SATURDAY MORNING.....JAN. 13, 1883.

IN MEMORIAM.

CLARA GERTRUDE SMALL.*

"he mountains were clothed in summer green,
adiant the woods with birds and flowers,
e smiled as an orient queen,
ing along through the soft sweet hours.

e was a girl with a pure sweet brow, eeks that were tinged with the blush hue, ngel in Paradise now
e stars and the skies deep blue.

ot a mortal girl to me,
el here in disguise so fair;
she seemed to be eep blue eyes and golden hair.

modeled in beauty's mould, ment was graceful, light and free,
e through the streets of gold,
n on earth was a mystery.

th not a fairer flower, s bloom in its bowers above,
w around her the angels shower arkling rays of a deathless love.

only now in dreams behold
e beautiful grace of her saintly brow, memory's clasp her form enfold,
While for her loss our tears do flow.

But why thus grieve? She is happier now Than all the wealth that this earth could give,
Christ and the angels entwine her brow
With immortelles that will ever live.

MATILDA CANBY.

TALK ABOUT THE WEATHER.

SITTING DOWN UPON A CITIZEN'S WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

From the Detroit Free Press.

On a Woodward avenue car yesterday one of our solid citizens, whose weather predictions have never been disputed since he was rated worth $50,000, remarked to an acquaintance that this was unusual weather for the last of December. He had hardly spoken when an old man with a bundle under his arm hopped up and replied:

"It is, eh? I'll just bet you an even dollar that you are mistaken!"

"Isn't this unusual weather?"

"No, Sir! I'll bet you two to one we had just such a December week three, five and eight years ago. Put up your cash."

"Oh, I don't bet on the weather; still, I think such soft weather at this time of the year is singular."

"Bet you three to one it isn't singular!" cried the old man.

"I told you I wouldn't bet."

"Then don't be deceiving people with your weather talk! Bet you four to one you can't tell what the weather was in September."

The solid citizen was bluffed into silence for a moment, and then remarked:

"Looks as if we might have snow."

"Bet you five to one we don't see a flake this week!" piped the old man. "How can you expect snow when the air isn't cold enough to congeal this moisture?"

"Then it may rain."

"No, it won't! Bet you six to one you never saw rain with the wind where it is!"

"Well, the barometer indicates a storm of some sort!" shouted the solid man.

"I'll take you on that, too, and bet you seven to one that it doesn't!"

The prophet seemed about to haul out a dollar but he changed his mind, and fell back in his seat and growled:

"Maybe my thermometer doesn't stand fifty-four degrees above."

"No, Sir! I'll bet you eight to one that you are at least three degrees out of the way. Come, now!"

But the solid man came not.

A TOUGH WITNESS.

During a recent trial, it was thought important by counsel to determine the length of time that a certain quarter of beef remained in an express wagon in front of plaintiff's store before it was taken by the defendant. The witness under examination was a German, whose knowledge of English was limited but he testified in a very plain, straightforward way to having weighed the meat, and to having afterward carried it out and put it into the wagon. Then the following ensued:

"State to the jary how long it was after you took the meat from the store and put it in the wagon before it was taken away."

"Now I shoost cand dell dat. I thinks 'bout elve feet. I say no nearer as dat."

You don't understand. How long was it the time the meat left the store and was put he wagon before it was taken away by the lant?"

w I know not what you ask dat for. Der he was back up mit dat sidewalk, and shoost as long as it was. You dell me how der sidewalk was. Den feet? Dwelve Den I dells you how long it was."

don't want to find out how wide the side-k was, but I want to know" speaking very owly, "how long—this—meat—was—in—the —wagon—before—it—was—taken—away?"

"O, dat! Vell now, I not sold my meat so. I all time weigh him; never measures meat, not yet. But I dinks about dree feet. I know not, shentlemens, how is dis. I dell you all I can, shoost so good as I know."

"Look here, I want to know how long it was before the meat was taken away after it was put in the wagon?"

"Now you dry to get mein some scrapes. Dat meat was shoost so long in der wagon as he was in der shop. Dat's vot I told you. Dat meat vas dead meat. He don't got no longer in den dousen year, not mooch."

"That will do."

"Whose home is this?"
"Moggs."
"Of what built?"
"Logs."
"Any neighbors?"
"Frogs."
"What is the soil?"
"Bogs."
"The climate?"
"Fogs."
"What do you live on?"
"Hogs."
"How do you catch them?"
"Dogs."

WIDELY separate religions have touched each other in Philadelphia. A Baptist clergyman preached in a synagogue. The rabbi in introducing him to the congregation, said that by the Christian's acceptance of the invitation to address Jews there was no surrendering of opinion and no compromise of belief on either side. "We agree to disagree on certain points," he said, "but there are many more on which we agree to agree for all time to come, and chief among these is our love of country and humanity."

A NEW HORSE DISEASE is affecting the horses of Wilmington, Philadelphia and other cities north of us. There is no evidence of the disease yet in Baltimore or in this immediate section, but there is no telling how soon it may be among us. It is pronounced by veterinary surgeons as a rheumatic influenza. If the horses affected discharge at the nostrils there is little danger of death, but, if not, the poisonous matter is absorbed and causes blood poisoning with generally fatal results.

"ONE HALF of the world don't know how the other half live," exclaimed a gossiping woman. "O well," said her neighbor, "don't worry about it; 'tisn't your fault if they don't."

Vennor for January 1883.

The weather prophet, Vennor, has made and published his weather bulletin for the present month. We give it for what it is worth. It may prove as accurate as the guesses made in the Farmer's Almanacs:

New Year's Day — All well snowed up, and probably New York and Washington, D. C.

The 3d, 4th and 5th—Brilliant and cold weather, with some low thermometer readings.

6th and 7th—A milder term commences, with snow-falls in Northern and Western sections. Snow, sleet and rain well to the Southward.

8th and 9th—Good deal of snow everywhere in Northern and Middle sections. A "dip" in temperature probable.

10th—Still, cold, steady Winter weather.

11th—Moderating.

12th and 13th—Cold again in the majority of sections. Generally cold weather.

14th—Moderating, heavy snow falls Westward.

15th—Blustry and drifty weather, with snow blockades.

16th—Chicago and Milwaukee well snowed in.

17th — General reports of snow storms West and Northwest.

18th and 19th — Moderate to mild weather, generally, with rains and light snow falls.

20th—A mild period. Rains and sleet.

21st—Overcast and moderate weather, possibly rain or snow.

22d—Moderate to mild weather continues.

23d—Change to colder weather.

24th—Colder, with Eastern snow falls.

25th—A fairly cold dip in many sections.

26th—Moderate to mild weather, with local snow falls.

27th—Snow and rain falls.

28th and 29th—Mild weather probably sets in with general thaw and break up in Northern sections, with wet snow falls and rains.

30th and 31st — Snow disappearing in many sections. Very mild, with rains in Western and Middle sections.

HOTEL CHARGES 53 YEARS AGO.

People who spend the winter in the fashionable hotels of Washington, paying $5 a day for a top room and from $15 to $20 for a parlor, may be interested to know that in the days of Gen. Jackson United States Senators never thought of paying more than $8 a week for their board, while less distinguished citizens were accommodated for $4 to $5. The Hon. Benjamin Patton, now of Defiance Co., Ohio, but at one time, some 53 years ago, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegany county, and always a strong Democrat, visited Washington in 1829 to witness the first inauguration of President Jackson, and has preserved the hotel bill which was presented him on the occasion of his first visit to the capital. It deserves to be printed as a curiosity. Following is the text:

WASHINGTON, March 6, 1829.

Mr. Patton to Mansion Hotel,	Dr.
March 1, supper, lodging and fire	$1 25
" 2, candles, 25; cigars, (5.) 25	50
" 3, candles	25
" 4, 4 days' board at $1.25	5 00
" 5, 4 days' fire at 50 cents	2 00
" 5, breakfast	50

It will be noticed that the most expensive item in the bill was for fuel—hickory logs, by the way. Were the $2 50 charged for fire stricken out of the bill, the board and cigars would have been just $7 00 for five day. When it is remembered that the Mansion—now Willard's—was at the time of Mr. Patton's visit, filled to overflowing with people who, like him, had come to see Jackson inaugurated, the cheapness of these rates will be all the more apparent.—Pittsburg Post.

For Farm Boys to Learn.

From a Western paper we extract the following practical remarks; they will be useful to every one on a farm: How many of the boys who read this paper could "lay off" an acre of ground exactly, providing one of the dimensions was given them? Now I have taken some pains to make out a table, and I would like to have every one of the farm boys learn it. There are 160 square roods in an acre, and there are 30¼ square yards in one rood. This gives 4,840 square yards in one acre:

5 yards wide by 368 yards long is 1 acre.
10 yards wide by 484 yards long is 1 acre.
20 yards wide by 242 yards long is 1 acre.
40 yards wide by 121 yards long is 1 acre.
80 yards wide by 60½ yards long is 1 acre.
70 yards wide by 69⅓ yards long is 1 acre.
60 yards wide by 80⅔ yards long is 1 acre.

Again, allowing nine square feet to the yard, 272¼ square feet to the rod, 43,560 square feet to the acre, and we have another table:

110 feet by 369 feet—1 acre.
120 feet by 363 feet—1 acre.
220 feet by 198 feet—1 acre.
240 feet by 181½ feet—1 acre.
440 feet by 90 feet—1 acre.

IF tramps only knew enough to go in gangs they would be called gypsies and be thought romantic.

A GREAT many politicians are called "dark horses," may be, because their records are so shady.

WE usually leave it to doctors to recommend medicine, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering, that we cannot say too much in its praise.—Salem Argus. See adv.

When other remedies fail get a Benson's Capcine Plaster.
