CHESTERTOWN:
SATURDAY MORNING.....Oct. 21, 1882.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

FOR CONGRESS:
HON. GEORGE W. COVINGTON,
OF WORCESTER COUNTY.

FOR CHIEF JUDGE OF THE SECOND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT:
HON. JOHN M. ROBINSON.

FOR ASSOCIATE JUDGES:
HON. JOSEPH A. WICKES,
" FREDERICK STUMP.

Col. Hughlett, one of the fish commissioners, states that he has enough carp to stock all the waters of Maryland.

The republicans of the fifth judicial circuit nominated Frank H. Stockett for chief judge and John E. Smith and Nicholas Brewer, associates.

Franklin Edson was nominated on Saturday as democratic candidate for mayor of New York. He is said to be one of the best and most reliable business men in the city, and very popular.

No man is more welcome in the editorial sanctum than the one who brings an item of news—the one who comes to pay a subscription, perhaps, excepted.

The interior of the Baltimore Sun building is now lighted by the Edison electric incandescent lamps. The light is said to be so pure and white that in comparison to it a gaslight appears a smoky yellow.

The Baltimore American says it is reported that George Colton is so disgusted with the manner in which politics are run nowadays that he contemplates joining the O. L. D.'s. What a slander!

Ex-Speaker Randall is, of course, in a good humor over the Ohio election. He says it makes the next House democratic beyond a doubt, and in his judgment, his party will have a good working majority. He predicts a gain of three or four members from Pennsylvania.

A Meeting of citizens of Baltimore in favor of "independent judges" was held at the Concordia Opera House on Wednesday night. J. Hall Pleasants presided and addressed the meeting, and was followed by several others. The ticket agreed upon is composed of Wm. A. Fisher, Wm. A. Stewart, Edw. Duffy and Charles E. Phelps.

Hon. Frank Hurd has been elected to Congress from the Toledo district of Ohio, a district with a strong Republican majority against him. He made his fight on the tariff question, defeating his protective Republican exponent by a majority of about five hundred. This is one of the most cheering of the Ohio elections.

Hon. John Stewart, the independent republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, in a speech at Wilkesbarre, Thursday evening of last week, referring to the result of the Ohio election, said that the defeat of the republican party in that State was due to the odious personal rule there, and that James A. Garfield, who sleeps in his grave, is still dear to the people of his native State.

In the United States District Court at Philadelphia, Monday, Judge McKennan denied a new trial to Joseph R. Black, Thos. A. McDevitt and Christian Price, convicted of star-route conspiracy, and sentenced McDevitt to pay a fine of $500 and be imprisoned for one year, and Price to pay a fine of $100 and be imprisoned for six months. The sentence of Black was deferred in consequence of his wife's serious illness.

Hon. Stevenson Archer, of Harford county, has announced himself as a candidate for chief judge of the third judicial circuit, composed of Baltimore and Harford counties. The Republican judicial convention of the same district has indorsed Mr. Archer for chief judge and S. Parker Bosley, of Baltimore county, for associate. One of the associates holds over. The regular Democratic candidates are Judge Yellott and David Fowler, both of Baltimore county.

Hon. Montgomery Blair has been nominated for Congress by the democratic convention of the sixth district, and has written a letter of acceptance, which, says a cotemporary, strikes the key-note of the democratic campaign in the sixth Maryland district with that vigor peculiar to an aggressive leader of the old school. He neither compromises nor temporizes with his adversaries. He knows all about party records, and has his pockets stuffed with the most destructive political facts. Mr. McComas must get up early and go home late or the veteran campaigner may pocket the district.

How it Stands.—So far, Maine, Ohio, Oregon, Vermont and West Virginia have elected Representatives to the next Congress. Allowing the republicans 8 from Ohio, the States named have elected 15 democrats and 17 republicans. In the present Congress these States are represented by eight democrats, twenty-two republicans and two greenbackers. Thus far, therefore, the democrats have gained seven members and the republicans have lost five, while the greenbackers have ceased to be a known quantity. Looking to the future republican journals anticipate the loss of a Congressman in Wisconsin, in Minnesota, in Massachusetts and in New Jersey. The two Congressmen gained by the dominant party in the present House by using South Carolina democrats will, it is thought, be lost in consequence of redistricting. The auguries for New York and Pennsylvania are by no means favorable to the republicans. In the event of the next presidential election being thrown into the House of Representatives, Ohio will give her vote for the democratic candidate.

Hon. Galusha A. Grow, one of the most distinguished men of the republican party in Pennsylvania, acted as one of the vice-presidents in the independent republican meeting at Montrose, Saturday. His appearance on the platform excited great enthusiasm, and it is thought his espousal of the independent cause will have great influence in the stalwart republican section in which he resides and where he has always been a great favorite.

The Easton Star says: One of the most intelligent and strongest Republicans in this county was at the Star office on Wednesday afternoon, when we received a dispatch from Mr. J. Frank Turner, from Chestertown, announcing the nomination of the old bench. Our Republican friend said the judicial ticket suited him exactly, and he should vote it. There is little doubt that hundreds of Republicans in the circuit will do the same.

Old "Mother King" died in Galveston, Dorchester county, on Wednesday week, aged 90 years. It is related that her husband, Joseph King, killed the outlaw, old Ebenezer Johnson, in a terrible fight, wherein Johnson and the Patty Cannon gang attempted to forcibly eject his (King's) father-in-law from the homestead, near Galestown.

Tongers Fined.—Capt. Mitchell, of the oyster steamer Leila, arrested on Monday of last week, in Chester river, a tongman named Richard Collyer, charged with tonging for oysters without a license. Collyer was fined $20 by Justice J. M. Aker, of Queenstown. Three tongers of Kent county, charged with the same offense, were also arrested, and a similar fine imposed.—Cent. Obs.

A New Field.—Sweet potatoes are now being shipped from Georgia in large quantities to the Northwest, and the returns are highly satisfactory to the producers. It is estimated that the surplus crop of sweet potatoes grown in Georgia will reach nearly 40,000 bushels this year, and if it can be marketed will reach a million bushels of surplus potatoes next year.

The Bi-Centennial.—The Bi-Centennial at Philadelphia, beginning on Tuesday next, promises to be a grand affair. It will last four days. On the first day Uncle Sam will take a hand in it, with the troops of Hancock, officers of the Government, column from the mint, etc. On the second day, the various trades of Philadelphia and vicinity, will parade 30,000 men. On the third day Welsh and German singing societies and Knights Templar with 10,000 men will turn out. The fourth and last day will witness the State Guard of Pennsylvania, visiting military organizations of other States, and about 15,000 veterans of the Grand Army Posts. There will be illuminations each evening. From present indications the affair promises to excel all former displays of every kind. The Kent county railroad will run trains from all stations at greatly reduced prices. See schedule in another column.

Republican Judiciary Ticket.—The Republican judicial convention for this district met in Centreville on Tuesday and nominated George M. Russum, of Caroline, and George A. Blake, of Cecil, for associate judges. No nomination was made for chief judge. Mr. Russum is a Democrat, and is said to be committed to the present Bench. Of Mr. Blake we know nothing. He is said to be a lawyer and resides at Elkton. The delegates from this county were Messrs. C. T. Westcott, F. H. Harper and C. A. Leary.

The Rev. Thomas Guard, pastor of Mt. Vernon M. E. Church, of Baltimore, died about one o'clock Sunday morning at his residence, No. 150 Park avenue. He underwent, the previous Tuesday, the operation of lithotapaxy to relieve him of calculus, of which he had been suffering for a long time, and the result of the experiment was considered successful. Hopes were entertained for his recovery until Thursday night, when disorders of the stomach manifested themselves and the patient began to weaken, and so continued until death ensued. He was one of the most eminent clergymen of his denomination in the country.

OUR JUDGES.

THE PRESS ON THEIR RENOMINATION.

The Cecil Democrat, edited by Mr. George W. Cruikshank, who was Judge Stump's competitor for a place on the bench, in an editorial thus comments upon the action of the Chestertown Convention:

"While it is impossible to endorse the action of the Chestertown Convention from a party standpoint, or commend it as a party measure, it must be conceded that the success of Judge Stump was a notable triumph of personal influences, and may be doubly gratifying to his personal friends, by reason of its very irregularity. The Convention was regularly elected by party processes, as a party Convention, and was composed of representative members of the party from the different counties of eminent respectability. They were met at the threshold of their deliberations by the seemingly fatal obstacle of Judge Stump's own county having declared against him, and being represented by a delegation not only pledged to another, but hostile to his candidacy. They knew that the contest in Cecil had been prolonged and bitter beyond precedent, and realized the danger to party success of disregarding the edict of the party as plainly and unequivocally expressed. They were cognizant of the hostility that would naturally be engendered by a disregard of that expression, and evidently did not underrate it. Yet such was the hold that "the old bench" seemed to have on their regard and affections that, without haste, without passion, without bitterness, they resolved to hazard all in obedience to the demand from the counties they represented. Candor compels us to admire their devotion, and to tip our hat to its fortunate beneficiary. May he live long to deserve and enjoy it."

Cecil Whig, rep.:

As will be seen by a full report of the proceedings, published in another column, the Democratic Nominating Convention, which assembled at Chestertown, on Wednesday, has presented for re-election, to the Democratic voters of this Judicial District, the old Bench in its entirety—Judges Robinson, Wickes and Stump. It has done this, too, with almost the complete unanimity of the delegates who voiced the sentiment of the Democrats of the District. We have no comment to make upon the result, simply because we have heretofore impartially and impersonally, at the suggestion neither of the friends of Judge Stump nor of the personal opponents of Mr. Cruikshank, openly and disinterestedly in the interest of the people of this county, and not of any individual, discussed the candidacy of these gentlemen.

Chertertown Transcript, dem.:

Taken as a whole, there has not been, perhaps, in the State of Maryland in the last fifteen years, a bench that has administered justice more conscientiously and more wisely, or that has enjoyed the respect and the confidence of the people to a greater degree than has the incumbent bench of this district. As was said by one of the speakers in the recent nominating convention, "they have for fifteen years been weighed in the balance of public opinion, and have not been found wanting." Individually and as a body they represent broad legal learning, unimpeachable integrity, and great personal dignity.

Centreville Observer, dem.:

The Democratic convention of this judicial circuit has wisely determined that it would be inexpedient to change judges, and the present distinguished occupants of the bench have been placed again before the voters for endorsement. Our judges have so ably filled the bill; they have led such pure, upright lives, and are so universally regarded as men of great legal learning, fairness and impartiality, that a convention of their party has determined that the bench could not be improved upon, and they have with great unanimity been again nominated. The effort made in Cecil county to supercede Judge Stump met with no favor whatever outside of that county, and whilst the other counties regret that Cecil is not in full accord with the nomination, yet it was deemed wiser to displeasure one than four counties.

Centreville Record, dem.:

Gov. Thomas voiced the sentiment of the people of this District when he said Judges Robinson, Wickes and Stump had administered the Law of the Land to the people without fear, favor or affection, and "freely without sale, fully without any denial, and speedily without delay." What more can a community ask at the hands of the Judiciary? It is to the interest of all in this Judicial District, rich or poor, high or low, whether Democrats or Republicans, to unite in electing Judges Robinson, Wickes and Stump for fifteen years longer.

Caroline Democrat, dem.:

The nomination of the old bench gives entire satisfaction to all parties in this county. The American Union and the Easton Gazette, if we remember rightly, committed themselves to the old bench early in the Summer. So the best thing the Centreville convention can do is to heartily endorse the ticket made at Chestertown last week, and thus entirely regregate the judiciary of the Second Judical District of Maryland from party politics. This is what many Republicans have professed to desire, and they now have an oportunity to "practice what they preach."

Denton Journal, dem.:

The Democracy can well congratulate itself and the whole party may well feel proud at the work of the Chestertown convention. The party is placed on record as in favor of preserving the dignity, purity and intelligence of our court, and it will remain safe at the moorings of popular confidence, while a guarantee is given that justice shall be administered "freely without sale, fully without denial, and speedily without delay, according to the laws of the land." The great blessing of honest judges which the people of the Second Judicial Circuit enjoy will be fully maintained; for the "Old Bench" will be re-elected. The farmer, the mechanic, and citizens high and low feel secure when their rights of property and of person are to be adjudicated by the same unswervable impartiality that has marked the rulings of our courts for the past fifteen years.

Easton Star, dem.:

These gentlemen have presided in our courts for the past fifteen years, and are so well known to our people as not to require an introduction at our hands. Although nominated by a party convention, they will not be partisan Judges. They have not hitherto, and will not hereafter, if re-elected, administer the law in party spirit. They will treat every plaintiff and defendant in Court, and every one charged with violating the criminal law, who may be tried before them, as if there were no such thing as political parties. We feel authorized in saying this from their past course, and from their high personal characters. Democrats have nominated them, and expect to elect them, but in court they will not claim any advantage on that account at their hands; and if any should, they need not expect to receive it. They are all fitted by temperament, character, and learning, for the place they now occupy on the bench. They have honored themselves by serving the public faithfully, and now the people of all parties will still more honor them by re-electing them for another term to the exalted position which they have so honorably filled.

Easton Ledger, dem.:

A stronger political convention probably never assembled on the Eastern Shore within the century. The bar of the judicial district was represented as ably as it possibly could be by Gov. Thomas, John B. Brown, James Alfred Pearce and Albert Constable,—all gentlemen whose professional reputation extends far beyond the limits of this judicial district.

A Vicious Animal Loose in the Street.

FEARFUL CHASE AND NARROW ESCAPE OF CHILDREN—CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE.

Last Wednesday, shortly after noon, three beeves were driven by two colored men on horseback through the main streets of our town. One of these beeves was a vicious cow with sharp horns; a rope was tied round her neck but no one had hold of it, and she seemed to be watching both sides of the street anxious to pounce upon any human being within reach. When near Mr. T. R. Hubbard's residence she espied a child and made after it, but it escaped; immediately after the vicious beast saw a little six-year-old white boy on the pavement in front of the M. E. Church and ran after him; for a time it was a race for life, but the little fellow fortunately espied the big gate at the old Eccleston property open, and just saved himself by darting in there; the sharp horns of the beast were just about to pierce the boy as he entered the gate! The fierce animal then turned about and seeing some children upon the porch of Mr. Geo. H. Bennett's residence, made for them and took up against the steps, and only then when she found the children had escaped within and closed the door. Then going up Mill street she stopped in front of the residence of Mrs. A. M. Hurtt and laid down when she was secured with ropes and shortly afterwards driven to the slaughter house.

The animals were the property of Mr. Thompson, butcher, but he claims not to have been responsible for the inexcusable negligence which permitted such a vicious beast unhampered in the public streets. A mad-dog or a Bengal tiger would not have been more dangerous. This is not the first time that persons have been chased, and narrowly escaped injury from such vicious cattle while being driven through our streets, and it is high time a stop was put to it. The town authorities will no doubt apply the proper remedy.

Miraculous Escape.—A little eight-year-old daughter of S. H. Blackiston, Esq., deputy clerk, on last Wednesday morning, while leaning out a second story window in the residence on Water street, lost her balance and fell down upon the pavement below, a distance of nearly twenty feet. The servant girl was in the room with her at the time, saw her as she went over head-foremost, and gave the alarm. The mother ran to the rescue expecting to find the child a mangled corps, but, strange to say, it was apparently uninjured! She was found on the pavement in a sitting posture, and immediately got up and walked in the house. A physician was called but failed to find any evidence of injury. She has since complained of her feet hurting a little.

A Dangerous Fellow.—About two o'clock last Sunday morning officers Simpson and Joiner, who had a writ for the arrest of George Taylor, colored, accused of beating his wife and driving her from his home on Kent street, in this town, and also creating general disorder in the neighborhood, went to his house for the purpose of taking him into custody. They were met with a fearful resistance, but finally succeeded in effecting an entrance, when they were confronted by Taylor with a huge Bowie knife, which perhaps he was only deterred from using by the officers promptly drawing their pistols upon and disarming him. After a severe struggle, in which the officers were assisted by a colored man, they succeeded in ejecting Taylor from the house, nearly the whole party tumbling down the steps in a bunch. The negro man was still obstinate and refused to accompany the officers, but after being dragged upon his back for some distance, he consented to walk to the jail. He had a hearing before Esquire Wheatley on Monday morning, who sentenced him to the House of Correction for twelve months, and he was taken over by Constable Rawleigh on Tuesday. Taylor is a large, powerful and desperate character, and the officers deserve credit for the courage and energy displayed in effecting his arrest.

Aground.—The new steamer Enterprise left Baltimore at her usual time Tuesday night, and the fog was so dense she ran aground in the Patapsco off Rock creek. Lighters were employed and the bulk of her cargo removed but she was so high up on the rocks that she could not be moved, and other means will have to be used to lift her off.

Splendid Peaches.—Mr. Lemuel Stevens, residing on Mr. Richard Hynson's Swan Point farm, sent us a few days ago a lot of peaches, of the variety known as Bilyeu's Late, of large size, beautiful color and delicious flavor. It is a wonder that growers do not raise them more extensively, as they must readily command a large price when brought to such perfection.

Take Heed!—A worthy and industrious farmer, residing not many miles from Chestertown, has the following notice posted on his premises: "A private burial ground for all agents." As yet the services of no undertaker has been needed.

Erratum.—We were in error last week in stating that partridge shooting commenced last Monday. The local law for this county fixes the beginning on the 25th of October and the ending on the 15th of January. Rabbits from October 25 to December 25.

Settled at Last.—Senator Hepbron was before the school board last Tuesday and gave his consent to the appointment of Miss Nellie Wickes to the scholarship in Western Maryland College.

A Broken Shoulder.—Master Willie Walker, son of Mr. Wm. S. Walker, was last week thrown from a galloping horse, and sustained a broken shoulder. He was thrown over the horse's head by a stumble on the part of the animal.

Sale of a Trotter.—Mr. W. S. Sparks, of Galena, has sold his four-year-old colt, Fred G., to W. V. Lippincott, of Philadelphia, for $1,000. He won the colt race at the Cecil Fair in 2:45.

Mr. Jos. W. Price has been elected by the M. P. Church, Chestertown, a delegate to the sub-district conference to be held at Wesley Chapel next week.

Judges of Election.—The following judges of election were appointed by the county commissioners at their sitting on last Tuesday:

First district—William A. Hyland, George A. Ireland and Thomas J. F. Smith.

Second district—D. U. Dewees, H. C. Wallis, and William P. Norris.

Third district—Robert L. Usilton, Luther Handy and Alexander R. Parks.

Fourth district—John R. Gray, William S. Walker and Levi Fiddis.

Fifth district—Benjamin F. Beck, William F. Baker and James A. Casey.

The Ducking Laws.—The Baltimore Sun makes the following compilation of the ducking laws for the counties named:

KENT COUNTY.

Prohibits shooting at night time from any boat, and day time with gun requiring rest to shoot.

Prohibits shooting in Sassafras, Elk or Bohemia rivers and tributaries from any vessel less than ten tons burthen, fine $50.

Prohibits use of sink-boxes, sneak-boats, &c., in any of the waters of Chester river and the Chesapeake bay. Fine $5 to $50, and forfeiture of gun, &c. Code L. L., article 14.

Allows shooting over decoys from shore.

QUEEN ANNE'S COUNTY.

Permits bona fide citizens to shoot from sink-boxes, upon obtaining a license, upon waters whose mouth is 400 yards wide. License $10. Fine $20 to $100. Chapter 370, 1880.

CECIL AND KENT COUNTIES.

Any bona fide citizen may shoot from sink boxes in Sassafras river, upon obtaining a license on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, between November 1 and March 31. Sink-boxes to be not less than 100 yards from shore on Cecil side of the river. Cost of license $10. Fine for shooting any day but those specified $10 to $20. Shooting without license $50 to $100. Chapter 204, acts 1882.

While Rev. T. D. Martindale and Rev. J. D. Rigg were riding between Clayton and Caspersons's Mill, the horse became frightened at a passing train, upset the carriage and threw both men down an embankment, Mr. Rigg falling underneath. He was badly hurt and helpless. Mr. Martindale was only slightly bruised.

This is a good time of the year to sprinkle unslacked lime about your yards and places where weeds are likely to decay.

COURT NOTES.

Judge Wickes, in his charge to the Grand Jury very properly referred to the importance of secrecy as to the doings in the jury-room. It is notorious that heretofore at some terms of the court the proceedings of the Grand Jury were known outside that body almost as well as inside. This can only occur from utter disregard of the juror's oath and is prejudicial in the highest degree to the ends of justice. It is well that the Court has taken cognizance of it. We have heard of no such indiscretion at the present term.

Deputy Sheriff C. H. Davis went to Baltimore last Wednesday and succeeded in getting the six colored boys who were present at the time of the shooting of Jeremiah Stewart, colored, on the public road near the dwelling of Mr. E. S. Clothier in the lower part of the county on the night of Sept. 2d. These boys were before the Grand Jury yesterday.

The case of Proctor—the "floating bar-room" man—will probably come up for trial to-day, and the proceedings in the case, and result, will be watched with interest.

The Morris case has been set for trial on Monday. C. H. Baker, Esq., has been appointed by the Court to defend Morris. Messrs. Vickers & Rowley will represent the State.

Judge Stump appeared and took his seat upon the bench on Wednesday, and, Chief Judge Robinson on Thursday. Judge Wickes was quite unwell yesterday and not on the bench.

T. J. Rowley, Esq., has been quite successful for his first court term at the Kent bar. He is easy in manner and remarkably self-possessed for a young man; these qualities, added to his acknowledged ability, would indicate a successful future for him.

A HORSE TRADE CASE.

The Rollison-Copper horse trade case, heard in our court this week on appeal from the magistrate below, excited some interest. Mr. Rollison carries the mail between Chestertown and Rock Hall; he stopped Mr. Copper on the road one Saturday evening and asked if he could swap the animal he then had—and which he had procured from Copper—for another horse. He went next day (Sunday), tried an animal and took it away with him, leaving his. The said animal, according to Mr. R.'s testimony, was unable to go three-quaters of a mile on the mail route next day instead of the 24 miles required, and so he returned him. Mr. Copper refused to trade back, claiming that the exchange had been made with the express understanding that both parties were to stand by it whether "stuck" or not. Mr. Rowly, for Rollison, argued no trade and the Sunday law against the transaction, but Mr. Slay, for Copper, brought forward several witnesses to prove the trade, and they were very positive in their testimony upon this point. In regard to the Sunday law he argued that as the property had changed hands and the trade was thereby fully consumated, the law could not interpose—its maxim being both parties are in equal fault, the one in possession occupying the better position. The Court decided the case in favor of Rollison upon the ground that the latter was misled in regard to the animal's defects.

A SELF-BINDING REAPER CASE.

A civil case of considerable interest and importance to the farmers of Kent county occupied the attention of the Court for two days. Rich'd Hynson, Esq., for plaintiff, and Jas. A. Pearce, Esq., for the defendants. It seems that Mr. Jno. C. Sutton, as agent for the D. M. Osborne & Co., sold or at least delivered for trial to Dr. Massey a reaping machine known as the Osborne Self-Binder. There was much conflict in the testimony as to the nature of the contract between them—Mr. Sutton testifying that the contract was that he should get and deliver to defendant the machine in question and in case the defendant could not make it work satisfactorily and plaintiff could not make it work to defendant's satisfaction, that then defendant might return it without paying for it to the place whence he got it. Dr. Massey testified that the contract was that in case the machine did not work satisfactorily there should be no sale; that there was no place named to which he should return the machine; that he repeatedly sent Mr. Sutton communications as to the failure of the machine to perform its work, and asking what he should do with the machine, and that Mr. Sutton never noticed his communications. After able and exhaustive arguments by the counsel the case was submitted to the jury and verdict was given for defendant.

PEACH NOTES.

Rolph's Wharf was the largest shipping point on Chester river for peaches during the season. Mr. Frank Wright estimates the total number of boxes shipped from that wharf at 150,000; he says he sold over 50,000 boxes himself. The average net price in Baltimore for yellow fruit was about 85 cts. The largest shippers from Rolph's Wharf were Messrs. Samuel Rolph, T. J. Tucker, J. S. Cosden, John H. Evans, S. R. Hurlock and Garey H. Leaverton.

Mr. S. Vannort reports the Troth's Early, Foster, Reeves' Favorite, Smock and LeGrange as the best paying varieties for him, and the largest shippers from that wharf, besides himself, were Lucas Alrich and James H. Shuster. The average price in Baltimore for yellows he reports at 90 cents; red 60 cents.

From Tolchester Mr. Chas. Lloyd reports 81,000 boxes shipped—the largest shippers being Wash. G. Skirven, J. Thos. Skirven, Jno. Brice, A. L. Corey and E. S. Clothier.

From Shallcross' wharf 5,300 boxes and 37,848 baskets were shipped, the largest shippers being J. W. Hurtt, T. J. Shallcross, Dr. F. D. Dunlap, Samuel A. Merritt, W. T. Crow and S. J. Hill. Average price in Baltimore for yellows 55 cents per basket; $1 per box; in Northern cities for same 44 and 75 cents. For red peaches in Baltimore 30 and 55 cts; in Northern cities for same 30 and 55 cts. The varieties paying best: Reeves' Favorite, Crawford's Late, Prize and Smocks.

From Georgetown the largest shippers were A. Woodall, J. M. Armstrong and E. B. Woodall, and the varieties paying best were Crawford's Late and Smock; early varieties not profitable. The average price in Baltimore for yellows are reported from this point at about $1 per box; for red, about 40 cents.

From Crumpton 3,500 boxes and 15,000 baskets were shipped—the largest shippers being Geo. E. Harrison, Alday Clements and H. Clay Stevens. Average price in Baltimore for yellows reported at 80 cts. per box, and for reds 40 cts., and Smock as the best paying variety.

From Chestertown the total number of boxes shipped from the several wharves will foot up about 58,000.

By the Kent Co. Railroad about 125,000 baskets were shipped—the largest number from any one station being Kennedyville.

Chas. Rhinehart in his canning establishment has used about 25,000 baskets of peaches—making 240,000 cans. He is now engaged in canning pumpkins and tomatoes. For the former he pays about $5 per hundred and expects to can fully fifty tons. They are used for pies.

Robbed of $30,000—A Bank Cashier Assaulted and a Satchel Full of Bills Stolen.—About 8 o'clock on Thursday evening Geo. D. Rise, cashier of the Lebanon, Pa., Dime Savings Bank, was robbed of a satchel containing $30,000, all in bills. He had just returned from Philadelphia, and before going to the bank stopped at his home for supper. While on his way to the bank after supper, and about a square from his house he was passed by two men and directly afterward received a stunning blow knocking him in the gutter. He held on to the satchel and cried murder. The robbers who had been beating and kicking him all the while, fearing his cries would bring assistance moved off a short distance but again returned, and wrenching the handle off his satchel succeeded in securing it. Mr. Rise made a gallant fight and was covered with blood. They are described as one being tall and the other short and thick set. Mr. Rise has offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the robbers. The money belonged to the bank.

Frank James, the notorious Western outlaw, has surrendered himself to the Governor of Missouri, and desires to be tried. He appears to have been living a quiet, orderly life, as a farmer, for four years past, with his wife and family. He says he is tired of being hunted from place to place and wants to settle down as a quiet, law-abiding citizen. It is believed that upon conviction, which is sure to follow trial, he will be pardoned by Gov. Crittenden.
