SATURDAY ..... AUG. 27, 1881.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of yesterday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry $1.45@1.50; Fultz $1.38@1.42, for fair to good. CORN—White, prime, 72½@75; yellow 72@75. OATS—Maryland 51c.

Kent Co. Agricultural Association.

CLUB ROOM, Aug. 22, 1881.

Messrs. Editors:—To-day's session of the association promised at its opening to be very uninteresting, but the members continued coming and new questions were introduced, until the meeting was both interesting and profitable. As the time approaches for the exhibition this is to be expected. Farmers intending to exhibit (and it is hoped every farmer in the county will be represented by something,) are selecting places for their stock, grain, &c., and the superintendents of each class are making efforts to accommodate all who apply. Many members have already selected their places, and all are requested to do so, if possible, by next Monday. It is thought the exhibition of stock will be larger and finer than ever before. That stock in the county is being rapidly improved is certain, and the fair will show that improvement. The fear was expressed to-day that the ladies' department would not be as attractive as usual. Your correspondent does not share that fear; while a few of the former exhibitors may not be able to make as large and attractive a show as formerly, doubtless there are many ladies both competent and willing to supply the deficiency. The ladies should feel that the honor of the county, in the line of their accomplishments and skill, is at stake, and do their best; and it is exceedingly gratifying to hear strangers, as they examine the exhibits, say how beautiful, how lovely, how exquisite or useful; and, while the premiums are but trifles, it is of the very first importance that the skill and housewifely qualities of the wives and daughters of Kent should be fairly represented. The merchants and mechanics, not only of Chestertown, but from the whole county, are invited to make as large an exhibit of their goods as possible. The machinery department has steadily grown in interest, and has proved of great benefit to both farmers and sellers, and this year it is expected to be the best of all. Space was asked for twenty plows for the plowing match, as every farmer is deeply interested in this the first attempt of the kind in the county. Every farmer that can enter a team will do so—not that all can win the premiums—but for the credit of our farming; and if such a show is made as old Kent can, and we believe she will, it will not only be a great gratification to us who know and love her, but we will compel the respect and admiration of strangers. The sheds, stables, &c., are to be improved and made more convenient, and the experience of former years will be utilized in making every department of the fair a success.

The Hon. T. A. Hulme was present and said that while he had not obtained a speaker for certain, he still hoped to succeed, and the executive committee were requested to make such arrangements as will make it pleasant for the speaker to speak and the audience to listen.

The use of the buildings and grounds of the association were granted to hold a grand temperance and Sunday school jubilee the week following the fair.

Members tickets will be ready for them next Monday, admitting them to the fair at all times, simply on the payment of the yearly dues. Practically members are admitted free, as the yearly dues are payable in any case. PARTICIPS.

THE DISASTROUS DROUTH IN VIRGINIA.—A dispatch dated Lynchburg, Aug. 23, says: The agricultural outlook of all this section is beginning to assume alarming aspects, in view of the protracted and unprecedented drouth. It has rained in this neighborhood but twice or thrice in as many months, and not at all for a full month. In consequence the gardens have almost enterely dried up and the corn crop promises to be an almost complete failure. Advices from Southwest Virginia represent a similar distress in that rich region, though some sections have enjoyed occasional but not sufficient rains. The grass has been utterly destroyed, and grazers have already begun to cut off the branches of trees for forage for their stock, an expedient heretofore reserved for the spring time in severe seasons. The poorer class of farmers will have to dispose even of their draught stock, and it will be well if corn for the support of the people is raised, and that can only be expected in the case of immediate and copious rains. It is said that no such season has been experienced since 1806. The marketmen allege that they will soon find it impossible to supply the demand for vegetables and fruits unless the long-expected rain comes at once and in plenty.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S FAMILY.—Mr. Rudolph, of Mentor, Garfield's brother-in-law, with whom the President's two yonnger sons are stopping, says that the rumor that the boys were to be taken to Washington, owing to the President's dangerous condition, is untrue. The boys are staying contentedly at the farm at Mentor. Marshal Henry, who started for Ohio, is said to have turned back to Washington on receipt of news that the President was worse. President Garfield's mother is stopping at Hiram with her nieces, Mrs. Clapp and White, and is deeply concerned regarding her son. She seems like the rest of the family to have explicit faith that it will come out all right.

THE DROUTH IN TALBOT.—The Baltimore Gazette correspondent states that the drouth prevailing in Talbot county is positively distressing. Very little fallow has been broken, and it is reported that some farmers have been obliged to sell off their cattle, not having sufficient pasture to feed them. The corn is badly burned, and but half a crop will be realized, and vegetation of all kinds has been injured by the long drouth. Agents say that farmers are buying very little fertilizers, not knowing how much fallow they will be able to break.

THE Republicans in some of the counties count on electing their candidates through the assistance of the O. L. D.'s. This is the old story of "reform" over again—first a disappointed office-seeker, next a sorehead, next a reformer, finally a despised adpendage to the Republican rings.

IT is said that the speculative mania has now broken out to an alarming extent among New York farmers. The mortgage mania will shortly follow.

HON. THOMAS A. HENDRICKS and Senator David Davis are still at Saratoga, and spend hours in in each other's society.
