Curious Cases of Sleep-Walking.

Of the above curious subject a retired naval officer gives the following notes:

"One bright moonlight night I was on deck, as was frequently my wont, talking with the lieutenant of the middle watch. It was nearly calm, the ship making little way through the water, and the moon's light nearly as bright as day. We were mutually musing over the—certainly, shifting away, when W—— suddenly exclaimed, 'Look! look!' as that sentry, and pointing to the quarter-deck marine who was pacing slowly backwards and forwards on the lee side of the deck.

"'Well,' I replied, after watching him somewhat inattentively as he passed once or twice on his regular beat, 'what of him?'

"'Why, don't you see he is fast asleep! Take a good look at him when he next passes.'

I did so, and found W—— was right. The man, although pacing and turning regularly at the usual distance, was fast asleep with his eyes closed.

"When next he came abreast, W—— stepped quickly and noiselessly to his side, and pacing with him, gently disengaged the bunch of keys which were his special charge—being the keys of the spirit rooms, etc.—from the fingers of his left hand, to which they were suspended by a small chain. He then removed the bayonet from his other hand, and put it into the hand on the opposite side, turned, retraced, and taking another turn or two W—— suddenly called "Sentry!"

"'Sir?' replied the man, instantly stopping and facing round as he came to the 'attention.'

"'What, you were fast asleep, sentry.'

"'No, sir.'

"'But I say you were.'

"'No, sir. I assure you I was not.'

"'You were not, eh? Well, where are the keys?'

The man instantly brought up his hand to show them, as he supposed; but to his confusion his hand was empty.

"'Where is your bayonet?' continued W——.

The poor fellow brought forward his other hand, but that was empty also. But the puzzled look of astonishment he put on was more than we could stand; we both burst out laughing and when the keys and bayonet were pointed out to him lying on the capstan, the poor fellow was perfectly dumfounded. W—— was too merry over the joke to punish the man, and he contented with the warning not to fall asleep again.

Sentries and look-outs must be very liable to fall asleep from the very monotony of their monotonous pacing, and this may in some degree account for the facility with which sentries have at times been surprised and secured before they could give an alarm. In this instance, the most curious fact, I think, was the regularity with which the man continued to space his distances and turn at the right moment. I have known other instances of sentries and others walking in their sleep, though the end has not always been so pleasant to the victim. In one case the sentry, a deck sentry, in the middle of the night, crashed down the wardroom hatchway with musket and fixed bayonet, with a rattling that startled us all out of our cabins. The fellow fell on his back upon the top of the messtable, but not much the worse for his exploit. On another occasion a messenger boy paid us a visit in the night; he fell upon a chair, which he smashed to pieces, but the sleeper escaped unhurt.

These can hardly be considered true cases of somnambulism, but show how men may continue their occupations when overcome by sleep. Nothing but seeing his bayonet and the keys lying on the capstan could have ever convinced the marine that he had been sleeping; no mere assertion to that effect would ever have influenced him.

"He does look bad," was the reply. "He looks as if you have dealt with him a long time—doesn't he?"

The subject was immediately changed.

The bill which passed the House of Representatives some weeks ago, providing for placing the Mexican veteran, General Shields, on the retired list of the army, with the half-pay of a Brigadier-General, was defeated in the Senate yesterday week by a vote of 30 yeas to 34 nays. The Republicans, assisted by Senator Lamar, amended the bill, by placing General Grant on the retired list also, with the pay of a General, without his needing or asking for the pension; and that is what swamped the bill for the relief of poor old General Shields. With the loss of the bill, General Shields also loses the hope of an increase of his pension from $30 to $100. Like the Dutch prisoner after the battle of Coal Harbor, General Shields has good reason to say, "Boo-boo-oo-oo, d——n General Grant."

Rev. Bishop Gilbert Haven, notorious for his ultra radicalism, made a violent bloody-shirt speech to an incendiary crowd in Washington on Saturday week. He is not at all pleased with our present form of Government. He said: "unless a stronger government arises, we shall dissolve and disappear as a nation." Pity but what we had a government strong enough to make all such miserable disturbers of the peace as Bishop Haven know their place and behave themselves decently. When Rev. Bishops forget the religion of peace they profess to preach, and step into the dirty pool of partisan politics to stir up strife, it is almost time we had a government strong enough to place a cravat of good hemp about their necks. It might have a wholesome effect upon other white neck cloth stinkers, who are prone to agitate the dirty waters of partisan politics for selfish purposes.

Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, Complexion and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will try a systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. Simmons Liver Regulator is decidedly the best purgic, safe and gentle to the delicate.

CONSTIPATION!

SHOULD not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache. For the relief of this, Simmons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy.

APPLETON'S

American Cyclopædia.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely Rewritten by the Ablest Writers on Every Subject.

Printed from New Type, and Illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

—:o:—

The work originally published under the title of the New American Cyclopædia was completed in 1863, since which time the whole circulation which it has attained in parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and issue a new edition entitled

The American Cyclopædia.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volumes of the old work appeared has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced. Large accessions to our have been made to the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, who have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their places in Permanent and Authentic History.

In preparing the present edition for the press it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of Political and Historical Events.

The work was begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been

Printed on New Type, forming in fact, a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The Illustrations, which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science, and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of the scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufacturers. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their Artistic Excellence.

The cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

The American Cyclopædia is Now Complete, in sixteen large octavo volumes, each volume containing over 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous Colored Lithographic Maps, the whole costing the publisher a sum exceeding exclusive of paper, printing, and binding.

Five Hundred Thousand Dollars,

The Best Cyclopædia ever Published, one that will supersede all others, is now offered to the public at a very moderate price less than one cent a page!

Just think!

A Saving of Ten Cents per Day,

the price of a cigar, or many other expenditures for luxuries or frivolities of a like amount, would pay for a complete set of he Cyclopædia by a bi-monthly subscription. Thus there will be something substantial saved, and a storehouse of knowledge, indeed

A Universal Library in Itself.

Secured, without little effort or sacrifice.

☞ Specimen pages of The American Cyclopædia, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis on application.

Persons wishing to subscribe, can receive the whole set at one time, or one or more volumes at any time, the delivery suiting their convenience, without any cost of carriage, by forwarding their address to
