SATURDAY MORNING.....AUG. 25, 1883.

KENT CO. AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

CLUB ROOM, August 20, 1883.

Messrs. Editors:—The meeting of today is small—unusually so. Some may have found it inconvenient to attend from the fact that the peach crop—in the midst of which we are—is larger than it has been supposed it would be. Others may have regarded the work uninteresting because of its pertaining largely to preparations for the approaching fair! And others—perhaps the greater number—may have preferred to attend the attractive sale now going on in the neighborhood. Be this as it may, sufficient were out to transact necessary business and map out work for the meeting of next Monday, such as is thought will interest, not only members, but all farmers, and those who sympathize with them. Subject for discussion—FERTILIZERS. Dr. A. P. Sharp, a well known chemist, has expressed his intention to be present and participate. MEMBER.

DEATH OF JUDGE BLACK.

Judge Jeremiah S. Black died on Sunday at his county home near York, Pa., in his seventy-fourth year. In announcing his death the Baltimore Sun says: American statesmanship, law and literature each suffer the loss of a brilliant ornament and representative. Although his professional pursuits occupied the greater part of his time, and his triumphs as a judge and a lawyer naturally fill up the larger portion of his career, his achievements in the fields of statecraft and literature were so signal and so remarkable that it is perhaps difficult to say in which of these three spheres he will be most greatly missed.—As a lawyer, a country and a century prolific of keen legal intellects have produced few minds that could lay claim to equal clearness and logical force. The blood of the sturdy Scotch-Irish and German settlers of Pennsylvania mingled in his veins, and seemed to give to his brain an aggressive vitality and intellectual vigor and combativeness that made him, as if by nature, snuff the battle of debate from afar off, and to delight in the sternest of mental conflicts. The law afforded him a field where he could display in a masterly way all the most marked qualities of his mind, and where to legal learning he could add eloquence and wit, satire and invective. He will be remembered, however, in his capacity as a lawyer longest and most gratefully for his manful and magnificent defense of the constitution of the United States from the insidious attacks which were made upon it under the guise of law after the civil war. The greatest constitutional lawyer of the present day, the embodied principles of popular government have lost in him a champion and defender whose like many generations may not produce. Strong, however, as were Judge Black's convictions on every subject, he showed while on the bench that he was above the reach of any motives which could degrade or smirch his position. No influence, political or personal, could rise to the higher atmosphere of his judicial station to cloud his vision or swerve his course. Absolutely honest, the judicial ermine that he cast aside when he left the bench was whiter than when he put it on. As a just and upright judge and a model of calm impartiality and blameless integrity, he won a judicial fame that should ever be the pride and ornament of the bench. His public career, though comparatively brief, was sufficient to show that Judge Black combined within himself other qualities than those of a judge or a lawyer. He had in him the powers and possibilities of a great statesman, and under different circumstances and conditions would probably have filled a more prominent page in national history. As it was, he showed in his brief hour of opportunity what he could do, and then, like the valiant man of the people that he was, went back to the ranks without a murmur. But, while not filling any public station, his sage advice and counsel were frequently moulding and directing the course of events, and were the secret pages of political history revealed it might be found, perhaps, that some of the brightest inspirations, as well as some of the most striking political phrases and suggestions of more than one administration were drawn from this unfailing source. Great as a judge and lawyer, wise as a national counselor, as a polemical writer, it would be difficult in the whole range of modern literature to name Judge Black's superior. Gifted with a remarkable memory, he had swept over almost the whole field of things excellent in ancient and modern writings, and with the mental digestion of an ostrich had assimilated and made them all his own. A master of fence as well as style, he drew things new and old from an inexhaustible storehouse, and overwhelmed his adversaries with the character and extent of his resources.

FAREWELL TO A MISSIONARY AND HIS BRIDE.—A farewell reception was given last night at Starr M. P. Church, South Poppleton street, to Rev. Frederick C. Klein and wife, who will leave Baltimore today and sail September 1 from San Francisco for Japan as missionaries of the Methodist Protestant Church. Rev. Dr. J. Thomas Murray, president of Maryland Conference, made an address, presenting to Rev. Mr. Klein $266 for his work and a purse of $80 for personal use. A quilt in which are 2,500 autograph signatures was also given. Short speeches were made by Rev. Wm. S. Hammond and Dr. E. J. Drinkhouse, and Rev. Mr. Klein made an able address on Japan, his chosen field of labor. A social meeting followed, during which the people took leave of the young missionaries. Rev. Mr. Klein is a Baltimorean and graduated at Western Maryland College, Westminster. He was stationed at Wilmington, Delaware, and gave up his pastorage there to accept the missionary post. He is the first male missionary sent out by the Methodist Protestant Church, which has now two American ladies in Japan. A building has been purchased in Yokohama for a school, and Rev. Mr. Klein will have charge of it. On Thursday last Mr. Klein and Miss Mary Patten were married at her home in Pittsburg. They were only acquainted three months. The young lady take a deep interest in missionary work.—Sun, 22.

DEATH OF A MINISTER.—Rev. Greenbury W. Ridgeley, a venerable minister of the Episcopal Church, died at the residence of his son, Dr. W. S. Ridgeley, in Caroline county, Md., last week, aged 86 years. He was a native of Elkridge, Md., was admitted to the Maryland bar in 1819, and shortly afterward settled in Lexington, Ky., where for a brief period he was the law partner of the distinguished statesman, the Hon. Henry Clay.—He afterwards graduated at the Theological Seminary at Princeton, N. J., and entered the ministry of the Episcopal Church. About the year 1858 he made large investments in real estate in Caroline county, and soon removed there with his family, where he has since resided.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—While a beam was being put in place in Singerly's pulp mills, in course of erection at Elkton, Md., yesterday week, it fell to the ground, carrying with it several carpenters to the ground 25 feet below. Daniel Arbuckle, Jesse Otley, C. Garrett, Thomas Kelly, Elmer and Frank Miller were more or less severely bruised. James P. Merritt, a merchant, who was looking on, had a leg broken.

MISS HUBBARD, a daughter of Thos. Hubbard, of the Neck district Dorchester county, was killed Saturday afternoon by being thrown from a carriage. She lived but fifteen minutes after the accident.

DIAMOND STATE SUPER PHOSPHATE AND DIAMOND STATE SOLUABLE BONE are probably the most popular fertilizers manufactured for wheat. In quality, mechanical and drilling condition, they cannot be surpassed.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of Friday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry $1 16@1 20; Fultz $1 14@1 18 for fair to good. CORN—White, prime 62@65; yellow, 63@65. OATS, Maryland, 38.

VIEWS OF A STATESMAN.

Some of the Greatest Issues of the Campaign.

Hon. Robert M. McLane, who is so prominently spoken of as the Democratic standard-bearer in Maryland next fall, was in Washington a few days ago. A representative of the Baltimore Sun asked Mr. McLane "What will be the policy of the democratic party in view of its divisions and how will it stand in comparison to the republican, who seem to be making an effort to capture the Baltimore city and Maryland State government, as well as retain national power, while at the same time they are having trouble with the colored voters and other internal dissensions?"

In response Mr. McLane said: "Your questions are very comprehensive, and cover the whole field of national and State politics. I have no aspirations or inclinations which impel me to anticipate the time when these questions will be discussed by the nominating conventions and candidates of the democratic party. Therefore anything I might say would be due solely to the courtesy which I always extend to any representative of the press. I have no doubt that these conventions and their candidates will be fully competent to set forth and vindicate the policy and principles of the democratic party, and I shall contribute to them my support cordially and to the best of my ability. This resolution on my part naturally implies that in my opinion the best interests of the country and Maryland are involved in the success of the democratic party, and that a fair and full discussion will insure that desirable consummation. In Maryland and Baltimore particularly the past history of the democratic party, in comparison with that of the republican party, will prove a source of pride and satisfaction to those associated with the former; and as to the divisions in its ranks to which you refer, I have only to observe that such divisions are beneficial when they do not degenerate into revengeful passion or headstrong persistence. These divisions are quite as serious in the one party as the other, and in both are often manifested with intolerance.—The good sense of the people, however, has generally secured for both an opportunity to decide intelligently all questions that are submitted for their arbitrament. Especially will this be the case when the great questions connected with the labor and industry of the country are sure to be agitated and discussed. In this discussion I have no doubt that the candidates of the democratic party will be able to show to the satisfaction of the people that though labor and capital are always interwoven, the one with the other, yet that the rights of the former need and will receive protection, while the inevitable increase of the latter shall operate to the advantage and not to prejudice of the country. The negro question, to which you refer, will like the labor question receive its best solution from the democratic party, by securing to the colored citizen his civil equality and all the political and educational privileges secured to the white citizen, without condition or efforts to enslave and degrade him to dishonorable political servitude."

HENRY STUDY, on dying at Ransom, Ill., has left a strangely acquired fortune of $65,000. He was a cripple from birth. At the close of the war he donned the uniform of a soldier, made up a pathetic story of having been wounded in battle, and went on a tour as a beggar. He was wonderfully successful by reason of his clever talk and miserable appearance, and in three years accumulated the sum mentioned. He ever afterwards lived idly on the interest.

ALECK MCCLUNG, a noted Mississippi soldier and lieutenant-colonel of Jeff. Davis' famous rifles, carried a jeweled sword through the Mexican war, and on dying willed it to his nephew. But it fell into the hands of his sister, whose daughter now has it and will not give it up. The nephew is sueing to get the heirloom, and says he is willing to spend $10,000.

A WITNESS before the Senate Labor Committee, in New York, Tuesday testified that the waiters in the beer-saloons are often "German noblemen and Russian princes." These haughty aristocrats take to beer-gardens as asnaturally Italian noblemen do to peanut-stands.

SECTION 34. And be it enacted, That if any officer of registration shall fraudulently register, or fraudulently permit to be registered in any registry of voters, or in any list of qualified and registered voters in his charge as officer of registration, any person who is not entitled to be registered therein as a qualified voter, or if any other person not authorized by the proper Judges or Judge, shall inscribe the name of any person as a qualified and registered voter in any registry of voters, or in any list of qualified and registered voters, or if any officer of registration shall fraudulently refuse or omit to register, or shall fraudulently misspell in any registry of voters, or in any list of qualified and registered voters in his charge as an officer of registration, the name of any person entitled under the provisions of this Act to have his name inscribed in such registry of voters, or if any officer of registration shall fraudulently strike from any registry of voters, or from any list of qualified and registered voters in his charge as an officer of registration, the name of any qualified and registered voter entitled to remain inscribed upon such registry of voters or list of qualified and registered voters, or if any person not authorized by the proper order of the Judges or Judge, shall fraudulently strike from any registry of voters, or list of qualified and registered voters, the name of any person therein inscribed as a qualified and registered voter, or if any officer of registration shall enter the name of any person as a qualified voter in any registry of voters in his charge, as an officer of registration, at any time, except on a day appointed by this Act for one of his public sittings as an officer of registration, and except between the hours appointed for such public sitting, or if any officer of registration shall do any act which is by this Act forbidden to be by him done, or shall omit to do any act which is by this Act required to be by him done, such officer of registration, whether he be a principal or assistant officer, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof by a competent Court, shall be punished by fine, not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding three years, or both fine and imprisonment as aforesaid.
