CHESTERTOWN:
SATURDAY MORNING.....Dec. 16, 1882.

HOFFENSTEIN'S BUGLE.

"Mr. Hoffenstein," said Herman, as he folded up a pair of pants and placed them on a pile, "if you don't haf any objections, I vould like to get from the store avay von efening, and go mit the soldiers to the Spanish Fort."

"Vell, Herman, I dinks you had better keep avay from de soldiers," replied Hoffenstein, "und stay mit the store; because, you know, you don't can put any confidence mit de soldiers. I vill tell you vhy. Von day vile I vas in Vicksburg, during the var, a cock-eyed soldier came to my store mit an old bugle in his hand, und he looks around. I asks him vat he wants, und he buys a couple of undershirts. Den he tells me to keep his bundle und de bugle behind de counter until he comes back. After de cock-eyed soldier vent de store out some more soldiers come in und valk all around, vile dey look at de goods.

"'Shentlemens,' I says 'do you vant anyding?'

"'Ve are shust looking to see what you haf,' said one of dem; und after awhile another says:

"'Bill, shust look dere at de bugle—de very ding the captain told us to get. You know we don't haf any bugle in de company for dree months. How much you ask for dot bugle?'

"'I dells dem dot I can't sell de bugle, because it belongs to a man vot shust vent out.

"'I vill gif you $50 for it,' says de soldier, pulling his money out.

"'I dells him I don't can sell it because it vasn't mine.

"'I vill give you a hundred dollars,' he said. "My gr-r-acious, Herman, I vants to sell de bugle so bad dat I vistles. De soldiers dells me vile dey vos leaving de store dot if I buy the bugle from de man vot owns it, dey vill gif me one hundred und dwendy-five dollars for it. I dell dem I vill do it. I sees a chance, you know Herman, to make some money by the operation. Ven de cock-eyed soldier come back, he says:

"'Git me my bundle and bugle; I got to go to the camp.'

"I says: 'My frent, don't you want to sell your bugle?'

"He tells me no, und I says: 'My little boy Leopold, vot plays in de stores, sees de bugle, und he goes all around crying shust as loud as he can, because he don't get it. Six times I dake him in de yard und vips him, und he comes right back and cries for de bugle. It shows, you know, how much drouble a man vill haf mit a family. I vill gif you $10 for it shust to please little Leopold.'

"De soldier von't take it, und at last I offers him $50, und he says:

"'Vell, I vill dake $50 because I can't vaste any more time; I haf to go to camp.'

"After he goes avay I goes to de door und watches for de soldiers vat vanted de bugle. I sees dem passing along de street, und I say:

"'My frents, I haf got de bugle,' und dey say:

"'Vell, dam it, vy don't you blow it?'

"My gr-r-acious, Herman, vat you dink? All dem soldiers belong to the same crowd, und dey make de trick to swindle me. Levi Cohen, across the street, he finds it out, und efery day he gets boys to blow horns in front of my store, so as to make me dink how I vas swindled.

Herman, I dink you had better stay mit de store."

About the Bible.

A prisoner condemned to solitary confinement, obtained a copy of the Bible, and by three years, careful study obtained the following facts:

The Bible contains 3,686,489 letters, 773,602 words, 34,173 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books.

The word "and" occurs 46,277 times.

The word "Lord" occurs 1,855 times.

The word 'reverend' occurs but once, which is in the 9th verse of the 11th Psalm.

The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters in the alphabet, except the letter J.

The finest chapter to read is the 29th chapter of the Acts of Apostles.

The 19th chapter of II Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike.

The longest verse is the 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther.

The shortest verse is the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St John.

The 8th, 15th, 21st and 31st verses of the 107th Psalm are alike.

Each verse of the 136th Psalm ends alike.

There are no words or names of more than six syllables.

THE HIGH-LICENSE LIQUOR LAW has proved a success in Nebraska. It is reported that "there are not more than one-third as many drinking places in the State as there were before the new law went into effect, the general result in small towns being to replace a dozen small and ill-conducted saloons with two or three well-kept establishments." The price of a license in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants is $1,000, and $500 in places having a smaller population. Money received for the licenses is added to the school fund. In Omaha this fund receives $90,000 yearly from the sale of the licenses.

HIGH-PRICED STOCK.—Dr. W. H. DeCourcy of this county and Col. Edward Lloyd of Talbot county returned last Tuesday from a trip West in search of Hereford cattle. They went as far as Iowa, and report stock very high. Young cattle command from $300 to $500, and a good bull could not be had for less than $1,000.—Centreville Observer.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL.—For the first time in years the Philadelphia democratic city committee closed its campaign with a snug balance on hand of over $2,000. Such an exhibit is but seldom made by political committees anywhere.

POVERTY is uncomfortable, but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself.

A PEAL of three bells have been put in the belfry of the Easton M. P. Church. One bell weighs 800 pounds, one 500 and the third 300.

UNLESS IT HAD GREAT MERIT Parker's Ginger Tonic could not be so popular. Its sale has rapidly spread all over this country, because invalids find it gives them new life and vigor when other medicines fail entirely.—Ohio Farmer.
