A GOLDEN WEDDING.

And what is a golden wedding?
It is, that for fifty years
Two hearts have throbbed together
And shared each other's cares.

It is this, that a far off bridal
Comes back on memory's wing,
And with it, a bridegroom giveth
His bride a golden ring.

That ring, though the hand be withered,
Still glows with a bridal vow,
To the golden wedding bridegroom;
Love is purer and dearer now.

And the bride looks up to the bridegroom
As a lake to the evening star,
Folding tenderly close on her bosom
The light shining down from afar.

Brighter shines the rainbow at even,
As the sunset kisseth the sea,
And 'tis meet that a golden wedding
The most glorious season should be.

From the youthful orange-wreathed bridal
On down through the pathway of time,
The angel of love and of beauty
Hath whispered life's hist'ry in rhyme.

Hath told how two fond hearts have melted
Sad tears and bright smiles into one,
'Till now at their golden wedding
A rainbow immortal is spun.

TEMPERANCE in the PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Messrs. Editors:—Having nothing directly from the association, I trust you will allow me a short space to advocate that which in my estimation is closely allied, not only to the farmers' interests, but to the welfare of the whole community. I allude to the teaching of temperance as one of the regular lessons in our public schools. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and although at this time our county is under an excellent temperance law, and one, too, which is producing splendid results, yet the very best security for the future is only to be had in the careful and intelligent training of the children. I know all the valid objections against this plan, and they can all be easily and fully answered. I will not refer to these now, but simply state the object to be gained; and that is to instruct the children officially as to the nature and effect of alcohol on the human system, its character and influence on the welfare of society, and to so train the child that it may have the full weight of scientific knowledge in preventing the habit and the traffic. A number of excellent lesson books have been printed, plain but full. The great city of New York has adopted and put into all its public schools "Dr. Rychardson's Temperance Lesson Book." The "Catechism on Alcohol" and the "Juvenile Temperance Manual," are standard books now in use in other places, and Kent county cannot afford to ignore this plan so full of promise for good in the future. For one, I had far rather my boy should know less of geography and grammar and more of the character of alcohol and the awful effects its use inevitably brings to every community, if this latter knowledge will help defend him from the danger and cause him to grow up an intelligent and effective advocate for the cause of temperance. Statistics sustain this proposition, not once or ten times, but every time—a given amount of alcohol, a given amount of crime; and science has made such wonderful and startling discoveries as to the ways intoxicants damage the human system, that it is great injustice to keep these facts and this knowledge from our boys and girls. No institution reaches our people so universally as our public schools. They are the corner stones of our republican institutions. Some one has said it is an axiom of education, "that whatever you would have appear in the character of the people must be woven into that character through the schools." Let us be wise then, and weave into the lives of the rising generation the evidences of statistics and the findings of science, that it may grow up with principles firmly established against the use and traffic in alcoholics.

I trust an abler pen than mine and one more at leisure may take up and discuss "Temperance in onr public schools." A favorable public sentiment, I am sure, already exists; all it needs is action, a little crystalization, and we will have a regular temperance lesson in every school in the county. PARTICEPS.

BISHOP SIMPSON, of the M. E. Church, who was appointed by the recent General Conference to preside over the Mission Conference of China, sailed from Philadelphia for San Francisco on the first of this month. At the Golden City he will take the steamer City of Tokio, and on arriving in Yokohama will meet the Japan Mission, which convenes on August 12, and then he will proceed into the heart of China. He will hold a conference at Pekin September 16, followed by a conference at Kin-Kiang October 13, and complete his visitation at Foochow October 28. It is understood that the wife and one of the daughters of the Bishop will accompany him.

WHAT THE GERMANS SAY OF ARTHUR.—When our German fellow-citizens take the measure of a politician, they generally come to a very just conclusion. In New York city there is a large and thoroughly organized political society, known as the German American Independent Citizens Association. On hearing of Arthur's nomination for Vice-President by the Radicals, our German friends immediately passed a resolution that "said nomination is a highly disreputable concession to the worst elements of the Republican party," and that they will under no circumstances vote for him. We hope to hear a similar resolve by the hundreds of thousands of intelligent and industrious German voters all over the country.

PHILADELPHIA proposes to celebrate her bicentennial in the fall of 1882. One hundred and ninety-eight years ago the Quaker colony sent out by Penn landed at the junction of the Schuylkill and Delaware and laid off the town which has since expanded into such a noble city. A meeting for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps was held at the office of Col. John W. Forney the other day, and from its action the celebration promises to be in every way worthy of the occasion and on a scale that will adequately reflect the industrial grandeur of that prosperous city.

ACCORDING to the Philadelphia Times, there are two hundred and eighty miles of street railways in that city, the aggregate cost of which was eight millions and a half of dollars. Last year these roads carried ninety million passengers, and their receipts were five millions of dollars, the excess of receipts over expenses being $1,822,964, or about twenty-one per cent. interest on the investment, including stock and bonds. These figures are decidedly interesting.

THE young man who drinks whiskey must drink many bitter dregs from the cup of sorrow as a recompense.

He who buys what he does not want will soon want what he cannot buy.

Cling to the Farm.

It is a common complaint that the farm and farm life are not appreciated by our people. We long for the more elegant pursuits, or the ways and fashions of the town. But the farmer has the most sane and natural occupation, and ought to find life sweeter, if less highly seasoned, than any other. He alone strictly speaking, has a home. How can a man take root and thrive without land? He writes his history upon his field. How many ties, how many resources he has; his friendship with his cattle, his team, his dog, his trees, the satisfaction in growing crops, in his improved fields; his intimacy with nature, with bird and beast and with the quickening elemental forces; his co-operations with the cloud, the sun, the seasons, heat, wind, rain, frost.—Nothing will take the various social distempers which the city and artificial life breed out of a man like farming, like direct and loving contact with the soil. It drives out the poison. It humbles him, it teaches him patience and reverence, and restores the proper tone to his system. Cling to the farm, make much of it, put yourself into it, bestow your heart and your brain upon it, so that it shall savor of you and radiate your virtue after your day's work is done.—Scribner.

DR. C. C. COX, who recently returned from Australia, where he was sent by the State Department to represent the United States as Commissioner to the Australian Exposition, was on Saturday admitted to the Government Asylum for the Insane, owing to softening of the brain, which has made him hopelessly insane. Dr. Cox was Lieutenant Governor of the State of Maryland during the term of Gov. Thomas Swann, and afterward Commissioner of Pensions.

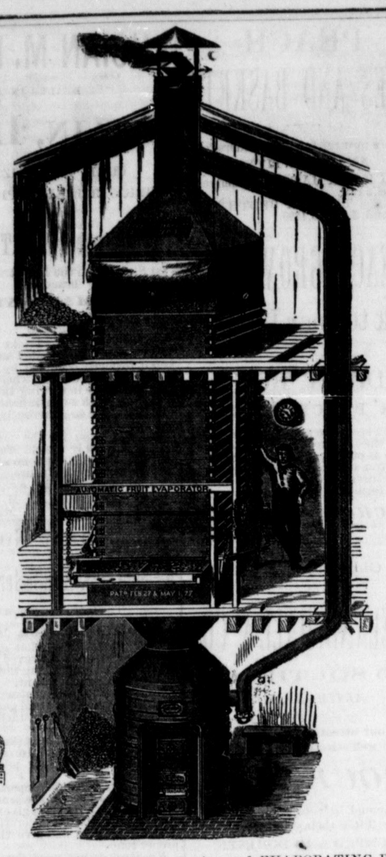
BUY THE BEST!!



The AUTOMATIC Fruit Evaporator.

Those wishing to engage in the business of EVAPORATING PEACHES and other Fruits would do well to examine carefully the different make of Driers before purchasing. With this as with many other articles, the best is the cheapest, and it will generally be found that those who buy and use the best make money, where others who get an indifferent article fail.

In order to give those who intend purchasing Fruit Driers an opportunity of examining for themselves the merits of the Automatic Drier I propose erecting one in Mr. J. W. Hines' warehouse, at the Wharf, foot of High St., Chestertown, Md., where each and every part of the machine can be examined.

The Furnace is perfect in all its parts, is constructed of best blown iron, and can be used for either wood or coal.

The Bleaching Apparatus which we furnish with each machine, is novel, and the principle fully explained when the machine is set up and ready for use. We guarantee to turn out as handsome fruit as any in the States.

We invite the makers of other machines to exhibit theirs in competition, when the merits of the AUTOMATIC over ALL OTHERS we are fully assured will be admitted. We do not claim the cheapest machine, but do claim the best for the money invested. Its simplicity and ease of management is admitted by all that have ever examined it. For further particulars, relating to its mode of working and the quality of the work it turns out, I refer you to testimonials contained in our circular.

Will also call your attention to the following letter received recently from one of the leading houses in Phila., engaged in the sale of fruits, and who make the sale of evaporated fruits a specialty:

Philadelphia, April 16th, 1880.

TO EDWARD MCFARLAND & JOHN F. WILT, PHILA.

GENTS:—As we have had several years experience in the sale of evaporated fruits prepared for market in the States of Maryland, Delaware and Georgia and dried on a variety of machines, we cannot forbear offering you our congratulations on the uniform success of the fruits dried on your Automatic. Not only has the quality of the fruit been superior, but being evenly cured has not damaged by holding, a just cause for complaint this last season with much of the fruit dried by other machines. As might be expected dryers having confidence in the quality and desired condition of the fruit cured on the Automatic, have been willing to pay for these combined excellencies and our sales have uniformly been at better rates: one invoice 7,500 lbs. bringing from 1½ to 2 cts. per lb. more than any other in this market during the last year. Wishing you continued success with the Automatic, we remain Yours very truly, BARKER & CO.,
238 & 240 N. Del. Av., Phila., Produce and Comm. Merchants. Evaporated fruits a specialty.

My address for the next two weeks will be Chestertown, Md., at Armstrong's Hotel, where I will be pleased to explain the working of the machine.

MALTBY HOUSE,
BALTIMORE.
Recognizing the fact that the relationship existing between the counties of Maryland and the City of Baltimore is such that residents of the Counties have occasion to visit the city frequently during the year; in consideration of these facts and the liberal patronage extended the "Maltby" in the past, I deem it but a matter of justice that some discrimination should be made in their favor. I have therefore concluded to Reduce Price of Board to $2 per Day feeling confident that the same will be fully appreciated by them, and at same time merit and secure an increased share of their patronage. Assuring them that nothing will be left undone that can add to their comfort during their stay.
ROOMS, without board, 75 cts. and upward per day.
