school was intended to be something more than a Free Elementary school is clear from the curriculum laid down in the Act of Assembly, namely, "Grammer, good writing and Mathematics.". From the preamble to the Act of Assembly of 1723 authorizing the establishment of Washington college upon the foundation of the Kent county school, it is plain that this school had departed from the original plan in regard to the course of studies laid down in the Act of 1723, and that it had become an academy of high order, in which the Latin and Greek languages were taught. By no stretch of probable inference, could public schools had made similar changes and progress by the introduction of the same studies and such others as are usually associated with them in advanced stages of youth. It is not likely that the Talbot school was of lower grade than the Kent school, in its latter years at least. In selecting a competent teacher, we denote the visitors encountered the difficulty suggested by the phraseology of the law. If such can conveniently be done, in this, difficulty was a common and lasting one in the province. It cannot be said that it has disappeared even to the present day, notwithstanding the number of professional schools for the training of teachers, and the better pay that is extended to them. But there is good ground for believing that the Talbot county free school was better supplied with good teachers than the private subscription schools which were often filled by indentured servants, and even convicted criminals," from the curious advertisement of the trustees of St. Michaels and Easton as masters of this school. The vestry records indicate as much, for the mastership is occasionally offered as additional inducements to educated men to accept the curacy in one or the other of these parishes. The names of but two teachers have reached us. Mr. George Ewing is commemorated in our records for his skill and excellence, but Mr. George Ewings for his rascality. The following advertisement from the old Maryland Gazette of Aug. 16, 1745 pillories the latter:

"Ran away from Talbot county school on Monday the 5th day of this instant August, George Ewings, the master of the same school, who took away with him a negro man, named Nero, and two geldings, the one of a grey and the other of a black color, the property of the Visitors of the same school. The said Ewings is an Irishman, of a middle stature and thin visage, is marked with the small pox and has the brogue upon his tongue. Whoever apprehends the said Ewings, negro and geldings, so that they may be had again, shall receive five pounds current money of Maryland as a reward, paid by the Visitors of the said school. Signed per order,

WILL. GOLDSBOROUGH."

Aug. 7th, 1745.

The salary paid to the teachers was twenty pounds (eighty-three dollars and thirty-three cents of the money of the present time) and the use of the school farm—an insignificant sum, but doubtless regarded then as really munificent. It is probable the master was allowed to charge a tuition fee for instructing those able to pay, but was required to receive as many charity pupils as the visitors should designate. There is nothing in the law indicating that this was anything but a free school, but previous laws upon which this was based show that there was a charge for instruction, except in the cases named; and the fact that provision was required by the law of 1723 to be made for learners may be interpreted as meaning the school was not absolutely free.

[CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.]

*Bampfylde Moore Carew, the King of the Beggars, as he was called, came to Talbot as one of these unwilling immigrants, and the Captain of the ship that brought him over, recommended him to a planter of Baysides "a great scholar * * * and an excellent school master."

THE Welland Canal, around Niagara Falls, is about to be enlarged, so that grain may be shipped in ocean steamers through the canal directly from Chicago to Liverpool. New York is in great trouble about the Welland Canal enlargement. This flank movement of Chicago on the New York tidewaters has filled Wall Street with the dread of blue ruin at no distant day. Westward the star of commerce as well as empire takes its flight. When the Choptank and Delaware ship canal is built, Baltimore will be the only Atlantic city that will be able to compete with Canada for the Western grain trade.

Gen. Logan Compares Grant with Cæsar.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Gen. Logan made a Grant speech here to-night. In its course he said: "It is claimed by some that Gen. Grant is ambitious. Cæsar after he had led the Roman legions victoriously in every hostile country, was assassinated by his friends because he was said to be ambitious."

A Vermont woman went to a store and asked for a "Cook book," and they gave her a volume of Joseph's lectures, and after she had got up a dinner by it, they found it neces sary to call four doctors to get the family through the night, and rival sextons roosted on the fence for two days, prepared for emergencies.

MALTBY HOUSE,

BALTIMORE.

APRIL 1st, 1879.

Recognizing the fact that the relationship existing between the Counties of Maryland and the City of Baltimore is such that residents of the Counties have occasion to visit the City frequently during the year; in consideration of these facts and the liberal patronage extended the "Maltby" in the past, I deem it but a matter of justice that some discrimination should be made in their favor. I have therefore concluded to feeling confident that the same will be fully appreciated by them, and at the same time merit and secure an increased share of their patronage. Assuring them that nothing will be left undone that can add to their comfort during their stay.

I have been using John Lucas & Co.'s Celebrated Enameled Ready-Mixed Paint, very extensively for the last two years and have tested it very thoroughly, and after using from eight hundred to one thousand gallons in 1879 alone, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the best paint in the market. The following qualities make it superior to any I have ever used:

1st. It has no water in it, and can therefore be used in the coldest as well as the warmest weather

2d. Two coats of this paint will give as much satisfaction as most other paints with three coats.

3d. One of its most desirable qualities is its uniform thickness; it is not so thin in warm weather as to be fit only for priming, nor so thick in cold weather as to not spread easily and evenly.

I have the exclusive sale of it in this county.

I have obtained the signatures of the following persons upon whose houses I have used this paint during the years 1877-78-79 (all of these houses were new and most of them finished with only two coats) and they recommend it as entirely satisfactory in solidity, brightness and durability.
