The Kent News.

SATURDAY ..... JAN. 22, 1881.

Kent Co. Agricultural Association.

CLUB ROOM, Jan. 17, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Last year's officers presided at the opening to-day. After the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, a committee was appointed to wait on the president elect, Mr. T. C. Parsons, and notify him of his election, and escort him to the chair.

The committee very soon reported that Mr. Parsons positively declined the honor, and next Monday, Jan. 24, was appointed as the time for a new election. A motion prevailed that Mr. Hossinger retain the chair until his successor is chosen. The report of the auditing committee was read and adopted.

A large part of the time was occupied debating the resolution to appoint a committee to revise the constitution. Very great freedom of discussion was permitted and the members wandered hither and thither at their own sweet will; your correspondent, although in no mood to participate, was very much interested, and although there was the widest difference of opinion, yet the courtesies of debate were wonderfully well maintained. Among the best uses of such discussions is that they teach members to respect each other's views and motives, although they may not agree with them. I consider my own training in the association as exceedingly valuable. Pardon this digression.

The motion to appoint prevailed, and the decision was followed by a motion that the committee be elected by nomination and ballot, for which a substitute was offered, that the committee be appointed by the president, and if I am not mistaken, the substitute was being vigorously discussed pro and con when a motion to adjourn was sustained, and the motion and substitute will come up as unfinished business.

Come out brother farmers, and take part in the proceedings. We all have views and the right to speak and maintain them, and the floor and all the courtesies of the meeting are extended to all equally, and if a few speak more frequently than perhaps is right, it is because others do not avail themselves of their rights. I cannot remember that any member was ever refused the floor, and all are equally bound to maintain the interest of the meetings.

Let us have a full and spirited meeting next Monday, select the best man for president we can, appoint the committee to revise the constitution, and get everything in working order for an active winter and spring campaign.

No doubt you, Messrs. Editors, will be as much surprised on reading this article as I have been to find horse-racing hardly mentioned. Do not think your correspondent has surrendered; not at all, he has only hauled off to repair damages and get his wind. PARTICEPS.

Lynch's and Vicinity.

Messrs. Editors:—"Sentinel" is sick. Just before Christmas he fell backwards from an elevation of ten feet, striking the frozen ground with great force, and receiving internal injuries that "sticketh closer than a brother."

The clouds still frown, and earth is robed in a coverlet of white. A capital time this to enlarge the mental pabulum. There is fuel, food and faith to defy the wintry weather. Seed time and harvest is ahead. The sun will glow, the earth blush and the flowers shed a thousand sweets. The lute-like notes of the thrush and robin will be heard all in time, and the golden fruit will be in our possession again. Sorrow may lead us through the valley of tears, suffering and bereavement, and we may have to put down in the bosom of the cold earth the very objects we love the best—it is often so—but good will ultimately come, and more than make up for it all.

James Toulson has two large stack-yards of wheat yet to be got out, and is not quite done husking corn. Wm. Bowers, Jr., has from two to three hundred barrels of corn to husk. Snow capped wheat stacks is a rarity.

James Kendall has been around giving away good advice and selling useful books. He is agent for the American Tract Society, and informs me that in less than a year sold over one thousand dollars' worth of books. We hear that brother Jimmy will be recommended to the next session of the Wilmington conference for deacon's ordination, and there is no doubt but that the conference will be glad to enlarge the field of usefulness to this faithful servant of the church.

There is some diptheria about. The writer's wife has it quite badly. Two of Mr. Perkins' children have got it also, at the station. Our little Doctor is attentive, persevering and successful, never flinching for storms, night or day.

I think Dr. Caldwell was wrong in advising the Wilmington people not to go and hear Col. Ingersoll. It looks like mistrust. Paul advised to try all things. SENTINEL.

Letter from Galena.

Editors Kent News:—The Westminster Presbyterian Church, at Georgetown, and the Kennedyville Presbyterian Church have been without a pastor ever since their beloved pastor, Rev. E. W. Gaylord, resigned last October. On Thursday evening, Jan. 6, however, at a congregational meeting held at the Church in Georgetown, a hearty and unanimous call was extended to Rev. W. W. Reese, of Lewes, Del., to become their pastor. At the aforesaid meeting, on motion of Dr. W. G. Phelps, the following preamble and resolution was adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, this, the Westminster Presbyterian Church, has been without a pastor for the past three months; and whereas, we have now, by a unanimous vote of the congregation, extended a call to the Rev. W. W. Reese to be our pastor, to go in and out among us as such; therefore,

Resolved, That we hereby tender to our brother and elder, Mr. T. A. Jacobs, our hearty thanks for his manifested earnestness and zeal in keeping our pulpit supplied from Sabbath to Sabbath during the interim between Rev. E. W. Gaylord's resignation and the present.

The Rev. E. W. Gaylord preached at the Georgetown church on Sunday morning last, and at Kennedyville in the afternoon.

The friends of Mr. Oliver Pennington, hotel proprietor at Fredericktown, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill with pneumonia, Dr. Dulaney in attendance. We are pained to learn that the beautiful child of Rev. W. H. Chase, of Cecilton, aged 4 years, died suddenly on Friday evening, the 7th instant, of membranous croup. Inasmuch as Mr. Chase's wife lies in a very critical condition, in the last stages of pulmonary consumption, this affliction falls heavily upon him. Truly he deserves and has, I think, the hearty sympathy of all. Mr. Wm. Kendle, of Galena, is slowly improving, under Dr. Latimer's treatment, from the severe stroke of paralysis with which he was stricken.

A week or two since rumor has it that a very sprightly and stylish young lady of this place has quite recently been tied up by the nuptial knot, and that "still there's more to follow" and do likewise, particularly ONE of Galena's fair maidens, and that, too, right speedily. More in futuro. OBSERVER.

"THE Queen of the Lobby this winter," says a Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, "is a fascinating little brunette from the sunny South—the widow of a Confederate colonel who fell before Richmond. She has been abroad, and knows the most celebrated men of France, England and this country, although her circle of female acquaintances is evidently circumscribed. The charm of her conversation is irresistible, especially to gentlemen whose hair is thin on the top of their heads. There is a sweet, subdued gayety in her speech, accent and gestures which makes a venerable listener happy, and there is a vivacity about her conversation which is especially attractive. She always dresses in black, in which magnificence of apparel can be allied with purity of taste. In the daytime a long-skirted ulster has a most decorous look, and at night, in her pleasant rooms, she always wears a rich black satin dress, with a scarf of rare lace, in which gleams a diamond cross which might have been the ransom of the Sultan. Such unstudied grace and elegance suggests sweet Annie Page, 'on her bright face one glance might trace a picture of the brain,' and if she does not render great aid to those who have retained her services to aid their schemes, I am mistaken. More than one Congressman is submissive to her will."

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—Louisiana is rejoicing over the prospective success of a movement initiated some time ago to substitute Italian for colored labor in its cotton and cane fields. The first installment of these Italian emigrants, two hundred and ten in number, reached New Orleans a few days before Christmas, and it is reported that other laborers of the same class are expected in large numbers during the winter and spring. Heretofore the drift of Italian emigration has been towards South America, and principally to the Argentine Republic, of which Buenos Ayres is the capital, and the province of that name the richest province. The climate there approximates so closely to that of Southern Italy that it agrees well with the emigrants from the latter kingdom. Whether they will find that of Louisiana equally well-suited to them, or the labor in the cotton and cane fields congenial to their habits and constitutions, must necessarily be at present a matter of doubt. The attempt to introduce Chinese labor into Lauisiana failed signally. The present attempt to substitute Italian for negro labor may fare better. It is, at all events an interesting experiment, for all accounts agree that as a laborer the Italian is honest, frugal, temperate and industrious.

THE indications are that the military review on the occasion of Gen. Garfield's inauguration will be the grandest since the review of Sherman's army in Washington. Military companies from every State in the Union will participate.

THE PITTSBURG DOG-SHOW—A Quarter Million Dollars' Worth of Thoroughbreds.—A show of thoroughbred dogs was opened at Pittsburg, Pa., on Monday under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Poultry Association. There are three hundred entries, valued at $250,000. Mr. A. M. Moore, the Philadelphia dog-fancier, is the largest exhibitor. Among his entries is Lester, a champion English setter, of a beautiful lemon and white color, for which Mr. Moore has refused $10,000 cash. Lester nets his owner $150 a week for breeding purposes. Mr. Moore has also entered Rosy Moore, a black and white champion English setter bitch, which has won any amount of prizes; Berkeley, a champion red Irish setter, for which he has refused $10,000; Bob, a black and tan champion Gordon setter, for which he refused $5,000; Stella, a black and tan Gordon setter bitch, valued at $5,000. He also exhibits Young Scoty, a pug, which cost him £500 in England. Among the entries are dogs from as far north as Canada, and from as far south as Memphis, Tenn. Dr. S. Fleet Spier, of Brooklyn, has entered his champion English setter St. Elmo, which is valued at $10,000. St. Elmo is a black, white and tan, aged four years, and has taken the first prize wherever exhibited. He and Mr. Moore's Lester are said to be the two most valuable dogs in America, and this the first time they ever came in competition. J. J. Snellenburg, of New Brighton, Pa., enters Thunder, a blue belton, imported English setter, valued at $5,000. J. A. McIntosh, of Pittsburg, has entered Big, a red Irish setter, valued at $5,000, which took first prize as a puppy at the last New York bench-show; Annabel Lee, a red Irish setter bitch, worth $1,500; Abbey, W. another red Irish setter bitch, valued at the same price. Edmund Orgil, of Brooklyn, exhibits Brush, a lemon and white champion pointer, worth $1,500, and John Fawcett, of McKeesport, enters Duke, another lemon and white pointer, worth $1,000. Rue, a pointer bitch, entered by Mr. Orgill, of Brooklyn, is valued at $1,500. The Baltimore Kennel Club also enter a number of thoroughbreds to compete for the prizes.

A MUDDLE IN PHILADELPHIA POLITICS.—Recently a committee of one hundred leading citizens of Philadelphia, composed of representatives of both parties, put forth a municipal ticket headed by Wm. S. Stokley, present republican incumbent, for mayor, and placed them on a non-partisan and retrenchment platform. Mr. Stokley accepted the nomination, but failed to pledge himself to the platform, and a few days ago also accepted the republican nomination for the mayoralty. This led to the convening of the executive committee of the citizens' party Saturday last, at which a sub-committee reported that they had visited the mayor Friday forenoon and held a conference with him, the result of which was his refusal to accede to the declaration of principles, and that matters between the mayor and committee were now worse, if anything, than before. A resolution was unanimously adopted that as Mr. Stokley had omitted to indorse the declaration of principles of the citizens' party, that the nomination be withdrawn. After this was disposed of, several other resolutions were passed, calling for a revision of the declaration of principles in order to make them more thoroughly non-partisan and in effect inviting the co-operation of the democrats in securing the election of good men for the three important offices of mayor, city solicitor and receiver of taxes. Later in the day there was also a conference between several leading anti-Stokley republicans and some prominent democrats, at which a resolution was unanimously adopted providing for a committee to confer with a view of forming a coalition or anti-Stokley ticket.

HON. JAMES G. FAIR, the newly elected democratic United States Senator from Nevada, and one of the original quartette of "Bonanza Princes," was born Dec. 3, 1831, in Clougher, Tyrone county, Ireland. He came to this country in 1843 with his parents, and for some time he resided at Geneva, Ill., where he attended school. At Chicago he received a good business education. In 1849 he went to California, and has ever since been engaged in mining. In 1867 he became superintendent of the Ophir mine and the Hale and Norcross mine in Nevada. It was during their connection with the latter mine that the "Bonanza Princes" made the first $500,000 of their enormous fortunes. These men—James G. Fair, James C. Flood, Wm. S. O'Brien and J. W. Mackey—secured control of several mining claims, which are now known as the California and Consolidated Virginia mines, Mr. Fair being the controlling spirit in the movement. From these and other mines and from real estate speculations Mr. Fair has accumulated an immense fortune, being assessed in California alone for $12,000,000. Although the owner of so much wealth, Mr. Fair is still a hard worker, and may be seen about the mines almost any day in his miner's costume. In politics he is a conservative and independent democrat. He is five feet and eight inches in height, and weighs 227 pounds. He wears a long, flowing black beard, tinged here and there with gray, and has a florid complexion. He was married in 1861, and has a family of two boys and two giris.

THE STATE INSANE ASYLUM.—The annual report of the Board of Managers of the Maryland Hospital for the Insane, "Spring Grove," situated at Catonsville, in Baltimore county, contains the following: At the end of 1872, the hospital had 122 patients; at the end of 1873, 127 patients; 1874, 148 patients; 1875, 171 patients; 1876, 198 patients, 1878, 302 patients, and now toward the close of 1880 it has 362 patients, 206 males and 156 females; 56 private patients, and 306 maintained at the public expense. While the institution has in eight years nearly doubled the number of its patients the buildings have not been enlarged and there are in male section forty more than proper. A proper water supply is needed. There is, like in all old hospitals for the insane, a steady accumulation of chronic and absolutely incurable patients which greatly interferes with the power of the institution to perform its merciful work of restoring those that can be cured. The remedy suggested is for the State to adopt the policy of caring directly for all its insane paupers and then the institution could be properly arranged. Funds are also wanted to establish workshops.

THE Municipal Committee, to which was entrusted the Baltimore sesqui-centennial celebration in October, has made its final report to the mayor. The amount collected for the celebration was $20,643.85, of which $19,328.37 was consumed by the expenses, and the balance, $1,357.48, was paid over to the committee having charge of the preparation of a history of the jubilation. Taking into consideration the amount of fun and solid pleasure the Baltimoreans had during the week of festivity, it cannot be considered that the expense has been very great, while the fact of a balance in the treasury is a very gratifying circumstance. The committee on the history can add this to the other features of the celebration, as something well worthy of imitation by other places, when age shall entitle them to the honors or pleasures of centennial or sesqui-centennial jollification.

THE SPRAGUE DIVORCE SUIT.—A Providence (R. I.) dispatch says ex-Gov. Sprague asserts that he has been approached by one of Mrs. Sprague's counsel, who offered to withdraw the allegations of adultery if he would consent not to oppose the divorce on the ground of non-support. He says he refused to compromise, and told the gentleman that inasmuch as Mrs. Sprague's attorney had seen fit to culminate him by publishing the divorce petition, with all its disgusting allegations, he should consider it his duty to meet them in open court, and obtain, what he was sure he could get, a complete vindication.

THE woman suffragists, or at least that portion of them marshaled and led by Miss Susan B. Anthony, are out with a brand new-demand. First they wanted a sixteenth amendment, giving women the right to vote; subsequently they found out, or thought they did, that one of the latter amendments gave them the right to vote, and asked only a declaratory act by Congress thus interpreting it; and now they simply want a special committee in each house to take the question of woman suffrage under serious and prayerful consideration. Miss Anthony says they have such a committee in the House already, but that it will do nothing, and she wants a new one.

THE preliminary report of the Census Bureau on cotton manufactures in the United States shows a total of 230,223 looms, 10,921,147 spindles, 1,586,418 bales of cotton used and 181,628 hands employed. The largest showing is, of course, made by Massachusetts, where 4,465,290 spindles are operated and 62,794 persons employed. Next comes little Rhode Island with 1,649,295 spindles and 22,228 hands. Georgia leads all the Southern States with 200,974 spindles and 6,678 hands, and Maryland comes next with 125,014 spindles and 4,150 hands.

THE Hon. Eugene Hele, on being elected senator from Maine, received a dispatch from his three boys who were on a visit to their grandmother in Detroit. It read thus: "Hurrah for Maine! Hurrah for papa! Chandler, Fred and the Boss." Chandler is eight years old, and the Boss only four.

COL. MCCLURE, of the Philadelphia Times, have has concluded his trip of observation through the South says that in five years the South will manufacture half its cotton. We trust that in ten it will manufacture everything, build its own ships and export and import thro' its own ports.

THE Rev. Luther Wisnell, an aged minister of Windham, Maine, recently celebrated his eightieth birthday by preaching from the text—"I am this day four score years old."

BALTIMORE GRAIN MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of Thursday quote:—Fultz Wheat at 1.12@$1.14 and longberry at $1.21@1.23. Corn—yellow 51@52; white 52@53. Oats 45@46.

EXPORTING LIVE STOCK.—Mr. Thomas Bayley Potter, a member of the British Parliament, in a letter to an Ohio stock-dealer who had written him in regard to the freer importation of cattle into England from the United States and the permission for live stock to enter as Canadian stock landing, expresses the belief that the matter now rests with the United States government to make official arrangements with the various State governments through which the cattle to be exported pass in order to secure exemption from disease or risk of disease in transit to the coast. These precautions, in addition to strict attention to the health of the cattle in the Western States, would go far to satisfy the English law, and Mr. Potter says he is confident that there is no inclination on the part of Lord Spencer to check the importation of American cattle on protectionist grounds, but that he will be glad if the due care and attention of the American government at Washington and of the various States should justify him in giving to the British consumers the advantage of a cheap and healthy supply of so necessary a commodity.

THE YORKTOWN CELEBRATION.—Hon. John Welsh, of Philadelphia, has written a letter in commendation and support of the proposed Yorktown celebration. He says no event in the war of the revolution is more prominent than the battle of Yorktown, that the nation cannot do a wiser act than to perpetuate in the minds of those who are now enjoying the fruits of the great sacrifices then made the deepest veneration for those who laid so well the foundation of our great republis, and that no other spot is so fit for the purpose as that whereon the memorable struggle occurred.

A DECISION has just been rendered in the Wisconsin Supreme Court which holds that money lent on a Sunday cannot be recovered. It regards the act in the light of a business transaction, and even goes to the extent of holding that if a promise is made subsequently to pay the money borrowed on a Sunday it cannot be recovered.

THERE are in the United States, according to the last census, 245 cities and towns that have a population of over ten thousand inhabitants. In 1870 there were only 184 cities and towns that had over ten thousand inhabitants.

JUDGE FINLETTER, of Philadelphia, has recently decided that the cat is an animal entitled to the protection of the law; but extrajudicially he expressed the opinion that the cat is a nuisance, and therefore a proper subject for extermination.

A DINNER party given last week in Salisbury was composed of six widowed ladies, the youngest of whom was 72 years of age and whose combined ages were 457. An average of 76 years is a good showing for longevity.
