Mr. Walker that the attack was made at that place, for without assistance he could not have extricated the horses and without water the bees could not have been conquered. We congratulate our friend on his fortunate escape from more serious injury.

It was only last fall a year that Mr. Walter Cosden lost two valuable horses, and narrowly escaped with his own life, from an attack of bees in the same section of the county.

THE GRAIN MARKET.—The Baltimore papers quote Thursday's market, as follows: Offerings of Southern Wheat are small and the market is quiet, with sales of small lots new crop at $1 20a$1 25. No. 1 Maryland red sold at $1 24. The offerings of Southern Corn are confined to a few small lots, which sold at 58 cents for white and 56 cents for yellow, the latter delivered. Oats are dull and rather heavy; sales of 800 bushels stained Western at 39 cents, and 2,400 bushels bright do. at 43 cents.

HARVEST.—The recent heavy rains have greatly retarded our farmers in their wheat harvest. The entire crop is said to have been fully ripe on Tuesday, when it rained all day long, but not one-third of it had been cut. Thursday and Friday were excellent days for harvesting, and with favorable weather until to-night, there will be very little wheat standing in this county. This is the earliest harvest we have had for many years.

RICHARD HYNSON, Esq., one of the district delegates to the National Democratic Convention, left here yesterday afternoon for Baltimore via Tolchester. He has accepted an invitation from Mr. Keyser, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and will go out to Cincinnati in his palace car, accompanied with other delegates, leaving Baltimore at four o'clock this afternoon.

THE Farm and Mill Property of Dr. Thos. H. Whaland was sold at public sale last Tuesday at the Voshell House, and purchased by William H. Bians, Esq., of Baltimore, mortgagee, for $8,500. We have learned that Mr. Bians has offered Dr. Whaland an opportunity to redeem the property within a reasonable period.

INCREASE OF SALARY.—By the recent readjustment of salaries of postmasters, $100 is added to the salary of the postmaster in this town, making it $1,200. Mr. Collins, our worthy and efficient postmaster, will probably not object to this small increase of pay, for he certainly earns every cent of it.

L. M. BEAN, Esq., of the late firm of Bean & Foard, occupies the old stand at Masseys, and offers to pay best market prices for grain. Mr. Bean has the entire confidence of the business community, and will no doubt continue to give satisfaction in all his dealings.

A FAMILY FRUIT DRYER.—Slaughter's fruit dryer meets a need long felt by fruit growers. It is so cheap that every family that has fruit to dry can afford to own one. See advertisement in this issue.

THE PEACH CROP.—The Wilmington (Del.) News publishes reports from various sections of the Peninsula in regard to the prospects of the peach crop which, summarized, is as follows: Port Penn, fully a half crop; Odessa, the outlook is the most encouraging for five years; Smyrna, the prospect is entirely satisfactory; Camden, plenty of Hale's Troth's and Early Yorks everywhere, but of later varieties there are but a few full crops; Frederica, only one-tenth of a crop in a circle of ten or twelve miles; Greenwood, outlook gloomy, scarcely any peaches for miles around; Lewes, poor prospect—not more than enough on the trees for home use; Seaford, not over one-tenth of a crop in the neighborhood; Easton, about three-fourths of a general crop. Peaches will be of prime quality. The crop will ripen about two weeks earlier than last year.

A CREDITABLE EFFORT.—Our young friend, Edwin H. Brown, Esq., added another to his many laurels as a speaker in his effort at the State Convention last week in placing in nomination Mr. Richard Hynson, of Kent, as a delegate to the Cincinnati convention. Mr. Brown took the high ground that what we wanted at Cincinnati was not so much an instructed delegation as a delegation composed of cool, prudent and far-seeing men, who would cast the vote of Maryland for a man who could win, a man who could and would beat Garfield. His remarks were well received by the convention and favorably acted upon.—Centreville Observer.

A BOY named Wilson Leonard, colored, was drowned in the Wicomico Falls Mill Pond, and about the time of the accident a colored man came up just as some boys had drawn the body from the water covered with mud, and kicking. The fellow said: "Put dat boy back in de water; you had no right to git him out till a jury comes. Dat is de law and you must 'bey it." So the boy was put back into the water to await legal investigation. After a time he was again drawn from the water, washed a great deal cleaner, but not a kick manifested itself this time. He is buried.

THEY haven't a stock law in a neighboring county to Caroline, but an old farmer has devised a means which will be equally as effective in stock. Here is his "Notis" posted in a conspicuous place: "If any man's or woman's cows or oxen gits into these here oats, his or her tail will be cut off."—Denton Journal.

EXPERIENCE, CAPITAL, ABILITY, enable C. N. Oehm & Son, proprietors of the largest retail Clothing House, 250 W. Pratt Street, extending through to 55 Hanover Street, to offer the following inducements: Perfect fitting and superior made clothing in endless variety, at the lowest cash prices. *

THE Centreville Observer says that Mr. Ruth, a young carpenter of that town, has recently fallen heir to an estate in Wilmington valued at about $77,000.

THE census just taken shows the population of Centreville, Maryland, as 1,210, an increase of 205 since 1870. The gain between 1860 and 1870 was only 61.

THE Elkton M. E. Sunday School have chartered the steamer Chester for an excursion to Tolchester, on Friday, 25th instant.

Letter from Rock Hall.

Editors Kent News:—Few who have not visited this portion of old Kent within the past few years will be surprised when they do so. To use a common expression (as a joke) among the residents, it is "getting more like New York every day." Formerly where scrubby pines, briars and bushes had full sway, now neat cottages, with nice yards and green fields are seen, many of them occupied by the hard working and honest oystermen and fishermen, who bring thousands of dollars to the neighborhood, which in turn supports some eight or ten stores, several of which do a large business; and I have heard from some of the numerous drummers that visit this locality that it is one of the best points they know of to sell goods. The trade is good and prompt. The old Rock Hall name, which properly belongs to the farm now owned by A. P. Sharp, has been taken possession of by the village, which now surrounds the old Rock Hall farm, and has completely absorbed the former names, such as Denbeigh, Lousetown, Grey's Inn, &c., and now Rock Hall seems to be the centre of attraction, i. e., the west end; and as Father Bradford has just completed a neat building intended for worship, further attractions have been added to the village, and it is said he intends opening an avenue through the land purchased and sell off building lots. If the city folks only knew what a nice lot overlooking the bay could be purchased to build a summer cottage, they would soon be sold. The county commissioners have recently caused to be laid out a public road to the creek and a landing, which has long been needed, as heretofore they have depended upon private property; and what is needed above everything else is a wharf and steamboat connection direct to and from Baltimore, which would enable us to reach there in two hours instead of four and five as now, via Queenstown or Tolchester. The large population around Rock Hall demands this improvement, and sooner or later it must come. The spirit of the nineteenth century is aroused and will never become lukewarm in the cause, and the sooner this fact becomes apparent to steamboat owners the better, as steamboats were made for the public and not the public for them; hence the public cannot be compelled to travel fifty miles when the same point can be reached in twenty-five and in half the time, from a good and safe harbor. Now most of the travel goes by Tolchester and the freighting is done by sailing vessels, all of which would soon be absorbed by a steamboat from Deep Landing, where deep water near the shore can be obtained and a safe landing at all times, with a beautiful location for summer residences, excursions, &c., and where fine fishing, crabbing, boating and every necessary appendage to make a summer residence desirable, is at hand.

The good effects of local option are plainly seen, and few can be found that would vote to have the whiskey times back again. The fifth district, or rather the lower portion of it around Rock Hall, reaped the benefit of it some time before other portions of the county, through the efforts of our late lamented friend George H. Thompson, who whilst a member of the Grand Jury defeated all applications for license; therefore, we had the foul stuff out of the way before the local option law passed. We cannot expect to keep it away from the old lovers of it, but can hope that the rising generation may keep clear of it: and the prayers of many are quietly offered that those who do use it will not do so before their children or young persons. The evil of bad example often leads to mischief, and God forbid that any one should make a drunkard of his son or any one else by a bad example. A small monument should be erected over the grave of our friend who battled so successfully in suppressing the sale of it in our neighborhood. OCCASIONAL.
