SATURDAY .....SEPT. 25, 1880

GOV. HENDRICKS' GREAT SPEECH.

The greatest speech of the campaign was made last week at Marion, Indiana, by Gov. Hendricks. It has had a wide circulation and must prove very damaging to Mr. Garfield. Gov. Hendricks charged that Gen. Garfield occupied a double relation to the fraud of 1876-7, in that he first went to Louisiana and assisted in turning the vote that was cast for Tilden and Hendricks over to Hayes and Wheeler, and afterwards sat upon the Electoral Commission, not to deal fairly with the question and weigh the law and facts according to his oath of office, but to vote every time to clinch the fraud he had assisted in perpetrating. Gov. Hendricks prefaced his remarks by saying "If I don't this evening substantiate every material charge, I will ask no man to vote against James A. Garfield." The Governor then proceeded to show Garfield's connection with the fraud which placed Hayes in the presidency and gave the Republican party four years of power they were not entitled to. Out of the mouth of Garfield did he substantiate his charges. From his sworn testimony he proved that upon the face of the returns Garfield believed that Tilden and Hendricks had carried Louisiana. From his sworn testimony he proved that Garfield, in an inner room of the New Orleans Custom House, received the papers relating to the election in West Feliciana Parish, and there examined them. From his sworn testimony he proved that Garfield, after reading those papers, sent for witnesses from West Feliciana Parish, and singly, with no one but themselves present, examined them as to the election, and when their stories were not what he desired, framed interrogatories to draw out such evidence as he wanted, which interrogitories and answers in some cases, went as "official" evidence before the State Returning Board. From his sworn testimony he proved that Garfield, after finishing his labors as one of the "visiting statesmen," prepared a brief on the Louisiana election and presented it to Gen. Grant. From the evidence of one of the witnesses whom Garfield examined in the Custom House, he proved that she said that the whole story told Garfield in that inner room, was entirely and absolutely false. From the Congressional Record he proved that Garfield opposed the passage of the bill creating the Electoral Commission, because the Commission would have power to examine into the acts of the Returning Boards, and as a member of the commission, after the bill creating it had passed, maintained that no examination could be made, and so voted all the time. Thus out of his own mouth, Gov. Hendricks convicts Gen. Garfield of assisting in overturning the vote of Louisiana, and thus defrauding the people of the whole country out of their duly elected President, and of double dealing and perjury while a member of the Electoral Commission. The following is a closing sentence in the Governor's great speech:

I state to you that whatever the truth might be about the De Golyer pavement, whether he did take a fee against the interest of the Government when he was a representative taking a salary; whether the facts might be about the Credit Mobilier, whether it was a terrible fraud or not; I will not stop to speak of that until this greater question is settled. Whether as a representative of the people, as a juror sitting between myself and Wheeler, and Tilden and Hayes, he was a true man or a false man. [Applause.] If I have a case in your court and you are called upon as a juror, and no questions are asked you at all, and you have a bitter prejudice against me and a judgment against me, would you go and take your seat? My oath would not allow me to do it, and I know that yours would not. Yet Garfield, after he had helped to make up the case down at New Orleans, comes to Washington, and without protest or apology, or excuse, takes his seat, and he votes day after day contrary to what he said in the House was law. No gentlemen, he will never be President of the United State. [Voiced, "No, never!"]

LETTER FROM GEN. HANCOCK.—Gen. Hancock, having been invited to attend a democratic meeting at Hicksville, Ohio wrote a letter of regret at being unable to attend, and concluded: "The meeting will be one of unusual interest, honored, as it will be by the presence of those two prominent leaders, Senator Thurman and Gov. Hendricks. The cause must be one of no ordinary kind that brings together those two eminent men on the borders of the two great States of which they have long been distinguished representatives. I have reason to feel proud of being prominently identified with a cause that is upheld by the patriotism and ability of such advocates. I regret that I cannot be present on this occasion to share with my fellow-citizens the lessons of wisdom and patriotism that cannot fail to eminate from such sources. I feel assured that the proceedings of the meeting will enforce the people's demand for honesty, economy and efficiency in the public service for the peace and welfare of the country. For the security of free institutions and for all the rights and liberties as guaranteed by the constitution and laws, let us hope that the masses of the people, whose interest stretch away beyond the schemes and temporary triumphs of mere partisan warfare, will take affairs into their own hands and properly settle the question as to whether we shall have a new era of peace, reconciliation, economy and prosperity."

OYSTERS AND THE TRADE.—Our oystermen have had this week all the work they could do. There has been plenty of market in the river at 25 cts. a bushel for common oysters. The runners have been carrying small cargoes, but they have got good prices in Baltimore this week.

There is also a demand for oysters for planting in the tributaries of the Delaware Bay. After the season closed here last spring when the new law went into operation, the Delaware planters obtained oysters from Virginia waters. The most of these perished during the summer, and the planters now want all the Chesapeake oysters they can get, for which the oystermen will receive twenty-five cents a bushel, instead of ten cents a bushel, which they would have brought last spring.

Oysters were caught in Miles river all summer and shipped to Baltimore, doubtless in violation of the spirit of the law. These were the oysters of the largest size that grow in Miles river, and were sold during the summer at an insignificant price. Now they would bring a good price—not less than fifty cents a bushel—on the rock as "forward" oysters.

AN ADVENTUROUS BOY'S RETURN.—James J. Glenn, a Baltimore boy, aged 16 years, returned Saturday evening to the house of his father, Wm. Glenn, a carpenter and builder, living at 149 Bank street, having left his home three years and four months ago. The boy states that he was persuaded to run away by an old man, whom he accompanied to the West, and that afterwards he lived chiefly in Texas, where he met with various hardships and adventures as a herder of cattle. He finally had sixty head of cattle as his own, but while they were being driven with others to Kansas, the whole herd was captured by Indians. For over two years the family in this city had no news of the youth, and his father traveled over the whole Western section of the country in search of him, but failed to find him. About a year ago the boy sent a postal card to Baltimore, and recently his health failed and he determined to return home. He has been twice wounded by Indians, and has thoughts of writing the story of his sufferings as a warning to other boys.—Balto. Sun.

THE Elkton M. E. congregation are discussing the resignation of Rev. Vaughan Smith, their pastor. At the Quarterly Conference on Monday it was decided to reduce his salary. Mr. Smith thought that final action on that question ought to have been taken at the first quarterly of the present year, as custom required, and being displeased, forwarded his resignation to Presiding Elder Matlack. But the Elder says that he cannot accept the resignation, and the perplexing question is, what's to be done about it?

THE Centreville Observer says: "A negro man in Kent Island, by name Dan. Webster, has, since his enfranchisement, always voted the democratic ticket, and, strange to say, from that cause, or some other, he is gradually growing white. A considerable part of his face and beard is now whiter than the whitest face of one of our own race."

THERE is in Laurel, Del., a local preacher who has been in the work fifty-seven years. He is now in the eighty-second year of his age, and a few Sundays ago he walked two miles into the country, preached a sermon, and walked back to town with apparent ease.

ON Saturday last Senator Blaine, thinking Davis was elected Governor of Maine, telegraphed: "He laughs best who laughs last." As the full returns elected Plaisted it is easy to see where the laugh comes in.

BENJ. G. TOLBERT, a colored lawyer of Goshen, Indiana, and heretofore a prominent republican politician, has declared for Hancock and English.

THE Republican Hancock and English Campaign Club of New York has now 1,000 enrolled members.

OYSTERS — The Planting, Packing, &c.—Mr. Richard H. Edmonds, of the Journal of Commerce, Baltimore, in his last article on the oyster trade in the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries, says that it will no doubt astonish a good many people to know that New York, Baltimore and one or two other seaboard towns are preparing to spend seventy-five millions of dollars on oysters for the coming season, for home consumption and for shipment West. This seems to be a large amount of money, but few people realize the amount of the demand for the succulent oyster. In times past people were fond of the canned article, but that era is past, and the gourmand must now have his bivalve as fresh as when, like an edible aphrodite, it first rose from the wave. The heavy Eastern dealers have solved that problem, and any point in the land which can be reached by rail, even to California, where the Eastern oyster is preferred to the occidental, may be supplied with the fresh, cool and toothsome bivalve.

FUSION IN MAINE.—In the Maine convention of the fusionists on Tuesday last to select presidential electors, it was finally resolved, after considerable discussion and some opposition and acrimony, to continue the union of the democratic and greenback parties up to the presidential election. If this ticket should receive a plurality of votes in November Mr. Weaver will secure four votes anyhow, which is probably four more than he can count in any other State in the Union, but in exchange the democratic candidate would secure three electors in New England which he would hardly secure under other circumstances.

IT is estimated that 50,000 people attended the democratic meeting Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday evening. Gens. B. F. Butler and Franz Sigel, and Congressman Blackburn, were among the speakers.

A CERTAIN local preacher on Princess Anne circuit advised the recent converts at one of the appointments "not to be like canoes, that had to be pulled up and scraped every year."

THE population of Maryland by the last census is 935,000, an increase of 156,000 in the past ten years, or twenty per cent.

IN a small one-story house, near Princess Anne, there lives a colored man named William Hayman, his wife and 18 children, making a nice little family of 20 persons.

FIVE BABIES AT ONE BIRTH.—Mrs. Hazzard, of Monticello, Ill., gave birth to five babies on Saturday. They are all alive.

THE total population of the Eastern Shore is 176,972.

THE big oyster houses at Cambridge opened for work last week.

The Improved
WATER
Elevator
AND Purifier!
AS A WATER ELEVATOR it has these merits: 1st—It is the Simplest Structure for raising water, on the American market. 2, it is easily adjusted to any well or cistern. 3, it is very durable. 4, it works easily. 5. it will NEVER freeze. 6, it is always ready for use and always at its best. 7, it has none of the objections common to pumps. 8, it will make warm water cold.
All who examine this invention admit the above claims, but ask
How Does it Purify Water?
As the inverted cups pass around the Terra Cotta wheel suspended in the chain at the bottom of the Well or Cistern, they are constantly discharging air through the water from the bottom to the top.
This elevator will destroy Wiggles, Water Bugs and Water Lice, will make foul or stagnant water pure, and will remove all color, bad taste and smell. In short, it will make bad water good, and good water better.
The undersigned have secured the exclusive right to sell this really valuable Pump in Kent county and they earnestly ask for it a candid and fair examination, confident of its intrinsic merit. One can be seen on exhibition in Chestertown at any time. For circulars address
