Site of the Second Toll House, one mile West of Frostburg, Md.

Less than a quarter of a mile west of Frostburg, the Cumberland Road begins its ascent of Big Savage Mountain. On the south side of the road and just west of the two iron posts, where the two gentlemen are standing, formerly stood the second brick toll house. The boundary line between Garrett County and Alleghany County, as shown on the topographic sheet, passes just west of the site of this Old Toll House. A more recent survey of the boundary line between the aforementioned counties passes several rods to the westward of this point. (See No. 10.)
