THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1883,

More people have read THE SUN during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like THE SUN for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind: the events, the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the noble folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs THE SUN makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. THE SUN has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is every body's newspaper. No man is so humble that THE SUN is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, THE SUN stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man holds that THE SUN is the best religious newspaper ever published, because its Christianity is unfettered with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor. A third believes it to be the best magazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought. So every friend of THE SUN discovers one of its many sides that appeals with particular force to his individual liking.

If you already know THE SUN, you will observe that in 1883 it is a little better than ever before. If you do not already know THE SUN, you will find it to be a mirror of all human activity, a storehouse of the choicest products of common sense and imagination, a mainspring for the cause of honest government, a sentinel for genuine Jeffersonian Democracy, a scourge for wickedness of every species, and an uncommonly good investment for the coming year.

Terms to Mail Subscribers.

The several editions of THE SUN are sent by mail, post-paid, as follows:

DAILY—55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70.
SUNDAY—Eight pages, $1.20 a year.
WEEKLY—$1 a year. Eight pages of the best matter of the daily issues; an Agricultural Department of unequaled merit, market reports, and literary, scientific and domestic intelligence make THE WEEKLY SUN the newspaper for the farmer's household. To clubs of ten with $10, and extra copy free.

AGRICULTURAL.

Muck—What is Muck?

In England muck means muck. In "Pilgrim's Progress" "the man with the muck rake" was searching for gold in the gutter's filth, but not finding that for which he searched. "Muck is money," is an English farmer's proverb, the meaning of which is clear enough. When agricultural writers in America talk about muck, and by this a substance of a peaty character, rich in humus, of a dark brown or nearly black color, consisting of the remains of plants which have undergone a partial decomposition under the constant influence of water. This has no constant composition or appearance other than indicated. In peat beds the true peat is often several feet deep, and there may be a good deal of similar material which is crumbly, more or less mixed with earth or sand, and unfit for fuel. Other deposits abound in which there is no peat fit to use as fuel, but with an abundance of other material useful to farmers and properly enough called muck. This is black soil, at least half of which will burn away when dry. It often dries hard, like clay or bricks. It crumbles under the influence of frost and air, and often simply by drying. This substance, including all varieties of peat, is or may be useful in every upland soil, indeed, in any soil of a peaty nature to begin with. It is often rich in nitrogen, the most costly ingredient of fertilizers; often contains phosphate of lime and other valuable ash ingredients. By its decomposition in the soil, its absorbent action, its promotion of other decompositions and changes in the soil, its presence is always beneficial. Under some peculiar circumstances these effects are hindered, probably by the presence of organic acids in the peat. To such peats and mucks the term "sour" is fitly applied by the farmers. They may, however, be neutralized, or, so to speak, sweetened by lime. Fresh burnt lime rapidly absorbs water and falls into a fine dry powder. The muck is spread in layers a few inches in thickness, and lime in this form is spread thinly over it. It is not necessary to be accurate in regard to proportions, but best to be uniform. If the muck be about four or five inches thick, half a bushel of lime will be sufficient for a space ten by ten, or too feet square, and may even be used for double that area. The muck being piled up in layers, each receiving its quota of lime, becomes changed, more easily pulverized and disintegrated, equally useful as an absorbent and a superior ingredient of composts. The muck or peat of some localities may be applied directly to the land, either fresh dug, if dry enough to haul, in which condition it is best to apply it in the autumn, so that it may be ameliorated by the frosts and thawings of winter, or after such weathering.

Other kinds of muck cannot be used advantageously without composting with lime or manure, or with ashes or some other active substance, while that of some localities applied raw is positively deleterious to the crops of the first year. As a general rule muck may be made most useful in ordinary farm operations by mixing it with manure from the stable, in the cow-yard, the pig pens, or the sheep-yards, and it is safe to say that the addition of muck of good quality in this way may easily double or triple the value of the manure made upon the farm. That is, a yard capable of furnishing under ordinary circumstances 100 loads of manure may be made to furnish twice or even three times as much, both in quality and value.—Maritime Farmer

Wintering Pigs.

New York Tribune.

I have found that it cost as much or more to winter a pig as it does an old hog, and have abandoned the practice of wintering anything but breeders. A breeding sow may be allowed to have a litter of pigs in the spring, which can be sold, and the old will get in fine condition, almost if not quite fit for butchering, on clover, cornstalks and roots; and we count the income derived from the pigs an extra gain. There is always a demand in the spring for young pigs at from $2 to $4 each for fattening, and a higher price for breeding stock, which makes the profits on a breeding sow equal to that of a cow, with a great deal less cost of keeping. By a little pains taking and effort a farmer can make a market for his pork at a price more remunerative than what is usually paid for it in the carcass. Town people will buy and eat more pork if they know that it has been grown and fattened on wholesome food. We could have sold in Schenectady for 10 cents a pound a ton of spare-ribs produced on our farm if we had had them. Our head-cheese sold at the same price, and we expect to realize from 12 to 15 cents for bacon, hams and shoulder. The highest price which was paid in our local markets was 7 cents per pound. The lard was sold at from 8 to 10 cents per pound, according to quality. Our pigs are cut so that they can be wholly marketed in the above forms. Pigs grown and fattened as I have described produce meat not only of the healthiest character, but of the very best flavor, which, of course, increases the demand for them.

Predicting a Great Storm.

The President has received a communication from Prof. E. Stone Wiggins, LL. D., astronomer of the Canadian Finance Department, announcing that a great storm will occur in March next, that it will first be felt in the Northern Pacific, will appear in the Gulf of Mexico on the night of the 9th, and being reflected by the Rocky Mountains will cross the meridian of Washington from the west at noon of Saturday, March 11, 1883. No vessel, whatever her dimensions, will be safe out of harbor, and none of small tonnage can hope to survive the tidal wave and fury of this tempest. As the wind will blow from the southeast, the planetary force will be sufficient to submerge the low lands of the American coast, especially those bordering on the Gulf of Mexico and washed by the Gulf Stream, while the air currents for several hundred miles along the east side of the Rocky Mountain range will spread universal destruction.

The New England States will also suffer severely from the wind and floods. No point outside of harbor in the whole area of the Atlantic, especially north of the equator, will be a place of safety; for this will be pre-eminently the greatest storm that has visited the continent since the days of the illustrious first President.

We ran across a man the other day who was traveling for pleasure. "But," said we, "you do not seem to be having such a very hilarious time." "No, certainly not. I am not traveling for my own pleasure. I am traveling for the pleasure of my wife." "Oh, so your wife is with you, is she?" "No, sir; she is in New York."

Favorite's Graetorex, No. 5,893,

Sire Graeterex, 4,218; Grand-Sire Rex, 1,330. Dam, Gay Primrose, 10,545. Dropped May 15th, 1881. Bred by Lyman A. Mills, Middlefield, Connecticut.

Among the Jersey families of recognized excellence none stand higher than the Rex family. Graetorex 4,218 stands at the head of the Broadmoor farm herd, Portland, Maine, at $100 per service, and Rex 1,330 is at the head of the Simpson herd, New York, and stands also at $100 per service (see advertisement "Country Gentleman). Rex 1,330 is considered the best bull in America, and was purchased last December by his present owner at a cost of $3,500. "Favorite of the Elms" 1656, the Grand-dam of Gay Primrose, has a butter record of 17 pounds 5 ounces per week, and her owner, Mr. John J. Holly, of New Jersey, has refused $2,500 for her.

At the auction sale of the herd of Jersey cattle of Messrs. Coe, Maddux & Co., at New York on Friday, May 12th, 65 head of cattle brought an avsrage of $622.77 per head. This sale shows the present value of high-bred Jerseys.

"Favorite's Greatorex" 5,898 will be permitted to serve a few registered cows this season at $10 per service. Cows for service will be cared for at $1 per week.

John Mason,
Cabinet Maker,
Furniture Dealer,
AND
Practical Undertaker
OF LONG EXPERIENCE.

I would respectfully inform my friends and the public generally, that I am now better prepared to furnish everything in the furniture line, than I have been in the past.

My ware-house contains 3500 square feet of flooring, which is at all times covered with stock pertaining to my business, and which will be sold as cheap or cheaper than can be bought here or elsewhere.

Having no other trade or profession, I am in the business for life, health permitting, and do not intend to be undersold or excelled in any particular pertaining to my business.

Myself and son Harry will give our personal attention to the business, and I recommend him as capable to attend to all business in my absence.

REPAIRING

done neatly and with dispatch. Stock of always on hand made to order. Thanking you very kindly for your patronage in the past, I earnestly solicit a continuance in the future.

Undertaking a Specialty.

I shall continue to give the undertaking department of my business my special attention, and having had thirty odd years experience in the business, I feel sure I can give satisfaction in the attention of all funerals entrusted to my care.

I have one of the best hearses and keep in stock everything necessary to furnish the best funeral.

Corpses preserved in ice when requested. Remember my prices shall be as low as the very lowest. Respectfully,

JOHN MASON.

To the Farmers.

THE TALBOT COUNTY PAPER MILLS COMPANY will now contract for WHEAT STRAW, to be delivered at a convenient time hereafter. A little more care in stacking and ricking, will insure so much better keeping as to enable farmers to spare at least half of their straw, the cash for which would nearly pay for their phosphates. A Great Work Just Completed!
The Popular Want at Last Supplied!

The "People's Cyclopedia" or universal knowledge is the grandest, latest and cheapest work of the kind ever published. It contains 58,000 topics, 3,000 illustrations, splendid colored maps and hosts of features nowhere else to be found. It has 28 editors; 400 contributors and is a library within itself of great value to any man or family. It contains the wide research of such men as Drs. McCosh, Hurst and Edison, and of eminent jurists inventors and scientists. It has received the highest commendations from universities, colleges and Schools. It has been adopted in many of the schools as a standard work of reference. Bishop Huntington says:—"Its range of information is immense and it has brought down the history of the whole world's life litterally to the present year."

Bishop Williams says: "I have examined it carefully and can heartily recommend it."

Dr. J. P. Newman says: "It contains the cream of the Britannica and other great works at a small part of their cost."

S. W. Mason, L. L. D., graduate of Dartmouth College says: "Before examining the People's Cyclopedia, I could not see how so good a work could be made. I cannot now see how a better work can be made.

It is certainly one of the richest, cheapest and most popular works that has been put before the people. Information and specimen pages can be obtained of F. A. DAVIS, Atty, 625 Chestnut st, Philadelphia, or A. J. MYERS, Agt. for this part of our State. Re
