Chestertown,

SATURDAY MORNING.....FEB. 17, 1883

LETTER FROM STILL POND.

Messrs. Editors:—Our farmers are generally very well satisfied with the weather we have been having on wheat and peach crops, and are expecting an early Spring in which to push work forward, and hope for abundant harvests for '83.

Small-pox and vaccination are the topics of the day; they have supplanted the common-talk of the season about the peach crop. Some of our people are opposed to vaccination. Mr. Thomas Rasin, Sr., one of our old and highly respected citizens, is the leader of the anti-vaccination party, and to use one of his terms, "they do not like the rotten cow to course through their systems for seven years." One of Mr. Rasin's grandchildren was forbidden to attend the school because he would not let the doctor put the rotten cow in his arm; but we learn that he has made peace with the school board and the little fellow is going to school again.

The Still Pond M. E. Church is lying in a dormant state as far as building is concerned, but as soon as the season opens it will be pushed forward to completion, when it will present quite a beautiful appearance. While the church is being repaired the building committee have made the basement comfortable, and we are having most excellent sermons by our highly esteemed pastor, Rev. L. E. Barrett.

The young people of the vicinity being tired of spending the long winter evenings to themselves managed to arrange a sociable or surprise party to meet at Mr. J. F. Wilson's on the evening of the 1st inst.—being a complete surprise. The young people after receiving a hearty welcome made Mr. and Mrs. Wilson the guests of the evening. The time was spent in the enjoyment of amusing and instructive plays, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music after having partaken of the most excellent cake which the young ladies had prepared for the occasion, with other refreshments. The company dispersed at 11 o'clock, all agreeing that they had had a grand, sociable time. We have not heard of any harm coming from the party, except the loss of a few hours' sleep by the guests, and some of the fellows who had to go a long distance after their ladies; we have noticed one of the boys' eyes looking quite weak since.

Some of our estimable citizens recently made a very agreeable surprise to some of our worthy poor people, filling their larders with the substantials of life; thus elevating their opinions of humanity.

The news of the remanding by the Court of Appeals of the sale of the Webb farms reached us on the 1st inst. Messrs. Harper and Hepbron seem to be very well satisfied with their situation in the premises. But it gives the prosecution and their following a time of rejoicing. As the property is on the market again it will soon be seen if the remanding amounted to anything.

We have not heard of any small-pox being nearer us than Chestertown, and are in hopes we will not. FRANCIS.

SUPPER AND SOCIAL DANCE.

Messrs. Editors:—It was our good fortune to be one of those present at the supper and dance given by Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Lee, at their residence on the Baker farm, on Tuesday night last. The company numbered about ninety; they were from all parts of the county and a few from Queen Anne's, notwithstanding the condition of the roads. The dancing commenced at 8½ o'clock and was pursued without intermission until the small hours next morning. The music was by "Hodgkins' String Band," composed of five pieces. At 10 o'clock the supper began and was continued until 12. A long table was spread in the dining-room with all the delicacies of the season, such as would tempt the palate of the most fastidious, and to which ample justice was done by all. The guests were waited upon by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Lambert, Miss Ellen Copper, Messrs. Geo. W. Hatcherson, T. A. Fiddis and Thos. P. France, in their best style. "Uncle Bart." was among the number—not of the gay dancers—but seemed to enjoy it as much as if he were a participant, and watched the belles as they crossed and re-crossed in the giddy dance. Look out girls! Big Richard, of Worton, too, was on hand with his usual jest and fun, and when insisted upon by his partner to go home declared that he would not, singing, "We won't go home till morning." Altogether this was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. May our host and hostess long live to enjoy many happy returns of the scenes of Tuesday night.

Chestertown, Feb. 15. BACH.

THE following extract from the report of the State Board of Education which has been submitted to the Governor, will be read with special interest by both patrons and teachers of the public schools in this county.

SMALL SALARIES.—There are a number of schools in which the teachers receive a salary of less than $300 a year; and in which, necessarily, the ranks must be recruited from among those who have the minimum of preparation for their work; for it may be assumed that no one who has spent time and money in learning how to teach, will be willing to work for less than three hundred dollars a year. It is possible that at present, under peculiar circumstances, teachers may be found to do fair work at unfair rates, but where are the future teachers to come from? A wise farmer cultivates his land as cheaply as he can, but he never forgets that he must raise a crop next year as well as this."

THE HORSE THIEF DUNN RECOVERS HIS SPEECH.—Chas. Dunn whom our readers will remember as being arrested at Conowingo sometime ago having in his possession two horses belonging to a gentleman in Hopewell borough, Chester county, Pa., and after his arrest refused to talk, writing on a slate that his tongue had been paralysed, was given a trial at the Chester county court last week, and sentenced to five years imprisonment. He had been within the walls of the prison two months previous to his trial, during which time he never spoke a word but acted in a manner calculated to lead those around him to suppose that he was a sort of an imbecile. He would not sweep his cell or do anything that the other prisoners are compelled to do by the rules of the institution. This was considered by the keepers as a ruse in order to gain the leniency or sympathy of the Court, or in a measure, thwart the aims of justice. It so turned out that the official's idea of his strange conduct proved a correct one, for as soon as he received his sentence and was brought back to prison he began to swear like a trooper, and, to the astonishment of every one, rolled up his sleeves and set to work scrubbing the floor and otherwise improving the appearance of his 8x10 apartment. He is the person whom we have heretofore reported as being connected with the gang of men operating in the stealing and selling horses throughout this and other States.—Rising Sun Journal.

A SHARP CORRESPONDENCE.—The Rev. Dr. A. S. Patton, in the New York Weekly Baptist, recently made a severe onslaught on Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, accusing him of being an infidel, and of showing 'pure impertinence' in speaking of the services commemorating the life of the late Senator B. H. Hill. Mr. Ingalls responded that he declared in his brief tribute to the memory of Senator Hill, whom he honored as a man and loved as a friend, he presented "those reflections which arise in all thoughtful minds when meditating upon the impenetrable mystery which veils the future state of man from all, except the editor of the Baptist Weekly." Mr. Ingalls added that he has had some doubts hitherto whether eternal punishment was consistent with infinite love, but he is quite sure that "if there is no hell for such bigoted slanderers and malignant liars" as he conceives Dr. Patton, there ought to be. Dr. Patton now replies to this, quoting extracts from Ingalls's eulogy on Hill to prove his charge of infidelity. He says the terms applied to him by Ingalls are such "as a true gentleman would not use," and he expressed the hope that Ingalls may "attain repentance unto life, and, putting away all malice, evil-speaking, bribery and corrupt practices, finally be welcomed to the glorious rewards of the eternal hereafter."

THE REFORM MOOD was conspicuous in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives Monday, that body by a vote of 136 to 34 having placed on the calendar a bill making it a misdemeanor for State officers, judges and members of the Legislature to accept or use free passes on railroads. Both parties seemed anxious to get on the record as favoring the bill, whilst the small negative vote came principally from the republican side.

GREAT FLOODS IN THE WEST!

The Submerged Cities—A Gloomy Day at Cincinnati—Travel by Railway Interrupted—Business Practically Suspended.

Great floods have occurred in the West. A dispatch from Louisville, Ky., states that the entire northeastern part of the city is a picture of utter destruction. Thirty-five squares are inundated. The situation may be briefly summed up as follows:

All the point is under water, and the country beyond the cut-off, comprising 150 houses, and known as Bowleville, is flooded. Half of Portland and all of the shipping port are in the waves.

All day long a stream of people passed up and down the Shore line track to look at the ruin wrought by the swollen river. Houses are overturned, some on their sides and some almost on their roofs. Other buildings are crushed to pieces. Most of the houses are small cottages of frail construction, and perhaps one-third of those in the flooded locality have been swept from their foundations. In the lower hollows of the bottom lands the water is within a foot or two of the roofs of the houses. The entire neighborhood is doing all it can to succor the sufferers. Several persons were rescued along the wharf. The river is still rising an inch per hour, with a few inches over 38 feet in the canal, 36 feet 8 inches in the chute on the falls and 34 feet 2 inches over the rocks.

The rise is now an inch above the flood of 1847 and 8 inches below that of 1832. On the point where the disaster occurred last Tuesday night the flood extends over a space more than a quarter of a mile wide and more than a mile in length. Over two hundred and fifty houses are either under water or else floating about. Many are tied with heavy cables. A man, whose name was not learned, was seen frantically calling for help from the door of a house floating down the river at the foot of First street this afternoon, and was rescued with a skiff. He had been in the house all night and all day.

From Cincinnati.

Additional gloom was cast over the people this morning by the river rising under the influence of a steady hard rain, after it had fallen to 64 feet 10¾ inches. The rain advanced from the west, thus checking the river's fall, and extended as far as Pittsburg.

Herman Wilsberg, a boy living at No. 17 Wellstock street, says that he and his brother Joseph and thirteen other boys were on the platform when the water broke through McLane avenue, and that the entire party were thrown into the water; that he swam to Gest street, escaped and went home; that his brother and all the other boys were drowned. He does not know the names of the other boys. No other reports of missing boys have been made to the police.

The river at 9 o'clock to-night was sixty-six feet three-quarter inch above lower water mark, and rising slowly. The day has been the gloomiest in the history of the city. Business was wholly neglected on 'Change, all attention being given to saving property and affording relief. While the unexpected rise of nearly a foot today has not made a very great change apparently in the situation, there is such an uncertainty about the future that all plans are unsettled.

But a single road is now able to reach the depot—that is the Cincinnati Northern, the narrow gauge, which comes into the city over hill-top, and has a depot ten squares from the river. Not a steamer is running. There is no place to land.

SHE "WALTZED" HIM TO THE STATION-HOUSE.—The lot of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaeng is not a happy one. They have quarelled repeatedly, and on several occasions, it is said, he has attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat and taking laudanum. Last week he was tried in the Criminal Court of Baltimore on an indictment charging him with assaulting his wife, Mrs. Gaeng is about 30 years old. She is good-looking, and her figure, though large, is rounded and shapely. Mr. Gaeng is short and thin, and resembles the apothecary in "Romeo and Juliet." There is but very little hair on the top of Mr. Gaeng's head. His counsel was Col. Frank X. Ward. Mr. Campbell appeared for the State.

Said Mrs. Gaeng: "My husband and I have not lived together for six months on account of his habit of drinking. I reside at No. 4 Davis street, where I keep a saloon. On January 10 he came to the house and asked for a glass of beer. I told him that I did not want to have anything more to do with him, and that if he did not leave I would call the police. I had hardly finished speaking when he struck me on the nose and mouth with his fist. I fell back against the wall. As soon as he saw the blood on my face he ran out into the street. I followed him, for I was mad. When he turned the corner he slipped and rolled over in the snow. Then I grabbed him back of the neck and waltzed him into the central police station."

"You did what?" asked Col. Ward.

"I waltzed him into the station-house and laid a charge against him; that's what I did."

Said Mrs. Cumberland, sister of Mrs. Gaeng: "Annie's to blame for the whole trouble, though I say it, who shouldn't," and she cried.

Said Mr. Gaeng: "I went to the house to get a book that belonged to me. My wife has taken possession of nearly all my property. While in the saloon I asked for a glass of beer, which she refused to give me. She ordered me to leave, and then tried to put me out. As she came toward me she had a shovel in her hand. In resisting her attack my fist accidentally struck her. She followed me into the street, and I walked away. I did not run. When I fell down she caught hold of me and forcibly took me to the station."

Said State's Attorney Campbell to the jury: "This is a plain case, gentlemen, of a husband cowardly assaulting his wife. What do you think of a man who is mean enough to strike a woman? Shame on him!"

Said Colonel Ward to the jury: "Look you, gentlemen, at the pale, haggard face of my client, and then at the vigorous, muscular appearance of his wife. Is it not preposterous to suppose so weak a man could nearly knock down so strong a woman? The truth of the matter is, he went to the house, saw the amazon, and was hers. Poor, unfortunate fellow, how I pity him! And you too, gentlemen of the jury, will, I know sympathize with him if you are married men, and if you are unmarried, then I hope sincerely you'll be warned by his lamentable fate."

Said the jury: "Not guilty."—Sun.

JURY-FIXERS CAUGHT.—A sensation has been created in New York by the arrest of Wm. T. McGrath, a lawyer: Patrick Cunningham, registering clerk in the office of the commissioner of jurors; Alfred J. Keegan, deputy commissioner of jurors, and James N. Jarvis, assistant deputy commissioner of jurors. McGrath is accused of having bribed the other three to leave the names of certain citizens off the jury lists, and the three others are accused of having accepted bribes. If the charges against the four men are proved true it will be shown that for a number of years thousands of citizens of New York, including many conspicuous people, have escaped jury duty by the payment of sums greatly in excess of the fine imposed by law for non-attendance. The profits of this business Commissioner of Jurors Caulfield puts at $100,000 a year.

THE small-pox is rapidly getting foothold in some of the rural districts of Somerset county. There is a colored settlement in Dames Quarter district, of which we made mention two weeks ago, in which there are at least 60 cases of said disease, and some say the cases will number 75. There were five deaths on Friday and three on Sunday. Twenty or more families, all colored, are afflicted, and the majority are in destitute circumstances, and we think the commissioners of the county should take steps to render immediate aid in the premises. The question first to be considered by that body is, how can they aid the sufferers, and stamp out the disease? Would it not be well to call a meeting of the citizens of the county and get some practical ideas as to the best course to be pursued?—Somerset Herald.

SINGULAR WEDDING.—At Frankfort, a suburb of Philadelphia, Saturday evening, R. R. Moffitt, a tattooed man, and Miss Leo Hermandez, the "Spanish bearded lady," were united in the bonds of matrimony. The bride has a black beard three inches long, and the groom is as handsome a piece of Mosaic work as there is in America. Miss Leo is 26 years old and her husband has passed 40. Miss Leo wanted to have her beard shaved off in honor of the occasion, but Mr. Moffitt, who is of a practical turn of mind, opposed it, on the ground that she might not be able to raise another crop, in which event her value as a "curiosity" would be totally destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Moffitt went to New York on a wedding tour.

A HOUSE CARRIED AWAY.—A dispatch from Louisville, Ky., dated Feb. 13, says:

Today Mayor Jacob chartered the steamer Mattie Hays, with a corps of men, and traversed the submerged district, taking off a number of persons and supplying food. One man was found clinging to a tree. As the men approached he cried out, "Go over to that house. There is a woman and several children over there. I will hold here until you save them." The house was fifty yards away. The men started, but before they reached it the house turned over and was carried away in the rush of waters. The man clinging to the tree was rescued, and declared that a woman and several children were in the house, when it turned over.

FOUND IN LARGE CAVES IN THE WEST INDIES.

The deposits were discovered some two years ago by the owners, who last Fall sent samples to this country by a sea captain, which we obtained, and by analysis found it to be very valuable, containing all the elements of plant food—being a complete fertilizer without manipulation. The Island was visited by our senior in December, 1882, for the purpose of exploring and contracting with the natives, the original owners, for the entire deposits, which arrangement has been effected. Samples, with full analysis made by Dr. G. A. Liebig, can be seen at our office, and the goods now in stock at our Factory WILL BE PUT ON THE MARKET THIS SPRING in connection with Our STANDARD and EXTANT BONE SUPER PHOSPHATES, at prices based upon cash value, adding interest upon all bills sold on time. Will also furnish the "O. B." from warehouse in Baltimore City to any parties desiring, large lots of which we propose to sell very close above the price of importation.
