Heading Off the Locusts.

The Entomological Commission appointed by the U. S. Government has prepared a report on the Rocky Mountain Locust and the Western Cricket. The report on the Locust describes its different stages, its localities, and the methods of limiting its ravages. It has a more detailed account than has ever before been given of the Northwest which is looked upon as the permanent breeding-ground of the locust. The Commission urges that the settlement of this Northwest country be encouraged in every possible way, as one of the most certain means of permanently overcoming the locust evil.

Co-operation with the Dominion Government is recommended and it is particularly urged that a permanent system of meteorological observations be instituted by the Signal Bureau. "No one," it says, "would question the value of daily bulletins such as the Signal Bureau might publish, with the increased power we have indicated, as to the movements and flights of destructive swarms. We therefore strongly recommend an appropriation to the Signal Bureau for this special purpose."

The Commission expresses the opinion that, while the pest can never be exterminated, it is within the power of the Government and of the people to cope successfully with it, and the following concluding paragraph is certainly very encouraging to the people of the West who have suffered so much from the insect:

"The knowledge already disseminated, the extent of the population now pouring into the Northwest, the rapid settlement of the Territory of Montana, and the completion of the Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, the Utah and Northern Railroads, and the consequent change in the surface of the country, will so essentially modify the locust situation that we believe the West will never suffer again as in the past. We venture to predict the time will come when the losses from locusts will be only local, and comparable with those inflicted by locusts and grasshoppers in the Eastern Atlantic States. At any rate, the Western locust has already ceased to be a bugbear and an object of dread. Familiarity with its habits and history has already taught the pioneers of Minnesota, Iowa and Colorado that the ravages can be lessened, if not entirely overcome, and no one intending to migrate West from Atlantic States or from Europe, need be deterred by the fear of such alarming invasions as have occurred in former years."

Driving Rats Away Without Poison.

We know of three methods: First, the French plan. This is followed, chiefly in Paris, by wine-vault shakers as a special business. They take a deep tub, filled water on the bottom and a little elevation in the middle like an island, on which is only a place for just one rat to sit on. The trap is covered, and has a large balance-valve, opening downward. On the middle of this valve a piece of fried pork or cheese is placed, and when the rat walks on to it to get the cheese, the weight goes down, drops the rat into the water, and moves back in position. A road is made from the rat hole to the top of the tub by means of pieces of boards rubbed with cheese so as to make the walk more inviting. In the course of a night, some ten, twenty, or even more rats may go down, and if the island was not there they would be found most all alive swimming around, but the provision of the little island saves the trouble of killing them, because their egotistic instinct of self-preservation causes them to scramble for possession of the island, on which in the morning the strongest rat is found in solitary possession, all the others being killed and drowned—starved in him.

Second, the New York plan invented by one of the Friends. The floor near the rat holes is covered with a thin layer of a most caustic potassa. When the rats walk on this it makes their feet sore, these they lick with their tongues, which makes their mouth sore, and the result is that they shun the locality, not alone, but appear to tell all the rats in the neighborhood about it, and eventually the house is entirely abandoned by them, notwithstanding the houses around are full of rats.

Third, the Dutch method. This is said to be used successfully in Holland. We have, however, never tried it. A number of rats are lest to themselves in a very large trap or cage, with no food whatever. Their craving hunger will cause them to fight, and the weakest will be eaten by the strongest. After a short time one fight will be received, and the weakest of the victors and so it goes on until one strong rat is left. When this one has eaten the last remains of the others, it is set loose. The animal has now acquired such a taste for rat-flesh that he is a terror of all ratdom, going about seeking what rat he may devour. In an incredibly short time the premises are cleared of all other rats, which will not come back before the cannibal rat has left or died.

A curious phenomenon has, says a French scientific journal, been observed at Vernon, in France. Five or six years ago lightning struck a garden planted with gooseberry bushes and cherry trees, making a deep hole, the orifice of which was not above a yard in diameter. Subsequently everything died round about. The decay extended year by year, until it is now about eight yards in diameter and has just reached a cherry tree planted twelve years ago, which has died like the rest. The gooseberry bushes which were replanted on the spot have prospered. The cause of the evil is evidently the lightning, but it is difficult to explain why its morbid action continues and sterility gains ground. The lightning possibly generated in the soil chemical compounds injurious to vegetation, or poisonous.

Those who keep sheep should place salt in some place accessible daily to the sheep. The salt should be placed, whenever sheep are kept in the neighborhood of rock salt hills or sea salt, and have access to it they thrive better than in other situations, and in France the same thing is found to exist in the neighborhood of the coast and the salt works of the Rhone. Sheep give more and better wool, and the mutton is more highly esteemed than that from other localities.

Prof. Wollny finds the following relations between temperature and the compactness of soils: In summer, compact soils are on the average warmer than loose soils, but in winter and on a fall of temperature it is colder. In warm weather, compact soils are warmer by day and colder by night than loose soils, and they are subject to greater fluctuations of temperature. The practical inference is

The last agricultural returns of Great Britain show that the area of woods and forests is going on very fast, and in the last five years has increased their area half a million acres.

EARS FOR THE MILLION!

Dr. Chase's Relief for Ear Oil

Positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known.

This Oil is extracted from a peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as Carcharodon Rondeletii. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1110. Its cures were so numerous and many so seemingly miraculous, that the news of it was speedily published over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal that for over 500 years no deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1 per bottle.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & CO., 7 Dey St., New York.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its cures character absolute, as the evidence presented clearly proves, both from experience and personal observation.

"Among the many readers of this review in one part and another of the country, it is probable that numbers are afflicted with deafness, and to such it may be said: "Write at once to Haylock & Co., 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1, and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so." — Editor of New York Mercantile Review, Sept. 25, 1880.

COLLECTOR'S FINAL NOTICE.

THE 20 OF FEBRUARY has come and gone, and many tax bills are yet unpaid thus leaving the Collector liable to be put in suit and possession taken at the suit of the Treasury Circuit Court.

I cannot thus imperil my reputation and my bond.

I am now posting my accounts and adjusting my books, and will commence scheduling the property of delinquents as follows:

In District No. 1,	Wednesday,	March 16.
" " 2,	Friday,	" 18.
" " 3,	Monday,	" 21.
" " 4,	Wednesday,	" 23.
" " 5,	Saturday,	" 26.

A schedule makes a legal cost of $2.25. The advertisements of property will follow as soon as they can be prepared, and publication. This makes additional costs. The sales will follow, and more costs will be insured.

I do hope that I will not be obliged to make even one schedule; but the taxes MUST BE COLLECTED, cost what it will.

A public officer, in the discharge of his official duties can make no discrimination between friends and strangers, rich and poor, but must, under his oath of office, execute the laws toward all alike.

Be warned, therefore.

Dover St., Easton, Md.

BEGS to announce that he has received another invoice of the celebrated Waltham Watches, all sizes and grades. These watches are now used on the principal railroads in England in preference to any other make, being more reliable time keepers. They are the most popular watch in the market. Two years guaranty with each watch. Patronize home-made watches, they are both better and cheaper than foreign make. may31 78

HELP Yourselves by making money when a golden chance is offered, thereby always keeping poverty from your door. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. We furnish an expensive outfit and all that you need, free. No one who engages fails to make money very rapidly. You can devote your whole time to the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Collins & Wilson will not be undersold by any house on Boots and Shoes. Give them a call.
